Sponges, False Teeth, Heels Made of Cotton or Wood

M. H. Bruner, DuPont Representative, Lectures During Chapel Program

Plastic tips for shoe strings, plastic non-suff coverings for women's heels and a plastic paint that will not chip are just a few of the things M. H. Bruner, agricultural consultant for the DuPont agricultural extension division showed the students of Senior high in assembly last Tuesday.

All of these products replace some substance formerly imported. These substitutes are usually made from the simplest farm products, like cotton or wood.

Another interesting item demonstrated was a 720 page book which was reproduced completely on approximately a yard of film. Mr. Bruner said that quantities of V-mail worked in much the same manner.

Next, he exhibited some plastic rods which conduct light around corners, strange as it may seem.

Mr. Bruner said that science has made it possible for Mary or John (if they are so inclined) to have blue eyes one day and brown eyes the next. This is made easy by the new "invisible" glasses. These glasses are thin lenses which fit next to the eyeball.

After the war, tennis racquet strings, rope, bristles of brushes and screening will all be made from plastic.

Also, when Johnny comes marching home, he will find fire-proof curtains. He (Johnny) is already familiar with water-proof cloth, for many of his clothes were chemically treated.

Plastic screening will be very useful after the war when it is manufactured in great quantities for use at beaches and around salt water especially. The sea air and salt water spray have no effect on this new screening.

Mr. Bruner held up a soft, silky, tan object and said, "Girls this is a pair of nylon hose."

A great sigh of disbelief occurred first and if he had not quickly replaced them, Mr. Bruner might have been stamped for everyone knows how the shortage of nylons affects the members of the student body. However, he assured the young ladies that as soon as the war is over, nylon will again be used for hose as well as parachutes.

In closing, Mr. Bruner said there was a big opening in science for high school students in the post-war world.

DeMolay members on the social committee who will be in charge of ticket sales include Douglas Cobb, Willard Dyer, and Charles Wells.

On display in the library are 72 trophies won by students at Senior High in past years. These trophies date back to 1910 and will be on display through Tuesday of next week, according to the librarian.

Although they have been in the main hall trophy cases for years, many students have never examined them.

President Of Student Body Announces Candidates And Delegates' Meeting

College Day To Be May 5th; Armed Services Included

Following the precedent set in years past, Senior High plans to hold College day on Wednesday, May 5; however, this year it is hoped that representatives from the Army, Navy and Marine Corps (including the WAAC and the WAVES), will be present with representatives from approximately 30 colleges of North Carolina and adjoining states.

The College day committee is composed of representatives from the homerooms as follows:

Room 3 (Burnside)—Corinne Abernethy.

Room 4 (Brendle)—Rachel Johnson.

Room 6 (Caldwell)—George Curran.

Room 8 (Lesley)—Mary Ann Mitchell.

Room 10 (Burnette)—Bob McFarland.

Room 100 (White)—Mary Frances Stack.

Room 200 (Masters)—Margaret Adams.

Room 202 (Walker)—Betty Wilson.

Room 204 (Strickland)—Kathryn Cassidy.

Room 300 (Mims)—Neil Riddle.

Room 307 (Cauley)—Reece Harry.

Due to the fact that so many of the senior class will be entering military service, and to find out if a college day is timely, the following form was passed around to the senior homerooms: "I expect next year to (1) to go to college, (2) to go into military service, (3) to go to work. If you expect to go to college indicate your choice of three schools. If you expect to go into military service, indicate your two choices. If you expect to go to work indicate your preference: would a college day be helpful to you in making your plans for another year? Answer, (1) yes, (2) no, (3) I don't care.

On Wednesday morning a meeting of the College Day committee was held. Yesterday members reported the plans to their respective homerooms.

The Student Council met Monday afternoon to make final plans for the coming spring convention and elections. Margaret Daniel Wilkerson, chairman of the elections board, and Tim Warner, president of the student body, presented the following plan which is subject to change:

April 16—meeting of candidates; April 20—presentation of candidates in chapel; April 21—Delegates meeting; April 28—convention; May 3, 4—registration; May 5, 6—voting.

All delegates have been chosen and will be instructed by their respective homerooms how to vote at a date to be announced. Not only the delegates, but the homerooms will be present at the opening session of the convention. Since, however, the workings of this convention are somewhat complicated, President Warner will explain publicly the details of this electoral body.

It has been decided by the elections board and the Student Council that the only candidates who will be required to make campaign speeches are the ones running for president and vice-president of the student body. Since this is the first time that the office of Traffic Chief has appeared on the ballot, aspirants to this office may be asked to make a short speech.

Each speech to be made should not be longer than two minutes but should set forth the aims of that candidate clearly and precisely. Successful candidates, however, will make acceptance speeches in the chapel program immediately following the elections.

Faculty Club Holds Party Tonight At Woman's Club

The Faculty club is having a party tonight at the Woman's club at 8 o'clock. This is the first social affair the club has had for a long while, since the ban on pleasure driving and illness of members caused cancellation of the fall party.

The committee planning the party, which will consist mainly of rummy and bridge, is headed by Miss Cleo Brendle.

The officers of the faculty club are: president, Mrs. Blanche Smith; vice-president, Miss Cleo Brendle; secretary, Miss Doris Hutchinson; and treasurer, Miss Gertrude Farlow.

According to the president, Mrs. Smith, the party will consist of four tables of bridge and two of rummy with prizes offered in both games.

Guilford College Offers Six New Scholarships

Six competitive scholarships are waiting for as many lucky young men of Greensboro. The scholarships, amounting to 100 dollars each are being offered by Guilford College. Guilford often called "Greensboro's Home College for Men," is seeking to enforce this slogan. Helping to do this is the Greensboro advisory Board which has recognized the close ties between the city and college. It wishes to place emphasis upon that fact and has raised the necessary funds to establish six competitive scholarships.

Prominent Greensboro citizens on the Greensboro Advisory Board of Guilford college include D. E. Hudzins, William H. Andrews, Britt M. Armfield, N. S. Calhoun, Benjamin Cone, Jos. D. Cox, F. Duval Craven, Robert H. Frazier, C. W. Phillips, H. W. Kendall, Huger S. King, John Van Lindley, John S. Patterson, W. H. Sullivan and David J. White.

Senior High Qualifies As 'Victory School'

Co-Recreational Committee Planning Easter Dance

The next dance on the schedule for G. H. S. students will be held on Thursday night, April 22 at 8 o'clock. Music will be furnished by Carl Pritchard and his band and the admission will be 50c for couples and 35c for singles.

On Friday, April 9, Senior high school and the Co-recreational Committee sponsored its first dance since Halloween. The dance was held in the afternoon beginning at 4:15 and the music was furnished by the school's nickelodeon.

Mrs. Clark McNairy, chairman of the co-recreational committee, is assisted this month by Miss Sara Mims, Mrs. Callie Braswell and Miss June Wilson. The committee met two weeks ago to plan the two dances. The sub-committees are the following: publicity, Charles Wagoner, Ada Sue McBane and Rachel Johnson; music, Martha Moring, Rachel Johnson and "Dinky" Bradford; cold drinks, Harold Howell and Sara Ann Posser.

Due to the ban on pleasure driving, the committee suspended entertainment for the winter months.

Greensboro Senior high school would qualify as a victory school according to certain standards set up by the U. S. Office of Education.

The victory school qualifications are given to a school if it possesses certain prerequisites.

"Does your school teach pre-induction courses in the regular curriculum?" was one of the queries submitted by government agency. Greensboro high offers pre-induction mathematics and pre-induction aerodynamics as well as higher mathematics and science courses which aid the prospective inductee.

"Does your school sponsor military drill in its Victory Corps program or in any other branch of its curriculum?" Senior high can meet this qualification since it sponsors military drill under the direction of N. C. State Guard officers in the physical education classes of the school.

"To what extent have you carried your Victory Corps?" was another question asked by the communication which was sent to all high school principals.

Although Greensboro Senior high school has not followed the regular organization of the High School Student Victory Corps, it has to a great degree adopted its school program to fit into the war effort.

House Cleaning Week Invades Senior High!

If a visitor had chanced to walk into G. H. S. during the past week, he might have found himself in the midst of the traditional spring cleaning.

Although housewives have long considered it absolutely essential to conduct strenuous cleaning episodes within the premises of the home, students have never felt particularly inclined along those lines.

Now, however, for one week the whole school has engaged in a clean-up week. Windows which have been encased in dust and decorated with fingerprints have assumed a slight transparency under the hands of Miss Cathleen Pike's and Miss Sara Mims' students.

The desks in Miss Lily Walker's room have taken on a new smoothness, due to the influence of wax.

Miss Agnes McDonald has been giving instructions in the age-old art of dish-washing. In the future, the chemistry equipment will glow from much polishing.

And so the visitor would have retired inconspicuously, all doubts removed about the younger generation going to the dogs.
