

Double Daily Doubles

By Jenny Lee Moser

He was just one of the many characters in her locker, and because of that they got to be right good "Buddies." Pretty soon she found herself wanting to date this handsome brute, and so she asked him to go to a weiner roast. From then he became just "her boy" and she "his girl."

They like everything in general and nothing in particular. Playing Black Jack, sledding (of course, that's only when there's snow on the ground), and eating are three of their favorite pastimes.

Because he's the biggest, he's the boss! What he says goes (most of the time). You'll know what we mean when you hear her say "Yes Sir, No Sir, or Yes, Once —, No, Uncle —. This is just by a slight twist of the arm of course.

You can see them strolling and talking in the halls or with the rest of the gang at the locker. No matter where they are or whom they are with, they always enjoy every moment of the time.

To many the 13th is unlucky, but it seems that it's because a standing date for the Daily Doubles, for here are two more who met two years ago the 13th of July. (If you want to go steady, meet on the 13th.) The meeting place was at a friend's house; they each knew they had found the person. It seems that arguments just make up the courtship—they do it all the time. We shouldn't state their likes because it will tell their identity at once or—at least his; but we must—it's jelly beans. That isn't all they like, they also eat other things, and they even enjoy fussing (it must be making-up they really like). Taking pictures is a great interest for the two; but, even during this time, they argue.

They are seen at the Youth Center and the movies during the week or at the church lounge on Sunday. The couples walking up the steps last issue were Jimmy Finison and Barbara Duvivant; Ruennell Rush and "Owl" Stewart.

Famous Last Words Before Exams

Just before the "fatal hour" the following students were heard to say:

Joan Boyd: "Critter" says I gotta pass!

Paul Patton: Pray for me, Joe!

Julian McGee: Don't worry about the mule going blind.

Dolores Hadaway: Can't think, George and I had another fuss.

Dot Burton: Let me see Joe just one more time.

Jimmie Von Becknell: Hand on left ear means "false"—on right ear "true."

Betty Hendrix: I won't make State at this rate.

Ruennell Rush: I intend to pass this subject next semester!

Yvonne Schweistris: HELP!

Polly White: Oh shoot! I didn't need that credit anyhow.

Joan Klein: "Do or die."

Jean White: Let's get it over with, 'cause High Point, here I come!

Jim Finison: Too late to worry—too soon to cry!

"Owl" Stewart: Well, I have two or three more years over here any way!

Y-Teens Planning Banquet April 7

Y-Teen banquet planned for April 7 will have Mrs. Letta Galpin, National Y-Teen Program director as guest of honor.

"Is That Us" is theme of the banquet at which Mr. Harold Hipps of the Duke Divinity school will speak. Mrs. Galpin will meet with the Inter Club Council, Monday, April 5.

Fun Frolic Held

Last Saturday night, the YWCA, was the scene of a "Fun Frolic" sponsored by the three Y-Teen clubs at GHS informal entertainment in the form of bingo, fortune-telling, dancing, ping-pong, dancing contests, and a floor-show was provided for the teen-age boys and girls attending. The Y-Teen "Rumpus Room" will be furnished by money cleared from this affair and others like it that are planned for later on in the Spring.

Week-end Camp

Annual weekend at camp for the Greensboro Y-Teens will be May 7, 8, 9, at "Old Mill," the Girl Scout Camp. Expenses will be about $3 for each of the 100 girls attending camp.

Spring Plans

Other Y-Teen Spring plans include annual Easter Lily street-sale, Saturday, March 20.

Club Activities

Program chairman of the Junior Y-Teen club, Emogene Apple, announced today that programs centering around theme of "Charm School" have planned for the regular Wednesday night meetings of the club. Speakers on Care of Hair, Posture, Complexion Care, Cosmetics for the Teen-Age, Styles and other subjects of interest have been engaged to talk to the girls.

Customer: "To what do you owe your extraordinary success as a door-to-door salesman?"

Salesman: "The first five words I speak to any woman who opens the door are, 'Miss, is your mother home?'"

Slippery ice—very thin

Pretty girl—tumbled in

Saw a boy—on the bank

Gave a shriek—then she sank

Boy on bank—heard her shout

Jumped right in—pulled her out

Now he's hers—very nice

But she had—to break the ice.
