

Important Dates Listed By Seniors' Adviser

Important dates for seniors were announced by Miss Eula Tuttle, Senior Class adviser, last week in a special bulletin for seniors.

The opening event for senior week will be Class Day, May 20. Miss Eula Tuttle will be the chairman for the program. Mrs. Edna Randolph, Miss Mozelle Causey, Miss Sara Mims, Miss Edna Nicholson, Miss Virginia Powell, and Mrs. Louise Morgan will assist her in the planning.

Immediately following the assembly will be the class luncheon.

Sunday, May 23, is the date set for the Baccalaureate Sermon at the First Baptist Church. Dr. Claude Bowen, pastor, will conduct the service.

Examinations start Friday, May 2 and last through Tuesday, May 25.

Graduation night is set for Thursday, May 27. If the gym is completed, graduation will be held there; if not, it will be in the school auditorium. Mrs. Kathryn Pierce, chairman, and Mrs. Mabel Pleasants are in charge of the night's program.

Students who will not graduate in May, but at the end of summer school, may participate in all senior activities, except graduation night.

Honor Code Assembly Presented By Council

GHS's honor code was the topic presented by the student council at assembly on Friday, February 5.

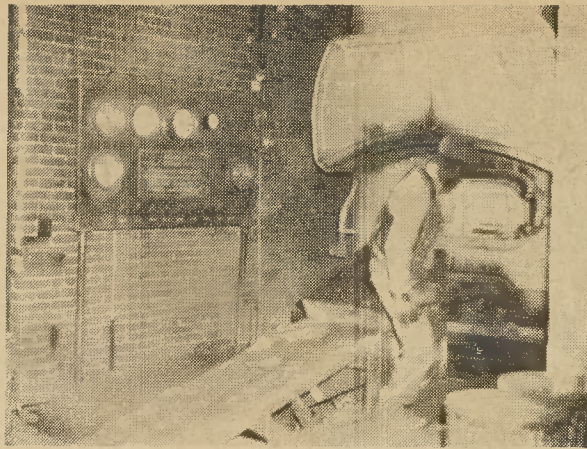

Jimmy Powell, Senior Class president, gave the devotion. This was followed by entertainment provided by the boys' chorus, which gave its versions of "The Lord is My Shepherd," "The Halls of Ivy," "Mary and Martha," and "Down By the Riverside."

Group singing of "Jacob's Ladder" and "Dixie" concluded the lighter side of the program.

Kelly Maness, student body president, told of the honor code cards that were to be presented to each member of the school. Each rule was read aloud by the student body, and Lisa Anderson, a member of the council, gave her definition of an honor code.

Tommy McDonald, captain of the basketball team, congratulated the school on its constant spirit. Applause was given Tommy as he said, "I believe that school spirit is better at Senior than it has been in the past. In every activity, GHS never lets its teams or representatives down."

Dr. Herschel Folger, minister of the Asheboro Street Friends Church, gave the major talk for the program. His speech included the importance of the nine folds of the honor code, and their affect on our everyday life.

This is just a small view of one of the school furnaces, located underneath the cafeteria. Howard Moton of the maintenance staff, is shown giving one more punch to the fire before the school day ends.

Dim Recesses Reveal Roaring, Busy Beasts

Deep, deep down in the dim recesses of GHS are two roaring beasts, not the alive kind, but the furnaces which perform their job so admirably.

To keep the public informed of the outstanding features of Senior is one of HIGH LIFE's duties. After sending a special reporter to the nether regions of the clinker pit, it is found they are MOST outstanding.

Located deep within the cafeteria building, the two stokers stand 10 feet high and are clearly labeled, for all to see, portable! The manufacturer also claims them to be smokeless. He should, some day, question the choking students here.

To heat the three buildings, the stokers require seven tons of coal a day. Automatic the furnaces may be, but automatic is not exactly the word used to describe the method of filling them with coal. Students tired out from the "brain-busting" work of school should take a look at the back breaking task of loading in the fuel. Just one wheel barrow full at a time and loaded every 15 minutes!

If this school ever gets too crowded, there can always be classes in the coal bin, not exactly a light and airy place, but plenty of space. It's twice the size of an ordinary class room and the fact that it's only been filled twice this year should indicate its size.

Those "heaters" seem to favor the science building as it is even warmer there than in the other two. It is interesting to note that Mrs. Randolph's room is easily ac-knowledgeed as the best heated room in the whole school. This little fact is interesting in that Mrs. Randolph is the Bible teacher. A sudden change from this is Mrs. Blanche Smith's room on the third floor. The heat just doesn't seem to have the energy to rise that high. Maybe Miss Yarborough can explain that.

For any further information see the janitor. If he's not loading coal, he will be glad to furnish more information.

Lutrell To Return To GHS Faculty

Returning to the GHS faculty next year will be Mr. Jack S. Lutrell, native of Shulls Mills, North Carolina, and former instructor of chemistry at GHS.

Mr. Lutrell left GHS after three years to join the armed forces. While in service he was the recipient of the Bronze Star Medal and was with the 45th Infantry Division which was stationed in Korea.
