

NINE TAPPED IN TORCHLIGHT CEREMONY

Pat Anderson Crowned Miss GHS; $400 Cleared in Recent Contest

Sponsored by High Life, the recent Miss G.H.S. contest was climaxed Thanksgiving eve, with a dramatic coronation ceremony on the stage of the Carolina Theatre, in which vivacious junior Pat Anderson was crowned Miss Greensboro High School of 1946.

Pat Crowned

Each of the contestants was introduced by Herbert Sims, as they entered from alternate sides of the stage, courtied in homage to 1945 queen, Jeanne Fortson, and took their places on either side of the throne. Jeanne then placed her crown on the satin pillow, held by court page Stevie Oldham, and signified the new queen by presenting her bouquet to Pat, and taking her place in the semi-circle of attendants, after which Bobbie Jean Shaw and Ed Brown, co-editors of High Life, crowned the petite queen before she ascended the throne.

Attendants

The tiny page boy "stole the show" as his face registered amazed approval of the following attendants all dressed in pastel formals: Edna Warden, Emily Ann Dees, Lois Bow-

'Foolish Fantasies' Given By Senior High Choir

"Foolish Fantasies," an original musical, was presented last Friday night at 8 o'clock by the Senior High School choir under the direction of Miss Eula Tuttle and Mr. J. Kimball Harriman.

The program consisted of 15 acts with some 35 persons taking part. Each act was composed of displays of musical talent. They were as follows: "Pathetic Operatic," Bucky Breedon; "The Ardent Beguiler," Mabel Paige Byrum; "Sweet and Lovely," Pat Aldridge, Nancy Cockman, Marie Carter, Jean Irwin, Nancy Smith, Betty Ann Harrell; "Please Laugh Anyway," Larry Lambeth, Jimmy Richards, and orchestra; "Touching Little Two-some," Margaret Ann Hunter and Lyndon Sikes; "My Darling Clementine," Irvin Apple and chorus; "Violin Virtuoso," Gordon Nelson; "Murdered Melody," Jack Strickland, Wayne Jarvis, Carl Gibbs, Hal Sigmon; "Ode to a Rose Bush," Loyce Nance, Ann Van Horne, Edna Warden; "Madame Jeanette," Betty Costner and chorus; "Monkey Business," Merlin Bynum, Lester Davis, Julian Culton; "Basso Vigoroso," Armisted Sapp and orchestra; "Seaside Greetings," Delores Dunstan, June Blumenthal, Nellie Smith; "Leave 'Em Laughing," Margaret Osborne and Sue Ellen Baxter; "This Wondrous World," entire company.

Burton Presides At Program; Routh Reads Honor Roll

In a darkened auditorium, lighted only by candles carried by present members, Torchlight, national honor society, held its annual fall tapping last Tuesday.

After President Nancy Burton stated the aims and ideals of the organization, leadership, service, character, and scholastic, which were explained by the other members, Betty Lou Moore, Martha Nell Keith, and Helen Mae Sarles, she challenged them to go forth and select those students who have been chosen by their classmates and faculty as best fitted for this high honor.

New Members

All those who were received into the society Tuesday are outstanding in various school activities. They are: Lucile Driver, H. C. Fordham, Lora Lou Gallagher, Doris Cooper, Earl Betts, Betty Marie Jones, Martha Graves, Mary Reynolds, and Frances Sue Marguis.

Known best for her work in the Dramatics Club, where she serves as vice-president, Lucile is a gold star wearer and a library assistant and was one of the Miss G.H.S. attendants.

Student Treasurer

You'll see Lara Lou Gallagher in the School Store every morning, which she manages in connection with her duties as treasurer of the student body.

Doris is a familiar sight in the G.H.S. Cheering Squad, which she heads. She was also a member of the Miss G.H.S. Contest.

Library Workers

A member of the Orchestra and one of the Miss G.H.S. attendants, Martha adds working in the Library to her already busy schedule.

Betty Marie Jones has been of great help to many students in her capacity as one of Miss Mildred Herring's most valuable library assistants.

Another important member of the Dramatics Club, Frances Sue serves as secretary of the organization and works in the library.

Football Players

A gold star wearer, Earl Betts proves his athletic ability as a member of the football team.

Another football player, H. C. Fordham, is an outstanding member of the Senior Class Hi-Y Club.

President of Quill and Scroll, Mary Reynolds works on High Life, is a member of the Dramatics and Debating Club and was one of the G.H.S. attendants.

Jamieson Receives Car From Grateful Populace

Last Monday night the boys on his teams, their parents, business houses, and the people of Greensboro presented Coach Bob Jamieson with a brand new four-door custom-built Dodge sedan—complete with radio, heater, and seat covers—as a token of their gratitude and appreciation for his marvelous work with the youth of Greensboro and the outstanding example he sets for them.

This idea had been talked of for the past several years, and finally a committee to raise funds was formed by members of the Touchdown Club consisting of Smith Barrier, Charlie Eatman, Ralph Stout, Boyd Morris, Bill Stoner, Garland Caviness, and Frank Jenkins, chairman.

The automobile was presented at the Daily News All-State Touchdown Club Annual Banquet by Frank Jenkins, who said, "I'm sure you won't mind trading in your old keys for this new Dodge!"

Four of the Big Five coaches, Carl Snavely of the University of North Carolina, Beattie Feathers of State College, Wallace Wade of Duke, and D. C. Walker of Wake Forest were on hand at the banquet to personally congratulate Bob Jamieson.

Yuletide Dance Chooses 'White Christmas' Theme

Featuring the Yuletide theme of "White Christmas," Senior High's students will greet the Christmas season with their annual dance, which will be held next Wednesday night in the girls' gym from 9 'til 12.

Outstanding feature in the decorations will be a huge Christmas bell with its clapper made of mistletoe. This is an opportunity for those who have been waiting to kiss that certain someone and never found the right moment. Clyde Collins is chairman of the decorating committee, with Doris Cooper and Fil Mabry as his assistants.

Lester Davis, Nancy P. Smith, and Zephia Poole are responsible for all the publicity regarding the dance and they are being assisted by Carrie Chamberlain, who has provided most of the art work.

Parents and teachers will chaperon the dance. The admission will be $1.20 stag or drag. A committee will also sell refreshments throughout the dance.
