

20 Clubs Elect 'Miss G. H. S.' Candidates

Contest Begins Today; Votes Cost One Cent; Winner Will Be Crowned On Carolina Theatre Stage Nov. 27

Elected on the basis of looks, personality and general all round attractiveness, 20 girls, one from each of Senior's clubs and organizations, will make up the candidates for the coveted title of Miss G. H. S. in the second annual contest sponsored by High Life, according to the committee faculty advisers, Mrs. Jean L. Holland, Miss Lucille Brown, and Mrs. Grace Wilson.

Movie Ticket Sale Will Finance Hut

"If I'm Lucky," the movie shown at the Carolina Theatre the beginning of this week, is one of a series of movies which the Student Council and Recreation Council are sponsoring jointly in order that the school may purchase a recreation hut.

In cooperation with Norris Hadaway, manager of the Carolina Theatre and finance chairman of the Parent-Teacher Association, once a month Senior High students will sell tickets for a movie with a part of the proceeds going to the "recreation hut" fund. These movies will be the best that the theatre has to offer.

According to Jim Finch, president of the Student Council, the reason for selling tickets is that the council wants to give each student a part in raising funds for the hut, which will be used by other classes in the future.

The hut will be put up as soon as conditions permit, and the support of each student is asked because the more support, the sooner G.H.S. will have a recreation hut.

Temporary plans for the hut included a building, approximately 24x60, which will be purchased from ORD. Outstanding features of the building where the future school social life will be centered are a big, open fireplace at one end, ping pong and pool tables, and a juke box.

Vets' Recognition Day Observed At Senior High

Veteran's Recognition Day was observed at Senior High School, Wednesday, November 6, as it was throughout Greensboro.

Seated on the stage during the program were all the students enrolled in the veteran's school as well as the veteran's enrolled in the regular high school.

The program was opened by a group of selections by the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Harriman, and a solo "The Lord's Prayer" sung by Lyndon Sikes, who was accompanied by Dolores Dunstan. Dr. E. H. Meese, president of the Greensboro Ministerial Association, offered the opening prayer and was followed by Jim Finch, president of the student body, who read the names of all former alumni of Senior High School who made the supreme sacrifice during the past international conflict. Two veterans, now enrolled in the veteran's school, then removed the service flag from the front of the auditorium.

The main speaker for the program was Mr. Norman Block, a local attorney, who is a former student president of G.H.S. and who served with the Navy during World War II in the Pacific Theater. He emphasized in his speech not the terrible aspect of the war, but some of the humorous things which occurred to him while in the service.

Following the dismissal from school, the band led the Veteran's Day parade through the heart of Greensboro to Memorial Stadium, where it—along with all returned Greensboro veterans—it was a guest of the city at a barbecue dinner.

Climax of the contest, which opens today, will come when the queen is crowned by the co-editors of High Life on the stage of the Carolina Theater Wednesday night, November 27, between the 7 and 9 o'clock shows.

Having been chosen first by popular vote in their own organizations, the candidates will begin today soliciting votes from both the students body and townspeople at one cent each. Each girl will have a campaign manager. Both may keep votes secured for that contestant until Tuesday morning, November 26, when the money will be turned in to Miss Brown.

All the clubs and organizations around school are represented. The girls whom they have chosen are: Lois Bowman, Dolores Hadaway, Emily Ann Dees, Alice McGee, Mary Reynolds, Helen Mae Sarles, Lucile Driver, Doris Cooper, Betty Lou Moore, Carrie Chamberlain, Martha Graves, Fran Pearman, Betty Marie Jones, Betty Mooneyham, Raynelle Campbell, Edna Warden, Naida Lyon, Martha Nell Keith.

Class Rings Ordered By Juniors, Seniors

GHS juniors and seniors crowded to the school supply store October 29 and 30 to order their class rings, which will be delivered next spring through the Seburn Jewelry Company.

Mr. Ronald Reed, representative of the Star Engraving Co. of Houston, Texas, was here at that time to record the information each person wanted engraved on this ring and to find his size.

Senior High has a contract with this company, and therefore gets the rings for students at the contract price of $9.10, which is, of course, subject to the 20% federal tax on jewelry.

Famous Cymbalist To Visit Senior High

Cyrus C. Cymbalo, a former student at Senior High School and now one of the foremost musicians in the world, will return to his alma mater to present the first of his fall concerts on the east coast in a special assembly program November 31. Mr. Cymbalo, a recognized authority on the origin and development of 26-inch cymbals in the United States and Afghanistan, is generally considered to be the finest cymbalist in rural Guilford County and is placed among the thousand best cymbalists in the western hemisphere.

Mr. Cymbalo, a member of the class of 1902, was prominent while at G. H. S., both in scholastic and athletic events. In his senior year he made the D honor roll every six week grading period with the exception of two, and he was also first assistant, substitute water boy for the junior varsity volleyball team. The knob at the top of the present flag pole was placed there by the class of 1902 and the Monogram Club in honor of his athletic prowess.

Upon graduating from high school, Mr. Cymbalo attended the Southside Conservatory of Music where he majored in cymbals and graduated in 1921, the fourth in his class of three. In 1927 he toured Africa where he appeared in a command performance before King Zulu

Beauty, Brains Combine To Make Typical High School Glamour Girl

The recent election of candidates for Miss G. H. S. shows that Senior High's most popular girls have not only beauty and personality plus, but brains, as well. From clubs consisting of Senior High students and distinctive classes of the school come these representatives.

The Girls' Athletic Council presents Naida Lyon as their ideal of what Miss G. H. S. should be. Naida is a vivacious sports enthusiast who demonstrates this in her zeal for going out for after school sports. Boasting 13 hours in the air, she someday hopes to get her pilot's license.

Musically inclined Martha Graves has the orchestra backing her. "Chic" is the word for this talented lass, whom everyone identifies by the inevitable flower in her hair. To get a driver's license is Martha's most serious ambition at the present.

Doris Cooper can well be called the "chief morale builder" for the football team, for she holds the position of head cheerleader. Next to cheering for the team, Doris likes to play basketball and does very well at that, as last year's record shows. She is the candidate for the recreation committee.

The literary society of G.H.S., Quill and Scroll, selects Mary Reynolds as "the" girl. You'll find her as charming as she is brilliant when you talk with her on her favorite subject—New York and Physical Education.

Blond Dolores Hadaway can be recognized by her large and beautiful blue eyes. She is supported by the Junior Class Y-Teen, of which she is a faithful member. Dolores spends hours listening to her favorite records and dreaming of the days when her experience with the Dramatics Club will come in handy.

Membership Drive For J.C.P.A. Started

Season memberships are now available for a series of programs which will be presented throughout the winter and spring by the Junior Civic Program Association. For the first time there will be two groups of programs—one for children in the elementary grades and one for high school pupils. This will enable the members to see programs which fit their age groups and will also give twice as much seating space. All programs will be presented at 3 p.m. in Aycock auditorium.

Versatile Edna Warden displays her sparkling personality on Friday nights when she yells for the Whirlies until her voice is hoarse. Contrasted with the loud and lusty singing of a cheerleader is the way she sings "soft and sweet" for the choir, her sponsor.

Candidate for the Sophomore Y-Teen is Emily Ann Dees, a bewitching green-eyed blonde. She loves to play the piano, which is shown by her interest in the Junior Euterpe Club.

From the D. O. Club comes lovely Raynell Campbell, who is potentially a career woman. Raynell's dearest ambition is to be an air line hostess, for it would give her a chance to do what she likes best—to fly.

The D. E. Club chose their secretary, Betty Mooneyham, to be their candidate for Miss G.H.S. As a member of a local bowling league, Betty thinks there's nothing like ten ten pins to give you vim and vigor.

Selected by the cheerleaders is lovable Muriel Register, a sophomore. With laughing eyes and a ready smile, she makes a hit wherever she goes.

Pat Anderson, another of G.H.S.'s pulchritudinous cheerleaders, represents the Junior Class Hi-Y. She is usually decked out in pink, her favorite color.

One of the most outstanding scholars and musicians in school has been nominated by Torchlight for Miss G.H.S. Helen Mae Sarles, when not accompanying someone for an assembly program, can be seen—band uniform and all—playing the bells at football games and all notable occasions.

From the band comes petite Carrie Chamberlain to enter the race for Miss G.H.S. A member of the May Court last year and present secretary of the student body, her popularity among students has been proven many times. Talented Carrie is widely known for her distinctive and original art work.

Newly elected D.A.R. Pilgrimage representative, blond Betty Lou Moore is the student Council's choice. She excels in her leadership ability and is one of the few gold star wearers.

Vivacious Alice McGee is an active member of the band. The High Life staff—her sponsor—deems her one of its most valuable members, for her red glasses, good looks, and keen sense of humor boost its morale.

Brunette Lucile Driver, proudly wearing her gold star, is the representative from the Dramatics Club.

Remembered for her participation in all of Senior's beauty contests, Lois Bowman now takes her place as a candidate for Miss G.H.S. from the Senior Class Y-Teen Club.

A newcomer to the cheering squad this year, Fran Pearman from the three combined Glee Clubs, is already recognized for her vibrant personality.

Scoreless Tie Is Result Of Whirlie-Bison Game

By CHARLEE MELVIN

In a Notre Dame-Army classic of Guilford County, Greensboro High's Purple Whirlwinds fought a stubborn High Point eleven to a 0-0 deadlock last Friday night, to retain their position of loop leaders of the Western Conference, before an all-time record crowd of 11,000 fans in the "Furniture City's" Albion Mills Stadium.

Despite its scoreless nature, the game was thrill-packed from the opening kick-off to the closing whistle, with a win in anybody's reach. Actual statistics show that Greensboro outdid the Bison in everything but punting, and this one factor may have been the dividing point between victory and a scoreless tie for the Whirlies.

Although Greensboro's net yards rushing records and first downs gained completely overshadow High Point's figures in these departments, the booming boots of Frank Von Drehle took the Bison out of hot water more than once. Though the Whirlies marched within the shadow of the Bison's goal posts on three separate occasions, the High Pointers threw up such an air-tight defense that all three bogged down before a tally could be pushed over.

The whole Whirlwind team played a bang-up game with Brendon and Clemons sparking the running attack, while Staton and Robinson led the line play.
