Senior Musicians Receive 29 One Ratings in Contest

Greensboro high fared well in the district music contest, held in Winston-Salem at Wiley and Reynolds auditoriums, on Friday, March 21, by earning numerous one ratings and therefore receiving the "go ahead" sign in preparing for the state music contest-festival which is to be held at W.C.U.N.C. in Greensboro on April 22, 23, and 24.

Since a one rating was earned by the full band last year they were excused from district hearings but a large group represented that organization in ensemble and solo participation. Those persons representing the band were: Jim Crumpler, Charles Keeley, Margie Ann Mitchell, Charlie Strong, Earl Dean Shaw, Jeanette Christian Earl Mitchell, Swanson Poer, Bobby Ritch, Jim Scott, Carl Baxter, Eck Faulconer, and Johnny Ritch. All solos which included French horn by Arthur Smith, bassoon by Charlie Strong, trombone by Carl Baxter, clarinet by Dick Conrad, and bass by Clark Mitchell, received one ratings.

All ensembles earned one ratings, with the exception of the cornet

Musicians Get Ready for Contest

These groups will be participating in the 1947 State Music contest-festival which is to be held at Woman's College on the 22, 23, and 24 of April. In the upper left hand corner is shown senior's orchestra which recently won a first rating at the district contest, held at Winston-Salem. Other groups include, Choir, Girls Glee Club, and Band.

Senior Represented By Large Number Of Participants

As "barren winter, with its wrathful nipping cold," gathers up its bitter companions, embalmed in a wealth of green, scattered around in abundance by the vernal equinox, Senior high's student musicians will endeavor to sally forth in spring-time, melodic phrases as they terminate a season of fervent preparation by participating in the 26th annual state music contest-festival which will be held in Greensboro from the 22 to the 24 of April.

GHS Band

Senior's band, under the direction of Herbert Hazelman, will enter class A requirements in the annual event. Last year a one rating was earned by the group thus eliminating it from district participation which was held in Winston-Salem Friday, 21 of April. This ruling is afforded every possible group entering the state contest but they must retain their one rating in order that they might play in the state without being heard by district judges. Although director Hazelman has not yet chosen his selections for the band to play, it is expected that they will come from the following group which the band is now preparing: "Unfinished Symphony" by Franz Schubert, "Merry Wives of Windsor" by Otto Nicolai, and "March Slav" by P. Tschaiskowsky. All band hearings will be held on the 23 of April with the exception of band ensembles.

One of the leaders in ensemble work throughout the state, Senior expects to enter some 9 ensembles and five solos in the festival. This ensemble group will include a brass quartet, cornet trio, brass quintet, woodwind quintet, woodwind trio, trombone quartet, Clarinet quartet, horn quartet, and a brass sextet. Solos will include, french horn by Arthur Smith, bassoon by Charlie Strong, trombone by Carl Baxter, clarinet by Dick Conrad, and bass by Clark Mitchell. Ensemble work will be heard on April 22.

This year all bands are required to enter the marching contest. The event should provide fine, colorful, entertainment for those persons interested.

Elections To Be Held From April 29 to May 5

Plans for this spring's election of school officers have been announced by Ted Leonard, president of the senior class, who is in charge of the elections.

From April 29 to May 5 candidates will make applications, and all qualified persons who are interested are urged to get application blanks from council members.

These candidates will be presented in chapel May 6, and on May 7, students register to vote, each class having special registration booths. In order to vote a student must register.

Meeting on May 13, the nominating convention will narrow the field down to two nominees for each office. The convention consists of two delegates from each homeroom—one a speaking delegate—who vote according to the majority vote of their homeroom. Campaign managers make speeches at this time to urge the support of their candidate.

The final vote will be taken May 15 by secret ballot, with each class using certain voting booths. The officers to be elected are president, vice-president, Secretary, and treasurer of the school; traffic chief; and class officers and representatives. The president of each class and the representatives will serve on the student council along with the school officers.

Seniors See Browne For Job Information

Seniors graduating in June and not planning to attend college should see Miss Lucille Browne, D.O. Coordinator, in the Vocational Building, as soon as possible in order to secure help in obtaining a satisfactory job. It is necessary that all names of students wanting help be on file in the very near future.

Requests from local employers for workers are sent to the vocational department. It is the interest of this department to aid students in securing a successful and interesting vocation after graduation.

Other students interested in working part-time in office work through Diversified Occupations should also see Miss Lucille Browne before registering for next year's work. Those wanting part-time work next year in retailing should see Miss Sowell and those interested in the trades should see Mrs. Wilson.

Retailing Careers Offer Variety of Opportunities

Does retailing interest you as a career? To answer this question it is necessary to know enough about the field of retailing and the work done by retailers, to decide whether or not it is the field of endeavor for which the individual is best qualified and from which to derive the greatest satisfaction.

Delegation Attends Annual Convention

Mrs. R. John Holland adviser to High Life, and five members of the staff—Charlie Melvin, John Story, Frances Newton, Blake Stallings, and Bob Price—attended the Columbia Scholastic Press Convention in New York City on March 20, 21, and 22.

The group attended various clinics, sectional meetings, special features and round table discussions pertaining to all types of stories—such as feature, sport, and straight news stories.

Bob Price and John Story attended an interview with Jinx Falkenburg—a famous model, screen and radio star—and her husband Tex McCrary, a foreign correspondent.

Another interesting event which attracted the Senior delegates was a "Chalk Talk" by Milton Caniff, originator of "Terry and the Pirates," who introduced his new comic strip "Steve Canyon" and Al Capp, originator of "Little Abner." At the final session of the Convention an excellent talk was given by Dr. Edward A. Richards, National Director, American Junior Red Cross on international brotherhood.

A luncheon at the Astor Hotel formally closed the Convention on Saturday where the various awards were made and where High Life received its first place rating for this school year.

Other events which occupied the delegates free time were the Broadway hit, "Carousel," Sonja Henie's latest production "Icetime," and a trip through Radio City. They also saw Red Skelton's newest movie, "Show-Off."

Mrs. George E. Newton accompanied the Senior members and assisted Mrs. Holland. George Webb, editor of the "Curryer" was also with the Greensboro group at the Hotel Taft.

Retail stores supply ninety per cent of all things for home use—food, clothes, etc. There are over a million and a half stores in the United States, employing almost six million people, ready to satisfy everyday needs and desires. The field of retailing is very broad and the number of activities which must be carried on in retail stores provides young men and women with unlimited opportunities. Some of the main types of work in retailing include—buying, selling, personnel, advertising and small store management.

Selling Job

The selling job occupies the largest groups of people in any store. The work consists chiefly of waiting on customers and keeping the merchandise in salable condition. To many, this type of work may be routine whereas to others it may offer the opportunity to make suggestions and anticipate desires of customers as well as showing ingenuity and originality in the presentation and selection of merchandise.

If a person is properly qualified by age, appearance, intelligence, and personality, the first position may be in selling, although it may work into an executive position.

Some of the characteristics likely to make for success in selling in-

Concert Presented By Senior High Band

On Sunday afternoon, March 30, the Greensboro Senior High band presented its spring concert in the school auditorium.

Under the direction of Herbert Hazelman, the concert band began its performance at 3 p.m. before a large audience made up of both students and public enthusiasts. It is probable that some of the selections played on the Sunday program will be used in the state music contest by the band on April 23.

Besides a group of marches; "The Merry Wives of Windsor" by Otto Nicolai, "The Unfinished Symphony" by Schubert, "College Caprice" by Paul White, Bercuse and Fuale from "The Firebird" by Igor Stravinski, March from "The Love of The Oranges" by Sergi Prokofief and "Marche Slav" by Peter Tsyckowski were played on the program.
