Anderson Speaks To Three Groups

Support for Annual Sought by Powell

On three successive days, the various classes held their first assemblies. The sophomores held their first meeting on Monday, September 10. Returning upperclassmen conducted their meetings on the following Tuesday and Wednesday. Mr. Anderson addressed all three assemblies, as did Mrs. Blackmon, who set down the rules for tardies, absences, and sick students. Miss Virginia Powell sought support for the Yearbook also.

The sophomore class experienced their first assembly at Senior. Mrs. Blackmon, Dean of Girls, explained in detail the varied procedures in attendance and conduct. An interesting talk was delivered by Mr. Anderson to the sophomores. The assistant principal warned the first year entrants about the pitfalls of the first year student. Among these are failure to select a goal for one's life work, lack of application, and improper attitudes toward teachers.

Juniors Meet

A similar assembly of the Juniors met on the next day, September 11. Mr. Routh told the assembled Juniors to support the various school activities, such as the Youth Center, High Life, and the Yearbook. At this time Mr. Anderson again addressed the group. Miss Powell urged interest in the Yearbook and explained the goal for the Junior class which will be $200.

Seniors Convene

Seniors assembled Wednesday, September 12, and were addressed by Mr. Anderson. After speaking on his observations of stumbling blocks in school life, he suggested that students can do a better job by "oiling the machinery." He emphasized that students must make the gears meet, set the machinery to work, and keep going in order to have a successful high school career. Miss Virginia Powell again asked for support in the Yearbook's campaign for subscriptions and informed the Senior class of their $300 goal for their part in the Annual.

Norma Veney asked for the continued support of the Senior class as far as the Youth Center was concerned.

Navy Band To Play Here September 25

The United States Navy Band will perform on Tuesday, September 25, at 8:00 P.M. in the Senior High Auditorium. Imminent Director Lieutenant-Commander Charles Brendler will conduct.

The program features many outstanding soloists and performers. Among these are stellar performers like Richard Groves, Robert Baird, Anthony Mitchel, and Ben Mitchell Morris. Some of the compositions to be played are "South Pacific," by Richard Roberts; "Stars and Stripes," John Philip Sousa; and Overture "Romeo and Juliet," by Tschaiikowsky.

Assistant Band Director D. M. Arner said that this is the world's finest band, and the students and people of Greensboro are very fortunate to hear it.

The tickets are a dollar per student and a dollar-fifty for adults. Tax is included in this low price. The tickets are being sold by the band members and will be on sale at the door.

After 1925, when President Coolidge signed a special statute of the 68th Congress, the United States Navy Band has been officially recognized as the Navy's own. In 1925 the Navy Band made the first of its numerous tours and has continued every year except during war years.

Ayers Names Squad To Control Traffic

The traffic squad of Senior High School consists of twenty-two boys with Fred Ayers as the traffic chief. These boys are stationed all through the buildings to direct traffic in the halls and at each stairway.

Numerous Transferees Present As GHS Opens

Is Senior High growing? Well, maybe it isn't growing so much in the actual sense of the word, but it is increasing its number of transfer students as time progresses. These transfer students are those persons that come to Senior this year, other than from the Junior High Schools. We now have twenty-six transient sophomores, thirty transient juniors and seventeen transient seniors. That makes a total of seventy-three up to September 13. These newcomers represent many different towns, cities and states, including one foreign country—Iran.

Students Attend G.H.S. From Foreign Countries

If you are a new Sophomore in the halls of G.H.S., perhaps you think that your state of bewilderment and feeling of newness could not be surpassed. But to Rene' Zapata from Guatemala City, Guatemala, and Varogj Yeghahian, who hails from Teheran, Iran, our Alma Mater has opened up a whole new world. Both students came to the States seeking higher education. Rene', who is beginning his third year with us, arrived in the United States in September, 1949. Varogj has been here since July 15, 1951, and is beginning his first year in our midst.

Shortly before the last school year came to an end, Rene', his cousin, Virgil, and a friend, Armando Devas, who were also studying in America, planned a tour of South America during the summer to hold religious meetings. They depended solely on church contributions for financial aid. With these contributions they purchased a station wagon which they named "Faith."

Rene's work was chiefly among the children. He taught them by means of magical tricks. This way of presentation was received enthusiastically by the children. Rene' also led in the singing.

The first stop was in Corpus Christi, Texas. From here they travelled to Mexico City where they remained two and one-half weeks. After leaving Mexico City they made many small stops throughout Mexico, and then drove to Guatemala City, Guatemala.

Rene' answers with a smile when questioned about car trouble. They drove on roads for hundreds of miles without a sign of a filling station. If by chance they met another car, one would have to back up for miles. The roads were too narrow for passing. While in Mexico, "Faith" had to be placed on a train along with the boys because there were no roads to many towns. Altogether they covered over ten thousand miles and reached some thirty thousand people in one hundred and sixty-three meetings.

Rene', Virgil and Armando are planning another trip next summer already. Rene' is going to complete his education at Bob Jones University in Greenville, S. C. After college graduation Rene's future lies in South America, in the work and among the people he loves.

Varogj Yeghahian, our foreign newcomer, speaks English with very little difficulty. While serving in the army in 1949, an officer, Major John A. Carlisle, taught him considerable English. Major Carlisle became a close friend of Varogj's, and was interested in sending him to America to receive an education.

Varogj is enjoying his stay in the United States. He finds the Americans a friendly people and likes his classes. After attending college for four years, where he plans to major in aeronautical engineering, it will be necessary for him to return to Iran temporarily, since his student passport will have expired. As soon as possible, however, he wants to return to America and a successful future.
