

14 Students Taking Driving Instruction

Student driving courses, under the supervision of Mr. Ernest Sewell, member of Greensboro Police Department, began for the third time this year on November 15.

Those students taking the course in the morning before school are Marcella Johnson and Barbara Haney; in the hour after school Carolyn White and Ginger Curtis. The ones taking the instructions during their study halls are Mary Frances Guard, Pattie Bailey, Betty C. Stanford, Jeanne Scoggins, Virginia Timberlake, Norma Hemphill, Mary Ruth Carlton, Sylvia Boggan, Dwight Witty, and Ray Thomas.

The car is supplied by Ingram Motor Company, and the course is repeated approximately once a month. To be eligible one must be 16 year old.

Nation, and "The Driver's Handbook" for the State of North Carolina.

Following the general session the delegates adjourned to the Vocational Building where six groups met to discuss assigned problems that concern the teenage driver of today.

Each of the six groups was supervised by a chairman, an assistant, and an adult consultant. These directors were: group 1, Charles Woods, chairman; Gail Kirkman, assistant; and H. L. Wooters, adult consultant; group 2, Jimmy Jordan, chairman; Randy Burnett, assistant; and E. R. Medbury, adult consultant; group 3, Norm Odyneec, chairman; Michael Gardner, assistant; and E. R. Wynn, adult consultant; group 4, Sue Simmons, chairman; Leon Boggs, assistant; and J. L. Williamson, adult consultant; group 5, Susan Hege, chairman; Lisa Anderson, assistant; and E. Sewell, adult consultant; and group 6, R. B. Arthur, chairman; John Gardner, assistant; and O. Williamson, adult consultant. The adult consultants were all from the Greensboro Police Department.

Each discussion group drew up a number of resolutions designed to help reduce the ever present accidents. These resolutions were presented to the entire convention which returned to the auditorium for this purpose. Following a dis-

D. O. Students Utilize Telephone Apparatus

"Awright, this is me. Whatcha want?" answered Joe Shmo who had just been accepted by a reputable firm as a service clerk. Just then his boss walked by.

"Awright, Mr. Shmo," he said sarcastically, "this is me and you're fired."

Poor Joe! His first chance at success down the drain. He simply couldn't understand it.

Cases like this occur often. An employee is often discharged because of discourtesy on the job. The proper use of a business telephone requires several lessons in etiquette, and because of the importance of such a duty, fifty members of the D.O. classes of Mrs. McIntyre's D.O. classes have undertaken a special project on using the business phone correctly.

In the actual course is included a section on telephone use, but through a special request, the classes received from a Baltimore firm apparatus for special work. This is composed of a large "talk box" to which two phones and microphones are attached. The participating future office workers go into different rooms. The phone rings and the class listens to the ensuing conversation.

What do they talk about? Skits prepared by this firm are sent with the other equipment. The class is divided into groups and each group is responsible for presenting the do's and don't's of telephone etiquette. For instance, the office worker responsible for answering the phone should never let the phone ring more than twice. Her voice should be pleasant and should relay a tone of interest to the caller. She must be precise in any statement she makes. Many times the error comes from the customer or caller who doesn't have her facts straight. It is up to the office worker to straighten things out.

discussion of the resolutions, which were unanimously accepted by the convention, a closing address was given by Mr. Jeter Williamson during which a luncheon invitation at the school cafeteria was extended to the steering committee and the consultants as guests of the Greensboro Police Department Athletic League.

TURN OF EVENTS

By Jimmie Turner

Just at a time when the western nations were being lulled by soothing tones from behind the Iron Curtain, there came a rude awakening. Radio Peking made an announcement that seemed to mock their own "peaceful coexistence campaign." The Chinese Reds had arrested, convicted and sentenced 13 Americans to prison for "spying." This act violates the Korean Peace Treaty since 11 of the men were flyers shot down in North Korea while on a military mission. Technically these men are prisoners of war and should have been exchanged when the fighting stopped. That is—according to the treaty. But the Communists, apparently having no respect for laws or treaties, decided to keep them as political prisoners. Why the Reds did this and admitted it is not clear. It certainly won't help their efforts to gain admittance to the U.N. Then on top of that they state their intentions of "liberating" Formosa—by force if necessary. All these things make their talk of "peaceful coexistence" sound just a wee bit insincere.

One of the most controversial political figures in recent years ALGER HISS, became a free man after serving 3 years, 8 months of his term. Legally he has paid his debt to society, although he still maintains that he was innocent and not a Communist. Now that he is free it is likely that he will write a book relating his side of the case that sent him to prison for perjury.

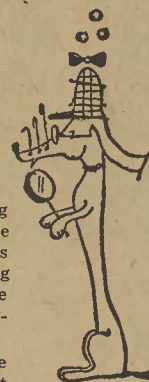

Another convicted perjurer, WILLIAM REMINGTON, was not as fortunate as Hiss. He was severely beaten by several inmates with a brick while sleeping in his cell in Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary. Sixteen hours later he died. The F.B.I. collected the suspects and found that even among prisoners there is an anti-communist feeling. However they suspect that Remington's murder was not motivated by politics alone.

PAUL BUTLER will be the man guiding the Democrats in the 1956 elections. He was recently elected chairman of the Democratic National Committee and has the support of potential presidential nominee ADLAI STEVENSON. Butler has served in nearly every kind of party past and is quite experienced in running campaigns.

There were also two other significant occurrences recently in the news that need no further comment: 1. the death of ANDREI VISHENSKY, and 2. the censure of SENATOR JOSEPH McCARTHY.

Ellis Stone Super Snooper

BY ANN HARRIS

Merry Christmas! If you think I'm rushing things, you're just a crazy mixed-up kid, 'cause there are just seven shopping days left. This is a great time of year. Everyone's humming Christmas carols and shopping at Ellis Stone for all their gifts. After I make a few suggestions, you'll see what I mean.

First in your love life (and otherwise) is the boy friend, and since he's so special, there's just one gift that's perfect for him. Is he sentimental? Then I suggest you put several pictures of yourself in a two-in-one billfold by Prince Gardner with detachable photo card case and optional money flap. Made of top grain cowhide in tan or brown it's his for only $5.00. Perhaps your man likes to be "best dressed" in his crowd. For those coat and tie occasions, nothing sets off his crisp shirts like a cuff link and tie clasp set by Shields or Swank. In silver or gold, these sets begin at $2.50.

In this good ol' cold weather we all wear sweaters so much, that I can't think of a more practical gift than a Bantamac pullover of soft lambswool. Colors to choose from include pink, coral, burgundy, wine, Carolina blue, charcoal grey, charcoal brown, or rust. Ellis Stone also has argyles to match.

Now for the girl friend, there's Revlon's jeweled lipstick trio, three different shades of lanoline lipstick crowned with simulated jewels in a handy velvet-finish snap case all for $1.50. To make her feel luxurious from head to toe, it's Helena Rubinstein's perfumed foam bath quartet, four two-ounce bottles of delicately perfumed Apple Blossom Time, Command Performance, White Magnolia, and Heaven-Sent for only $3.00. Here's a wonderful idea for her. A musical jewelry box holds a tiny ballerina figurine that dances to "Ballerina" when the lid is raised. The outside is calfskin leatherette; the inside, velvet and satin lining. Lock and key included, this treasure comes in ivory, baby blue, and rose at $7.95. I don't need to tell you how luscious a Hadley cashmere sweater would be to any female on December 25. These dreams come in white, pink, light blue, mist grey, purple, or navy, priced from $18.95 up.

Next on our list is Papa, and to make his life one shaving dream, why not make his present a Schick "20" shaver that has two full cutting blades to ensure smooth, close shaves for years to come. For the traveler a pure bristle fitted brush with a zipper compartment containing complete toilet accessories: toothbrush, tooth paste, comb, and shaving equipment, is only $5.00.

Papa's favorite girl sometimes presents a problem, because Mom's usually so busy she doesn't give out hints. Does she secretly have a yen for things a little on the lacy order? Nothing could be daintier than a Vanity Fair permanent pleated nylon slip with a rose patterned lace bodice, in white, pink, or black. Lady Noble's has a three-piece cotton pajama set that is ideal for sleeping or lounging. The trousers and coat are solid with plaid trim to match the shirt in green, blue, or flame for just $8.98.

I hope I've helped you to decide what to give those important people, and if you have, how 'bout giving me a hand? All joking aside, I'm doing all my shopping at Ellis Stone, how 'bout you? From everyone at the best store in town here's wishing you a very Merry Christmas and the greatest New Year yet.

Mid-Winter Dance Set For January 22

January 22 is the late decided upon by the Student Council for Senior High's annual Mid-Winter's dance.

The council, in their meeting on December 14, discussed plans for the annual event which last year took place at the now closed Greensboro Youth Center. Hours for the dance will be from 8:30 until 11:30, but as yet the dance band has not been chosen. Senior High's own girls' gym is the site for the dance.

All students at GHS are invited to attend, and the tickets will go on sale sometime near the 22. Stag or drag tickets are priced at 50 cents apiece. Margie Boren, Student Council member, is head of the committee in charge of all dance activities.
