

302 Attain Honor Roll For Third Six Weeks

Having an average of 90 or better, 302 students have been named on the honor roll for the third six weeks period.

Achieving a position on the special honor roll list were 61 students. The Junior Class led the field in that group, having a total of 26 members on the special list. Next in line was the Senior Class, which placed 20 students on the list, and then the Sophomores, who had 15.

Leading the school with the highest number on the regular honor roll is Room 12, Mrs. Higgin's senior home room, which had 12 students making the honor roll. Claiming the honors for the Junior Class is Room 2, with ten students, and for the Sophomores, Room 200 boasts seven members reaching the goal.

JCL Meet Planned

Junior Classical League held a meeting on January 13 in which Claire Jacoby, a member, was the featured speaker, and plans for the statewide J.C.L. convention were discussed.

Claire told the group about her trip to Rome, and explained the Roman influence throughout Europe.

The main order of business of the meeting was the discussion of plans for the second state-wide J.C.L. convention to be held here at Senior High on April 18. The first state-wide convention was held in High Point last year.

Honor Roll Names Citizens of Month

Students representing each class have been selected for outstanding citizenship during the third six weeks period.

Representing the Senior Class are Virginia Redhead, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Redhead of 704 Dover Rd.; and Eddie Yost, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Yost, of 412 N. Cedar St.

Junior representatives are Barbara Jamieson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Jamieson of 3125 Friendly Rd.; and Stewart Colson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Colson of 112 W. Avondale Dr.

Martha Wilkins, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wilkins of 201 N. W. Greenway; and R. B. Arthur, the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Arthur of 4115 Walker Avenue have been chosen from the Sophomore Class.

Citizenship pens were awarded Thursday, February 5, by Barbara Massey, president of the Junior Class.

Each member of the three classes were recognized in last week's assembly by Barbara Massey.

Homerooms of each class selected one representative to enter the citizenship competition; those students were then judged by members of the faculty before pins were presented to the six winning students. At the end of each six weeks homerooms and teachers will make recommendations for the citizenship awards.

Choir, Band Present Midwinter Concert

Members of the choir, under the direction of Miss Eula Tuttle, joined the concert which is conducted by Mr. Herbert Hazelman to present the annual Mid-Winter Concert last night, February 12, in the high school auditorium.

The 80-piece band opened the program with "The Bullfighter's March" by Kottaun, which was written to capture the excitement and color of the national sport of Mexico. Borodin, a Russian composer, who is said to have written less nationalistic music than his fellow countrymen, composed the next number on the program, "Symphony No. 2 in B Minor." The following rendition, "Pictures at an Exhibition," by Moussorgsky, suggests a series of eight paintings which include Promenade, Tulle-ries or children playing in the park, Bydlo—a Polish ox-cart, The market place at Limoges, Ballet of the Unhatched Chicks, Catacombs, The Hut of Baba-Yaga, and The Great Gate at Kiev. Mr. David Arner, assistant director of the band, narrated this number.

After the intermission, the 60-voice choir assisted the band in presenting four pieces. "With a Hey and a Ho and a Ho Ho Ho," arranged by Captain Thomas Darcy, changed the mood of the previous selections to a light tone. "Holy, Holy, Holy," a paraphrase of the hymn by Eric Leidzen set a religious note.

"A Tribute To Romberg," by Douglas McLean, which contains several songs by the American composer Sigmund Romberg, was next on the program. In response to many requests, the final song in the concert was "Battle Hymn of the Republic," the last chorus of which the audience was asked to join in singing.

MRS. JOAN HANSON

Mrs. Hanson Resigns As Office Secretary

Mrs. Joan Hanson, for a year secretary of Greensboro Senior High School, will leave her post this month.

Mrs. Hanson is leaving Senior to become an ordinary housewife. Although she has been married for two years, this will be her first attempt at devoting her entire time to her household profession. She said, "I would never leave high school for another job, but a home's a big thing to manage and that's a full-time job."

Mrs. Hanson came to Senior after being employed at Burlington Mills as a secretary. Before moving to Greensboro five years ago, she and her family (her father is Reverend Folger) lived in California. She attended Whittier College for three years and then went to Guilford College her senior year where she met her husband. She is in the May Court at Guilford College.

Mrs. Hanson really hates to leave Senior and as she puts it, "I think that the teachers and students are the nicest I've ever known. This is the best job I've ever had, and the nicest boss. I do hope that everyone will be as nice to the new secretary as they were to me, 'cause she'll be mighty lucky if they are."

Mrs. Hanson's duties as secretary range from completing student files to giving consolation to those who come into her office.

Two new teachers who have been added to the faculty of Senior High for the spring semester are Mrs. Julia Roe and Miss Jean Murray. Mrs. Roe, who is taking over Mrs. Bailey's post, is a graduate of Wake Forest, where she received a B.S. degree and did graduate work at the University of Louisville. Miss Murray, a native of High Point, is replacing Mrs. Burch in the Commercial Department. She is a recent graduate of Woman's College, where she earned a B.S. degree in Business Administration.

D. O. - D. E. Classes Plan Banquet, 'Bosses' Night

Employers and special guests of Distributive Education and Diversified Occupations students will be honored at the tenth annual Bosses' Banquet March 10.

Plans are already underway for the annual banquet sponsored by the D. O. and D. E. Classes of Miss Browne, Mrs. Hodden, and Mr. Jones.

Irish Green

With a background theme of St. Patrick's Day, students will dine with their employers and entertain at the Masonic Temple on the evening of March 10.

Approximately 300 will attend the annual affair directed by Mr. Jones, Miss Browne, Mrs. Hodden, and their classes. Besides employers of D. O. - D. E. students, representatives of Greensboro Senior High School, the city school administrative unit, the state Department of Education, the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchant's Association, Greensboro Industries Incorporated, and the press will receive invitation to the banquet.

Formed by the presidents of the six D. O. and D. E. classes, a com-

College Applications Are Filed by Seniors

First applications for college entrance are now being mailed, upon request, from Miss Blackmon's office.

Approximately 62 students from the Senior Class have decided or have some idea as to the college they wish to attend and have asked Miss Blackmon to send their grades to that school.

Early application is urged by Miss Blackmon "more because of the housing problems than for any other reason, but at smaller schools where the enrollment is limited, it is advisable to insure being accepted."

Duke University applications lead the list with 21 forms being sent at present. Woman's College is next with 15 applicants and the remaining 53 are almost evenly divided among state and out-of-state institutions.

Woman's College hopefuls are Bobbie Holler, Chris Velonis, Mickey Downing, Ann Carlson, Barbara Prago, Delains Turner, Anne Hobbs, Louise Toler, Barbara Rosser, Barbara Farley, Joan Hester, Kitty

mittee is now laying preliminary plans for the yearly feature. James Lester, chairman of the group, will be assisted by Jimmy Clark, Barbara Barrier, Milton Aderfer, Alton Hall, and Charlotte Evans.

The following student of Mr. Jones' second and third period classes will be placed in charge of responsibilities; seating arrangements, Pattie Apple, Jean Barracks; and publicity, Jack Alman and Burt Ozment.

Decorations Arranged

Carrying out the theme of St. Patrick's Day, decorations will be arranged by members of Mrs. Hodden's Distributive Education classes.

From Miss Browne's second period class Barbara Barrier is in charge of arrangements for student entertainment and the guest speaker for the occasion. Charlotte Evans is now directing the design of printed programs and the mailing of invitations.

Auditions for talented D. O. and D. E. students who will appear on the varied program were held Thursday evening, February 5.

For nine consecutive years the Bosses' Banquet has been an important event on the calendar of every part-time student enrolled in the part-time cooperative program at Senior High School. It is solely presented and planned by the students and coordinators of the program.

Past Program

Last year's banquet featured at its guest speaker Chancellor Robert B. House of the University of North Carolina.

This year a total of 117 students are enrolled at part-time students in the vocational department.

Goal Passed in Drive

Exactly 1,150 copies of the 1953 Whirligig have been sold to date, surpassing the goal set by the financial staff of 1000.

The book contains 240 pages which makes it even larger than last year's book. All stories and pictures were sent to the printers on February 1, but will not be received by the students until around Class Day.

During the final printing in early May the staff, along with Miss Powell, will travel to Charlotte to watch the yearbook while on the press.

N. H. S. Convention Planned for March

Torchlight, local chapter of the National Honor Society, will send representatives to the annual state honor society convention March 19, 20, and 21 in Winston-Salem.

Students of R. J. Reynolds High School will play hosts to members of the National Honor Society for the three-day meet in March. All discussion groups will carry the theme of "Responsible Youth Citizens."

Led by representatives to the convention, eight discussion groups will be conducted on the following topics: National Honor Society's Responsibility to the Home; Its Responsibility to School; to Other Teenagers; to the Church; and to its Community. Following the periods of discussion a grand assembly will be held for reports of all groups.

Representatives will attend a banquet Friday evening followed by a dance; business sessions will convene Saturday morning, March 21. Only one official delegate will represent the local chapter of the National Honor Society, but other members will be invited to discussion groups, the social gatherings, and the business sessions as unofficial delegates.

An invitation has been extended to one of the members of Torchlight to lead one of the discussion groups on The National Honor Society's Responsibility to Other Teenagers.

Colson, Barringer Contributions Noted

HIGH LIFE has chosen Kitten Barringer and Stewart Colson to be recognized for their work, heralded and otherwise, which promotes many school projects. While interviewing these two, the reporter discovered that they are co-editors for the junior class on the Whirligig staff and used this as a pretense for making a picture of them together. Another accomplishment Stewart and Kitten have in common is their swimming abilities; Kitten's speciality is the breast stroke, and Stewart specializes in the standard strokes. Mr. R. B. Jamieson and Mr. Patrick Earey are the respective coaches.

Each is a member of Quill and Scroll, literary honor society, and the Junior Classical League. Of this organization Stewart is president and Kitten serves as secretary. Both are special honor roll students and carry a full schedule.

Kitten is a junior member of the student council and during the year she has served on the welcome committee for Social Standards Day, checked attendance at the conferences, and was one of the hostesses at the Social Standards luncheon. She was chairman of the decorating committee for the Midwinter Dance. As vice president of the Junior Class, Stewart is on the junior council and served on the committee which made the shakers sold as a class project the early part of the year. In this capacity he was in charge of the wrapping paper sale sponsored by the Juniors at Christmas, and worked with the home room vice presidents.

Stewart was elected as a marshal from home room 16 and has served at several functions this year. Kitten was again elected secretary of an organization and this time she serves as treasurer, also. This job is with the Future Teachers of America Club here at school. She is a member of the GWI social club and Stewart is a Key Clubber. Kitten is present secretary of her home room.

In the next issue, HIGH LIFE will give credit to a sophomore behind-the-scenes couple.

Keeping the Juniors unsuspecting was for obvious reasons a more difficult feat than fooling the Seniors. But this week's behind-the-scenes couple pretended to be entirely innocent.
