An all-fired softball team is in the making it appears. Forty girls are signed up to play for GHS is season.

In the competition Senior will play Curry High School and High Point High.

Point High.

Return pitchers for the team are Martha Yates and Sue Kimell. Also signed up for the pitching mound are Kay Shaffer, Jeanette Brame, and Petitesa Klenos.

Losing Jean Bateman came as a blow, but Jenny Lee, Vicki Stewart, Clara Roberts, Ann Collins, and Maxine Callisher are all there ready to smash in for position of catcher.

All veterans back from last year are Jeneil Edwards, Martha Yates, Lucille Yow, Cynthia Burley, Dot Smith, Margie Mitchell, Sue Kim-ell, Betty Sink and Kathleen Sat-torfield rest are Nancy Doggett and Diane White.

Faye Watson shows much promise in being a neat third baseman for this year's team. Pat Gillie is also looking good this year.

Among the 30 that practiced March 28 after school were these sophomores: Kay Shaffer, pitcher; Lynn Rankin, first base, Joy Brown and Billie Jessup, field. All of these players looked good.

Just a word of friendly advice to you girls: You know you're playing at a disadvantage because of your field, so just don't let your handicap get the best of you; be careful and jump those pits. I'd hate to see anyone hobbling around the school on crutches.

French Contest Entered By McGee And Toenes

Mrs. Jessie Gorrell and Miss Estell Mitchell, GHS French teachers, entered their classes in the Na-tional French Contest, during the National French Contest Week, which began March 28. Two papers have been submitted to represent Greensboro Senior High. Louise McGee, a junior and first-year French student, and Sara Toenes, a junior and second-year French student; were selected to enter their papers.

The contest consisted of tests on dictation, aural comprehension questions, translations, the civilization of France, grammar, and French vocabulary questions. It took the students two 50-minute periods to complete.

The American Association of Teachers of French were the sponsors of this National Contest. Winning papers in North Carolina are entered in a regional contest in the South, and the regional winners are entered into National competition.

Last year, a first-year French student from Kittrell, North Caro-lina won first place in the National French Contest.

For GHS' May Day To Be Given May 5

To the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" the 1955 May Court of Greensboro Senior High School with Juliana Clark reigning as Queen, will take their places on the front lawn on May 5 to view annual festivities planned in accordance with the spring season. The theme for the occasion will be School Days with the major part of the plans held secret until the actual presentation. The Student Council is in charge of all arrangements. Faculty advisers are Miss Dorothy McNairy, Miss Rebecca Frazier, and Miss Majorie Gabrial, while student co-chairmen are Bill Williamson, junior, and Kay Wrenn, senior.

The students, having voted to hold the May Day on the school lawn as traditional, held a meeting to select participants. Approximately 150 people showed up for this primary convening. At the second assemblage the attendance had narrowed down to fifty persons.

Certain school organizations are planning skits for the program. They are Junior Classical League, La Alianza Espanol, the band, and the boys' and girls' glee clubs.
A good many students have volunteered to give instructions to participants for the various dances. Taking charge of the Indian dances will be sophomore Bill O'Brien. The girls rendering their services as dance instructors number 17. They are Libby Garvin, Juliana Clark, Sylvia Willard, Louise McGee, Agnes Tate, Barbara Flynn, Betty Kernodle, Helen Hall, Diane Evans, Margie Boren, Phyllis Steed, Shirley Everett, Gloria Shaw, Eleanor Pearman, Camille Merriman, Carol Horney, and Valinda Beall.
All Plans and arrangements have not been completed. Assignment of parts is being undertaken at the present time. In the event that it should rain, the program will be postponed for the next day, May 6. The Junior marshalls will usher on this occasion.

When the new pool is opened this summer, the girls plan to work out there. They are also planning a pageant for the opening of the new pool.

The girls traveled to Duke' University on March 26 where they won first place in the girls' division. Ashton Edwards placed third in the 100 and 200 free-style and second in the backstroke. Phyllis Glynn won first place in the breaststroke and Lou Ellen Richey placed second with Becky Ozment placing third. Paddy Sue Wall was fourth in the 100-200 free-style. Three of the girls, Ashton, Phyllis and Paddy Sue, placed third in the Southeastern Championship meet in Atlanta, February 5, 1955. The team has held the North and South Carolina girls' championship title for the past four years.

The team has traveled to North Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina, Tennessee, Oak Ridge, Chambersburgh, Pennsylvania and Franklin, Virginia.

the gold block "G"? What was their cost?

The Class of 1922 won the right to the first class ring, a gold ring with an oval shield and decorated with gold designs. The year of graduation was on its side.

Each year the class chose its own ring. When the school moved to Westover Terrace the ring changed again to one with a replica of the new building on one side and the school seal on the other. In 1931 the rings changed to gold with an amethyst stone. These lasted until the stones became hard to get in the early years of World War II. After this the rings changed to the present class ring with the gold block "G".

The price of the rings has changed only a little, in fact only $1.76 in the past 33 years.

Not only does the library possess classical music, but also semiclassical music. One semi-classical album, which has proved very popular, is "Organ Encores". Such all-time favorites as "Stardust", "Indian Love Call", and "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" are included in this album.

Many students do not recognize the reference uses of magazines, but feel they are entirely for pleasure reading. Monday's and Friday's are purposely set aside for leisure reading of the magazines, but the other weekdays are for reference work which includes magazines when they are used for reference.

Last year 26,000 magazines were circulated for reference uses. Many magazines contain valuable information which cannot be found in books. Let's all start using the magazines found in our school library for reference work as well as for pleasure reading.
