Center Members Select '54-'55 Council; Lineweaver To Replace Temko As Prexy

President of the Greensboro Youth Center for 1954-55, Brokie Lineweaver, was chosen during a two day election held last weekend at the Loft.

Others elected to major offices on the council of the local youth center were Don Wall, vice-president; Sue Simmons, secretary; and Bill Hanna, treasurer.

Helping the leaders to supervise and plan the operations of the Center will be additional members. Those elected were Charles Woods, D. Ann Welch, Susan Hege, Arthur Balderacchi, Mary Anne Boone, Joan Moring, Norman Odyneic, Kay Wrenn, Ann Pearce, Margie Boren, Lynn Boren, Rita Boggs, J. C. Clark, and Phyllis Brooks. The council will be assisted and advised by Bill McCormick, the youth center director.

This makes the eighth Youth Council in the history of the Center. It began in 1947 with Weedie Huffman as director. The first council was headed by Jim Finch, president; Fran Pearman, secretary; and Betty Lou Moore, vice-president.

Official opening of the Center was in September, 1947, with a semi-formal dance. Music was provided by Michael Brooks and his orchestra. There was a special dedication ceremony held that night.

The Youth Center is open to the younger set of Greensboro between the ages of 15 and 20. A membership fee of $5 per year entitles students to participate in such activities as dancing, pool, ping-pong, and other games.

Space for quieter methods of recreation such as checkers and cards is also provided. A well-stocked snack bar and a juke box climax some of the special features of the Center.

Michael Temko, present president of the Youth Center, announced the newly elected members of the council in assembly Tuesday.

Choir, Band To Give Annual Night Concert

Next Thursday evening at 8 p. m. the choir and band will present their annual program in the school auditorium.

For the first part of the program, the band will play five numbers including the Ringling Brothers "Grand Entry March" and the overture "Jerico" by Mortan Gould. The choir will join the band for the second half of the program. Included in this part of the program will be two excerpts from the "Song of America" and the popular "While We're Young."

The band and choir, which are under the direction of Mr. Herbert Hazleman and Miss Eula Tuttle, respectively, will close with the traditional "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

GHS Orchestra Members To Play In All-State Group

Smith To Represent State At Conclave

Superintendent Ben L. Smith will represent Greensboro and North Carolina as a discussion leader at the American Association of School Administrators Convention to be held at Atlantic City, New Jersey, during the week of February 15-19.

Mr. Smith's topic for discussion will be "Superintendents Look Anew at School Library Service." Another North Carolinian, Mrs. Mary P. Douglas, who is supervisor of library service for the Raleigh public schools, will present the subject. Various faculty members from all over the United States will participate in the discussion.

Mr. Smith stated, "I accredit my appointment as discussion leader to the wide reputation for excellence of the Greensboro libraries, and I am looking forward to the trip very much."

Twenty-eight members of the Greensboro Senior High School Orchestra have been selected to play in the annual All-State Orchestra which is being held this year at Duke University from last Thursday through tomorrow.

Allen Bone, band and orchestra director at Duke, is the guest conductor.

The group left Greensboro early yesterday to arrive at the University in time for registration and the morning rehearsal. The orchestra has spent its time preparing for a concert to be given this afternoon for children of the Durham City Schools. A banquet was given last night in honor of the musicians.

Those members of the GHS orchestra who were selected to attend were violinists Susan Leonard, Laura Adams, Libbey Anne Eldridge, Amanda McConnell, Anne Cole, Ed Fisher, George Makeley, and Betty Bell.

Betty Brooks, Marcia Felt, Rita Boggs, Gloria Gilmore, Lila Malone, and Mary Frances Colvert were selected as violists.

Cellists Martha Leonard, Ronald Lambe, Alan Tuttle, and Katharine Leonard were invited to the clinic, as were bass players Tom Wagg, Jim Atwater, and Sandra Rodgers.

Barbara Kennerly is the flute player from GHS and Maxine Wells is the clarinet representative. Bassoon player Marcia Anderson is also at the meeting.

Trombonists Bob Phillips and Jack Thurman, French horn player Dick Frank, and percussion representative Jan Rankin complete the list.

Mr. Thorpe Jones Appointed Head Of City Audio-Visual Department

Happy to be back at work in the Greensboro City School system is Mr. Thorpe Jones, newly appointed head of the audio-visual department.

Mr. Jones, who was formerly the co-ordinator of Distributive Education at Senior High School, attained his new position in December.

Duties Vary

The duties of his new post include seeing that films are made available to the schools when they are requested, assisting the schools in selecting the latest equipment, and maintaining the movie projectors, films, and other supplies connected with the audio-visual department.

Films are ordered by the schools from the audio-visual office on Asheboro Street and delivered to the schools daily.

Films Shown

In December, at Senior High School alone, 323 films and film strips were shown to a total of 8,911 students.

A native of Virginia, Mr. Jones is a graduate of North Carolina State College, and he earned his masters degree at the University of North Carolina.

When he is not busy tracking down films, Mr. Jones' favorite pastime is his two children, ages three years and two months. Mr. Jones also indulges in golf sometimes, but he considers himself "strictly amateurish."

Best Citizens Selected For Third Six Weeks

Outstanding students from each of the three classes have recently been chosen as best citizens for the third grading period.

Senior Class members receiving the honor were Martha Leonard and Kelly Maness. Martha is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Leonard of 504 Northridge St. Kelly, who has been given the award for the second successive time, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Maness of 1918 Granville Road.

Charles Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Woods of 200 W. Avondale Dr., and Susan Hege, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hege of 1515 Lovette St., were the junior honorees.

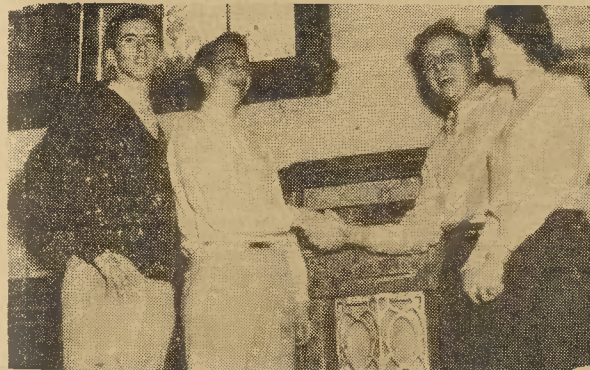

President of the Sophomore Class John Gardiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Gardiner of 2803 Spring Garden St., and Gail Kirkman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Kirkman of 1403 Pinecroft Road were chosen for the special roll from the Sophomore Class.

Delegates Attend J. C. L. Conclave

Two Junior Classical League delegates, Mary Ellen Kaelin and Paddy Sue Wall, represented Senior High at a state planning board held in High Point last Saturday. Mary Ellen is the local president of the J. C. L., while Paddy Sue is vice-president of the state organization.

All of the J. C. L.'ers were invited to lunch at the home of Mrs. Vera Walden, Latin instructor in High Point High School. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the agenda for the annual state Junior Classical League program which is to be held in Asheville this April. Last year this convention for all Latin students was held at GHS.

Through this meeting Paddy Sue gained much information which will aid her in publishing the state Latin paper, TORCH, N. C. Mary Ellen also learned valuable information on program planning.

Out goes the old and in comes the new. Brokie Lineweaver, newly elected Youth Center president, is shown exchanging handshakes with Mike Temko, retiring president, while Bill Hanna, treasurer, and Sue Simmons, secretary look on. Absent when the picture was taken was Don Wall, vice-president.

Williamson Instructs Three-Week Course

Student driving courses, under the guidance of Mr. Oscar Williamson, started on Monday, January 4, and lasted until last Wednesday.

Bible Club Council To Represent Classes

Students of the Bible classes have selected Bootsie Fowler to serve as president of the club council this semester. The other offices will be filled at the first meeting, this month.

Representatives for the Bible Club council were elected last week.

One boy and one girl representing each of Mrs. Edna Earle Randolph's five classes will be in charge of planning the monthly club meetings.

Bobby Barnes, Patty Mumford, Rita Boggs, Joe Kerley, Mary Ellen Rierson, Bill Manson, Margie Earle, Wayne Wyrick, Annette Patton, and Ed McConnell will compose the council.

Mrs. Randolph announced that the other club officers will be elected at the next regularly scheduled club meeting in February. They usually meet at the Mayfair Cafeteria for dinner and a speaker.

Changes, New Members Announced By Editor

New staff members and changes have been announced by Martha Jester, editor-in-chief of HIGH LIFE.

Fritz Apple, former sports editor, has been promoted to the position of managing editor.

Mary Ellen Kaelin has assumed the position of copy editor and Deane Darnell that of caption editor.

Eugenia Hickerson, and Dale Pearce were advanced from first year journalism to become proofreaders on the staff, while Jim Turner and Dick Robinson are additions to the sports' writing staff.
