

NCEA Convenes In Asheville For Meet; Seven Go From Sr.

The North Carolina Education Association opened their annual meeting yesterday in Asheville, North Carolina, and will continue through tomorrow, with Mrs. E. N. Meekings from Raleigh presiding as the association's president.

This 1955 convention marks the 71 annual meeting of the organization, and the theme being used is "Educating for American Citizenship."

Teachers from all over North Carolina are attending the meeting to discuss means of carrying out the theme in their classes. Three general sessions are being held in which speakers are to give their suggestions and viewpoints. Following the general sessions, which everyone attends, are divisional meetings. Each person attends the meeting pertaining to the subject with which he is associated.

Senior High has seven representatives attending the meeting. They are Mr. Jack Luttrell, Mrs. Kathryn Pierce, Mrs. Kathryn Ayers, Miss Virginia Powell, Miss Mozelle Causey, Miss Estelle Mitchell, and Mrs. Kathryn McEntire. Representation at the meeting was based on the sizes of the schools.

Greensboro residents who are participating in the program are Mr. Ben L. Smith, superintendent of city schools; Mr. Thorpe Jones, former D.O. and D.E. teacher at Senior, who is now head of the Audio-Visual Department of city schools; Miss Lucille Brown, city guidance director; Mr. C. D. Bates, director of vocational education; and Miss Estelle Mitchell, teacher of French at Senior.

Those attending the meeting traveled individually rather than as a group.

Senior's Music Classes Receive Highest Ratings

Senior High's mixed chorus, girls' glee club, boys' glee club, and training band all received superior ratings at the Greensboro District Contest, which convened on March 11 and 12 in the GHS auditorium.

The choir director is Miss Eula Tuttle and the training band is directed by Mr. David Arner. Senior's vocal and instrumental groups entered the most difficult classification, class four.

Groups from all parts of Greensboro participated along with Burlington, Reidsville, Guilford, Pleasant Garden, Altamahaw-Ossipee,

Several members of the choir are shown above dreaming of their trip to New Orleans. They left Wednesday morning at 6 o'clock and will return the following Tuesday. The 60 people are traveling by bus.

Kuykendall Talks To History Class About Savings and Loan Functions

"They're very intelligent for their age" was the comment made by Mr. E. D. Kuykendall, Jr., executive vice-president of the North Carolina Savings and Loan League, after he gave a special talk to the members of Mr. Clifford Long's first period American History class on March 10.

Judges for the vocal groups were E. L. Williams of Greensboro College, Nancy Staley of High Point, and Richard Ehert of Raleigh. Earl Slocum of Chapel Hill and William Spencer of Durham were the judges for the instrumental events.

Because of a debate within the class over the differences between a savings and loan company and a bank, it was arranged that Mr. Kuykendall would come and try to clarify the matter for the group. The first thing he brought out was that people put money in a bank not to save, but to have a checking account. Banks pay very small interest. A savings and loan company encourages people to save money for homes and to have long-term loans. Here it is impossible to cash checks, but one must go in person for his money. They also pay dividends, which are higher than the interest paid by the banks. Another point that Mr. Kuykendall brought out is that banks are subject to income tax like any other corporation, whereas savings and loan associations pay a privilege tax and more state taxes than the banks. Despite their differences, these two concerns are always on the best of terms. After the talk there was a time for questions. Ann Armstrong asked, "If you are just out of college and need money to start a career or business, how can you get it?" "Marry it!" was Mr. Kuykendall's first reply. "Otherwise, you'll have to go to a bank." "What happens when someone 80 years old hobbles in and wants a long-term loan?" asked Virginia Timberlake. Mr. Kuykendall answered that sometimes they just explain that they can't give it. However, larger payments over a smaller time can be arranged. Kay, Mr. Kuykendall's daughter, stated that she thought the class got "right much" from the talk. "Anyway, we didn't have any homework that night."

Sixty Members of Choir Appear In Music Meet

Sixty members of the Greensboro Senior High School Choir left last Wednesday, March 23, for their appearance in the Southern Music Educator's Conference, in New Orleans.

The choir carried their own food for their lunch on Wednesday and spent that night at the Saint Frances Motel near Montgomery, Alabama.

They arrived in New Orleans about 6 p. m. last Thursday, and they are staying at the DeSota Hotel during the conference.

Their first rehearsal for the Concert Hour is being held this morning at 11:30.

The conference will be held this afternoon at 4 p. m. in the Jung Hotel. Numbers they are planning to sing are "Early in the Morning," McCormick; "Salvation Is Created," Txchesnokoff; "The Last Words of David," Randall Thompson; "David's Lamentation," Billings; "O Softly Singing Lute," Borowski; "The Lark in the Mourn," a folk song arranged by Randall Thompson, and "Whirlwing," Stan Jones.

While on the trip the choir hopes to take a dip in the Gulf of Mexico and see other places, if time permits.

The girls will wear their navy blue princess style dresses this afternoon while the boys will wear their navy blue suits.

Chaperones for the trip are Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Routh, Miss Eula Tuttle, and Mrs. Virginia Toenes. A Daily News reporter is along with the group.

While in New Orleans the choir plans to go on special tours of interest, and to eat dinner at Antoinette Restaurant, if their budget permits.

The GHS choir, along with three other groups, was chosen to represent all the high school groups in the United States.

The projects to raise money for the trip were selling doughnuts, kneenex, silver cleaners, candy, Christmas trees, collecting coat hangers and scrap paper, baby sitting, and presenting a combined program with the school band.

The choir is planning to arrive in Greensboro on Monday night.

Orchestra Members Go To Boone For Concert

On Friday, March 18, 66 members of the orchestra traveled to Boone, North Carolina, to present a music series at the Appalachian State Teachers' College.

The group left Greensboro at noon since they were to give the concert that night from 8 to 9 o'clock. They played the same numbers for the series that they played at the concert here the night before with a few additions.

After the concert the orchestra members were entertained at a dance in their behalf given by the college. Last season's football team was present, and the college dance band performed for the dance. The girls were quartered in one half of the new women's dormitory. The group arrived home Saturday afternoon.
