

Seven Represent School In AB Duke Semi-Finals

Greensboro Senior High School was well represented in the semi-finals of the annual Angier B. Duke Scholarships, as seven seniors—two girls and five boys—were in this select group which met with a selection committee for interviews on February 15 and 16.

The girls, Susan Graham and Martha Ann Burnet, traveled to Dunn, North Carolina, Tuesday, February 15, for interviews with the committee at 9 a.m. With Miss Lillian Dewar of Raleigh, North Carolina, as chairman, the Central Region for Women met at the Divine Street Methodist Church in Dunn.

From the applicants present at this meeting five candidates will be selected as finalists. Three North Carolina girls from the finals will receive the grants valued at $1,000 per year renewable for four years provided the holder maintains a scholastic average in the top quarter of her class and that she shows evidence of developing the qualities of leadership.

On Wednesday, February 16, the 25 male semi-finalists from 11 Piedmont counties reported for interviews at 9 a.m. in the West Market Street Methodist Church in Greensboro.

Included in this group were five GHS seniors—Bob Grant, Michael Hayes, Bill Hunter, Jimmy Jordan, and Rob Pearce.

These boys along with the other 20 outstanding seniors from the West Central Region for Men were seeking five of the regional winning spots.

From five candidates picked from each of six districts, determined on the basis of high school population, and two "at-large" districts a total of six will receive a $1,000 scholarship renewable for four years.

The five from the group meeting in Greensboro will appear before a final selection committee at Duke March 18 and 19.

John M. Dozier, executive secretary of the prize committee, was in charge of the day-long interviewing session in Greensboro. He was assisted by W. L. Brinkley and C. Buck Roberts, both of Duke. Herman A. Smith of Greensboro was chairman of the local selection committee composed of C. R. Joyner of Winston-Salem, Rev. F. H. Hipps of Greensboro, Dr. Samuel Holton of Yanceyville, and John C. Council of Winston-Salem. At a luncheon at West Market Street Methodist Church Add Penfield of Greensboro was host to the group.

Panel Of Bible Students To Talk Over Problems

"Boy-Girl Relations" and other problems of youth will be discussed by Mrs. Charles Ramsey, a young people's leader of the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant, and a panel of six Bible students at the Bible Club Meeting at the Mayfair Cafeteria next Tuesday at 6:30.

The panel members are Joanne Saleeby, Terry Garrison, Paddy Sue Wall, Brantley Edwards, Ed Morrisett, and Buck Hoyle. They will discuss parent trouble, conduct in public, places to go on dates, interdenominational church dates, and other problems pertaining to young people.

After everyone has eaten dinner David Tucker will call the meeting to order. Then Dava Cashwell will introduce Mrs. Ramsey, who will lead the group in the discussion.

Officers of the Bible Club are David Tucker, president; Dava Cashwell, vice-president; and Bobbie Meeks, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Edna Earle Randolph's five Bible classes chose two representatives each and they will serve on the council with the club officers. The representatives are Joan Chandler, Jane Cheek, Holly Deifell, Edith Hargrove, Sue Johnson, Jerry Matherly, Dale Routh, Maurice Scruggs, Lanny Voight, and Bill Rierson.

Four Go Tomorrow To Orchestra Meet

Four entries from Senior High School will attend the District State Solo and Ensemble contest tomorrow at Duke University.

Susan Leonard, Concert Mistress of the Orchestra, will be the only soloist to enter from Senior. She will play the violin.

One quintet will be entered. Laura Adams will play the first violin; Anne Cole, second violin; Marcia Felt, viola; Katherine Leonard, cello; and John Gardiner, clarinet.

Eight people representing two quartets will perform in the contest. In the first quartet violinists will be Martha Yates and Anne Cole. Ed Wall will play the bass, and Ann Rountree will accompany them on the piano. The second quartet will be composed of Susan Leonard, first violinist; Laura Adams, second violinist; Katherine Leonard, celloist; and Marcia Felt, pianist.

The contestants who receive superior rating will go to Salisbury on April 2 for the State Finals. Mr. J. Kimball Harriman, director of the orchestra, and Mr. Robert Frederickson, assistant director, will accompany the musicians to Duke University.

Since the orchestra received a superior rating in the state contest last year, they will not have to enter the district contest at all, but can go straight to the state competition. They are now working on grade six music for this event. The music is from the top class offered.

Term Paper Topics Selected By Seniors

Term paper topics have been chosen by Mrs. Jean Newman's senior English classes.

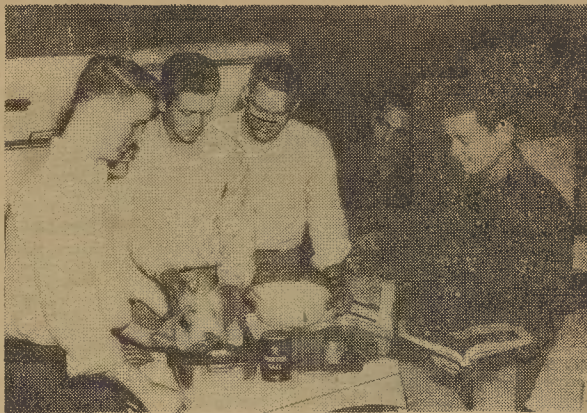

The students in Mrs. Newman's classes can write on any topic they wish; therefore the term papers vary from Julie Redhead's "The Use of Cosmetics" to Marsha Krieger's "Nuropatology."

After Mrs. Newman explained footnotes, bibliographies, references, and precisés, the classes assembled in the library and began research. Ann Pearce's "The Holsched Chronicles," Barbara Flynn's "Criticisms of the Caine Mutiny Court Martial," and Jerry Matherly's "Dante's Influence on T. S. Eliot's Poetry" are among topics selected in the literary field.

As a result of their interests in nursing and golf, Sandra Kimbro and Mike Weaver will do their term papers on these topics respectively. In the scientific field Jimmy Jordan will write on Parapsychology. Tip Noe on Automation, and Mike Hayes on flying. Napoleon, Churchill, and Elizabeth will be the respective topics for papers by Tommy Isley, Johnnie Bolick, and Susan Hege.

Other various topics are "The Rosenberg Case," by David Tucker, "Juvenile Delinquency" by David Bell; "Rise of Atomic Power"

Way To A Woman's Heart?

16-Would-Be Chefs Join Campfire Cooking Class

"The way to a woman's heart is through outdoor cooking," or at least it is according to the sixteen would-be chefs, who enjoy Miss Mary York's newly-formed outdoor cooking class.

Outdoor cooking will be emphasized as a hobby for boys. The treats in store for the boys are demonstrations, lab work, film strips, at least two speakers, and television.

What are they doing now? They are spending four weeks brushing up on main problems concerning cost, selecting, purchasing, preparing, cooking, and carving of meats, game, and fish. Next on the agenda is one week of diving into soups and stews.

They'll be coming around the vegetable bin when they come! But what will they be coming to do. To tackle the culinary problems of vegetable know-how. Next these hard-boiled boys will scramble through the preparation of macaroni, cheese, and eggs.

Of course everyone knows that on a camping trip it is necessary to take fruits to keep the doctor away. Therefore, the selecting, purchasing, preparing, and serving of fruits is taught. The boys also get a taste of bread baking and flapjack making. After all, what's a camping trip without flapjacks?

by Henry Hamilton; and "Shinto, The Way of the Gods" by Tommy Melver.

Everybody likes a little spice, but does everybody conjure his own herbs in seasoning as these cooks do? Oh well, they live and learn. To pamper the sweet tooth Miss York gives instructions on desserts. Beverages, food habits, and foods along the camping trail are a few other subjects. They will also study modern equipment in regard to safety in the kitchen, use and care of equipment, and time and motion as related to cookery.

Outdoor cooking is a semester course designed for senior boys. It is an organized class with a chairman, secretary and treasurer.

Torchlight Nominates Former Greensboro Author For 1955 National Hall Of Fame

William Sydney Porter, a former resident of Greensboro famed as O. Henry, was chosen as a candidate for the 1955 Hall of Fame for Great Americans by Torchlight, National Honor Society, at their bi-monthly meeting in the conference room of the library on Thursday, February 17.

The National Honor Societies throughout America are representing American school youth in nomination of great Americans for the Hall of Fame in 1955.

Each chapter was invited to make one nomination of a great American they considered worthy of a place in the Hall of Fame for Great Americans, located on the grounds of New York University, New York City.

Every five years additional elections are made to the Hall of Fame, which is now composed of 83 Americans—75 men and 8 women. Nominations are made by a participating public. Then a College of Electors of about 100 distinguished citizens, chosen in approximately equal numbers from seven groups, make the final selections by vote.

After the final vote of the College of Electors, each chapter of the National Honor Society participating in the nominations will be sent a list of Great Americans selected to the Hall of Fame.

All elections of Americans are made without discrimination regarding sex, race, creed, color, economic status, or national origin. Candidates cannot be considered until 25 years after their death. They must receive an affirmative vote of a majority of the entire College of Electors.

Members of the Hall of Fame may be chosen from any of 16 classes — authors, educators, preachers or theologians, businessmen or philanthropists, scientists, engineers or architects, physicians or surgeons, inventors, missionaries or explorers, the military, lawyers or judges, statesmen, humanitarians, artists, naturalists, and distinguished men and women outside the foregoing classes.
