

Key Club Projects Aid And Entertain Students

For the past four years the Key Club here at G. H. S. has been working toward its goal of building better citizens, developing leaders, and serving the school. The Key Club is an International Organization sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. This year, as in years past, the Key Club sponsors the directory, decorate and put up the huge Christmas tree when the holiday season rolls around, and sell tickets to football and basketball games, a project which was started by last year's club.

The student directory is the Key Club's biggest project each year, and all the members must go out and collect ads from local business men. Then the correct names, addresses, and telephone numbers of all the students and teachers are gathered for the book and an up-town printing company makes up the directory. They are delivered by club members to each student, teacher, and advertiser, free of charge.

The Key Club has its regular dinner meetings every Wednesday night at the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Gay Hensley, who has been the Kiwanis adviser since the Greensboro club was formed, attends each meeting. Although the Key Club members work hard on their projects, they also have a good time. They have a party every fall for the new members and then they usually plan a hayride each spring.

The officers of this year's club are Eddie Yost, president; George Ferguson, vice president; Kelly Maness, secretary; and Bob Bell, treasurer. Other members are Bill Greene, Dan Haley, Buster Jenkins, Joe LeBauer, Wallace Freeman, Tommy McDonald, Pat Price, Don Patterson, Jimmie Armstrong, Tot Wagoner, Charlie Hester, Charlie Davis, Richard Teague, Tommy Pearce, Arthur Scott, Gary Hester, David Dillard, Gary Coble, Don DeSanto, Bob Jackson and Stuart Colson.

It would be a good thing if other countries understood our foreign policy, but it would be better if we understood it ourselves.

THE WAY I SEE IT

By Cordelia Goodnight

With speedball season just past and basketball season just around the corner, a girl's thoughts are quickly turning to the great indoor sport. Before now, there has been very poor participation in extra-curricular sports, but with basketball season soon to arrive Miss Gabriel expects a much larger turn-out. It's a great sport! That is if you don't fall down and sprain an ankle or die from over work.

Speaking of basketball, here's hoping that the Girl's Varsity gets new uniforms this year. I hate to criticize but they are in a pretty bad state of being. It would be like getting rid of a life-long friend to get new ones for the department, because the uniforms have seen 15 good years of service. The $150 needed for the new garb seems awfully small if you take into consideration the fact that they'll probably be used for 15 more years. I hear the Boy's Athletic Program gets all the money allotted for sports. Don't get me wrong, I'm just as proud of our boys' teams and proposed new gym as any G. H. S'er, but I would like to see our girls shining, too, in bright new blue and white uniforms.

On December fifth and sixth the Fifth Annual Convention of the North Carolina Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation will be held at Woman's College. Miss Gabriel and some of the men from the physical education department will attend. The agenda for the two days will include forums, panels, discussion groups, and demonstrations.

During the past two weeks, the physical education classes have carried on an intermural ping pong doubles tournament. Winners from the various classes were as follows: first period, Gwen Melton and Helen Weaver; second period, Barbara Burton and Carolyn Austin; third period, Judy Rumley and Dot Briston; fourth period, Carolyn White and Gabe (who entered because of lack of participants); and sixth period, Kay White and Barbara Brown.

Since the boys' intermural sports program has been so popular there has been quite a bit said about a tournament for girls. Gabe hopes to start a program after Thanksgiving which will include basketball. Let's get behind this project and really boost school spirit.

Local Junk Joint Boasts Variety

Do you have any glasses, pencil cases, pen, broken mirrors, or a single earring that has a habit of getting misplaced?

If so, have you checked by that trusty and long-standing organization located in the student supply store, formally known as the Lost and Found Department. This institution is under the careful direction and supervision of Mr. Johnson, who claims the department does great things. Several years ago a girl claimed a pair of glasses which had been lost for over two years. This very fact proves the efficiency of the department.

In Johnson's Junk Joint you may expect to find anything, ranging from pieces of A model motors to lost combs. The motley assortment of curios is jealously guarded by Mr. Johnson. In order to redeem any article you must prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that the article in question is yours. In the case of a pair of glasses you must be able to read a line of one inch type at one hundred yards while wearing pre-mentioned specks. In the case of a fountain pen, you must be able to squirt passing students directly between the eyes, being ninety per cent accurate. Lost money might as well be termed "permanently lost." To redeem money one must know the date, serial number, where coined (or printed) and where said money was lost.

The majority of the items which have been collected by Jabbo's curious corner are feminine accessories. This goes to prove that the female element around G.H.S. is absent minded and butter fingered.

Seriously though, if ever one of your text books (perish the thought), your wallet, your favorite pencil or any other article you think worthy of re-attaining is lost one day, don't fail to stop by the Lost and Found Department. It might be there.

Many a girl has a calf that only a cow could love.
