

'Music Notes'

The music department at Senior is planning their year's activities. They have already given several performances. The first period girls' chorus will sing tonight at the Asheville-Greensboro game. Their theme is "Blue." Songs included are "Blue Moon," "Blue Orchids," "Rhapsody in Blue," and "St. Louis Blues March." They have planned to sing with our band at the Greensboro-Winston-Salem game next Friday.

Officers for the girls' choruses are: first period, Mary Laine Clement; second, Barbara Radford; third, Rozelia Rives. There are about one hundred and twenty girls enrolled in these three groups.

The boys' quartet has been organized. They will appear in several programs this fall.

The choir has elected their officers. They are as follows: president, Bob Murray; vice-president, Kemp Clendenin; secretary, Martha Lashley; treasurer, Nancy Foust; and librarian, Annie Laurie Rogers. They will have their annual program with the orchestra. Also their annual assembly program. This program will be a tavern in the Early American days. Appropriate dress and songs will coincide with this program. On December 9, they will sing for the Civitan Club, and they will enter the State Contest at the College.

Art Class Introduces Numerous Projects

The Senior High art classes, under the supervision of Mrs. Grace Faver, are working enthusiastically on a number of interesting projects. Sixth and seventh period classes, which are the advanced students, are busy at work on lettering, decorations, and sketches for the Yearbook and High Life.

Our Yearbook art editor is the experienced and talented wielder of the pen, Bert Wade. Assisting the art editor is Estelene Patterson, Betty O'Conner, and Bill Crawford. Bill is to do most of the lettering. Another one of Senior High's well-known pen and ink artists in Don Vaughn, who holds the position of art editor of High Life. Also excelling in the medium are Estelene Patterson and Betty O'Conner.

The subscription drive for our Yearbook is being well advertised through posters originated by Bill Crawford, Buddy Moore, Marie Edwards, Jean Hilliard, Jimmy Beam, and Carol Harrison.

Illustration holds the tense interest of Jean Mills, Roberta Burgess, Barbara Beroth, Jere LeGwin, John Ellington, Elsie Freeman, Sara Ann Taylor, Nancy Simmons, Jean Ayers, John Carr, Bob Wagner, Jean Hooker, Julia Blanchard, Barbara Cornelius, Tiny Burtner, Libby Mallard, David Wright and Velda Thompson. Roger Lowe is busy on another of his attractive oil paintings.

Progress is brewing among our amateur fashion designers. Estelene Patterson, Cynthia Baker, Patsy Parker, Peggy McIntire, Barbara Mays, Marlene Christianson, Jo Ann Moore, Dorothy Wulf, Editha Stowe, Jacklyn Herron, and Frances Parker are coming to the front in the field of costume design. Patsy Pluckett is making progress in fabric painting, having finished a luncheon set and begun on a second project.

Outstanding this year in the use of watercolors are Frank Hough, Peggy Beale, Mary Blair Smith, Pat Thorp, Virginia Harris, Shirley Evans, and Jocelyn Herron.
