High School's Enrollment Reaches 1700 Students As Conditions Become More Crowded

Enrollment in public schools all over the nation has increased greatly, and Greensboro Senior High is no exception. An enrollment total of 1700 students was reported by Mrs. Nellie Kate Blackburn, dean of students, on September 15. This figure is an all time high and places GHS the second largest high school in North Carolina. New Hanover High School in Wilmington claims first place with the largest student body.

Soph Class Elections To Be September 28

Candidates and campaign managers for major Sophomore Class officers met with the election committee in room 206 yesterday afternoon to complete details for presentation and voting next week.

The chronological election schedule was presented to sophomores by Dick Robinson, chairman of the elections and president of the Senior Class during the class assembly held on Friday, September 16.

All applications for the offices of president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and council representative were turned in to room 206 yesterday.

The candidates introduced by their campaign managers will be presented in a special assembly on Monday morning, September 26, allowing registration throughout Tuesday, September 27, the voters will go to the polls on Wednesday.

The Sophomore Class will be represented by nine people at Student Council. Representation is based on one per 75 students. This is the largest number of council members any class has ever had.

Senior Class Begins Annual Ribbon Sales

Senior Class representatives resumed the traditional sale of blue and white ribbons before the first home game with Raleigh on September 9.

Heading the sale are Dick Robinson and Jim Martin, president and vice president respectively of their class. Shirley Smith, secretary, handles the mechanics of cutting and pinning the nearly one thousand ribbons each week. The slogans are stamped in blue ink by the Litho Press of Greensboro and sell for ten cents.

Miss Becky Frazier is the faculty adviser assisting in the drive designed to raise money for Whirligig, the student yearbook.

The enrollment of Greensboro High, a school originally designed for 1500 students, has swollen to 1750 with the largest Sophomore Class in its history occupying 22 home rooms. Pictured above is part of the enrollment crowd after registration.

The junior high schools have contributed mostly to Senior's growth with approximately 215 students from Lindley, 145 from Central, 130 from Aycock, 90 from Proximity, and 65 from Gillespie making the total roughly 685. With approximately 33 students to a class, this year's home room total is 51-22 sophomore, 14 junior, and 15 senior home rooms. The Junior and Senior Classes contain about 500 students each.

To meet the crowding conditions and cramped teaching quarters, rooms 201 and 203, which have served as study halls in the past years, have been converted into four new class rooms. The audiovisual room, gym and the conference room of the library are also being used as class rooms. At the present time all available teaching space is being used, but there is some hope for the future. Plans are now in the making for a new music building and home economics building which may relieve the over-crowded conditions next year.

By adding the 73 members of the teaching faculty to the enrollment of students a number is received which is larger than the number of seats in the auditorium. At the present time A. P. Routh, principal, and his staff are working on a suitable assembly plan for all classes to meet at one time. The only way this is possible is for approximately 150 students to sit on the stage.

As a result of the study hall rooms being converted, study halls are now being held in the auditorium. The students are placed in every other seat thereby giving them a place to put their books. "This system of studying seems to be working fine due to the excellent co-operation of the students," states Mrs. Mabel Pleasants, math teacher.

Wheel Club Picks Officers

Newly elected officers of the Wheel Club, composed of Senior High's bus drivers, for the year 1955-56 are Bob Herford, president; Sidney Oliver, vice-president; and Buddy Bishop, secretary.

Members of the club have begun ushering at football games in order to help finance their annual

First High Life Free

In accordance with the policy and tradition of this paper, the first issue of HIGH LIFE is distributed free of charge to each student and faculty member of the student body.

Staff members will begin the annual subscription drive sometime next month. Rates will be 50 cents per semester.

picture. Several activities have been planned for the year. One of these, the placing of a fire extinguisher on every bus. This project is being undertaken by the boys themselves.

The regular bus drivers are Loftus Neece, Wayne Sandridge, Grady Tucker, Buddy Bishop, Jerry Owens, Charlie Wilson, Norman Vestal, Richard Murray, Sidney Oliver, Melvin Frick, Kent Carter, Bob Covert, Willard Seggle, Sidney Oliver, Doug Paschal, and Wesley Schofield.

Substitute drivers are Harold Caudle, Ronald Sink, James Seagle, Alfred Hill, Paul Amos, Jimmy Barrior, Howard Carr, and Carl Sauls.

LJHS Teacher Wins First McNutt Award

Mrs. Herbert Hazelman, seventh grade English teacher at Lindley Junior High School, received the first annual McNutt award at the General Teacher's meeting Monday, September 5.

Dr. Franklin H. McNutt, professor at W. C., after whom the award was named, made the presentation of a check for $100 and a plaque to Mrs. Hazelman. An identical plaque went to E. Frank Johnson, principal of Lindley Junior High School, to be displayed permanently at that school.

All Greensboro teachers were invited by Greensboro Industries Inc. to submit a plan showing how they teach the American way of life in their individual fields. The central idea came from John Truslow Adam's book THE AMERICAN EPIC in which he devotes considerable space to what he calls "The American Dream." From this source, Mr. DeWitt Carroll and Mr. John Harden, leaders in Greensboro Industries, enumerated seven basic freedoms and, as their counterparts, seven duties which teachers should follow in teaching of the American Way of Life.

When asked how she would spend this award, Mrs. Hazelman said that her first impulse was to buy a hundred dollars worth of shoes, but after recovering from the shock, she will probably buy saving bonds for the education of Casey, her two year old son.

GHS's Faculty Increases With Ten New Members

Coming from various places inside and out of North Carolina are the 10 new Senior High faculty members, who include nine teachers and a new cafeteria manager.

Mrs. Dorothy Albright, the new cafeteria manager, is the mother of Doug Albright, junior. She graduated from Oklahoma A&M College and moved to Greensboro from Stillwater, Oklahoma, her home town. Mrs. Albright said, "I am very pleased with Senior High."

In the English department there are Miss Julia Brown and Mrs. Sara Summers. Miss Brown, who is a graduate of Greensboro College, taught at Madison for two years. Incidentally, she is also a graduate from Greensboro Senior High School. Says Miss Brown about Senior High, "Other than an increase in students, nothing has changed." She has just returned after a two-month tour of Europe which included eight countries. They were England, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland, and France.

Mrs. Summers, a graduate of High Point College, has also taught before coming to Senior. She taught in Summerfield, which is her home town. Mrs. Summers' impression of Senior is the friendly faculty and pupils.

Organized School

In the math department there is Mrs. Hilda McDonald, who did graduate work at the University of North Carolina and got married that summer. She taught school for 10 years at Guilford High School. After finishing her graduate work, she came back to Guilford county and taught at Guilford College. Mrs. McDonald received her A.B. degree from East Carolina College. "I am very much impressed with Senior High," says Mrs. McDonald. "It is a well organized and good school."

Mrs. Mary Gamble, who graduated at Summerfield High School before coming to Senior, teaches history. Mrs. Gamble says, "I think Senior High is a wonderful school!"

After a year of student teaching at Senior last year, Miss Helen Turlington is now teaching biology. Her hometown is Jacksonville, North Carolina, but she attended Greensboro College. Says Miss Turlington of her impression of Senior, "The students are very nice and friendly. I am enjoying teaching here very much."

A graduate of WCUNC, Mrs. Ana Miller, who was recently married, is the new Spanish teacher. She came to Greensboro from Havana, Cuba.

Favorably Impressed

Mr. Joe Still attended Emory, Henry C., George Peabody, Duke University, and the University of Michigan. He has instructed bands at Knoxville, Tennessee; Bristol, Tennessee; Asheboro, and Burlington. Knoxville is his hometown. "I am very favorably impressed and I am looking forward to the work here," says Mr. Still.

From the commercial department came Miss Ann Moore and Miss Ellen Lensing. Miss Moore graduated from Woman's College and taught at Wilson, North Carolina before coming to Senior.

Fuss and Feathers

Miss Lensing grew up in Two Rivers, Wisconsin and attended Whitewater State College and the University of Wisconsin. She has taught at Wisconsin, Illinois and Eastern State High School. Miss Lensing is particularly impressed by the smooth operation of Senior High, which seems to be accomplished with such a minimum of "fuss and feathers." "Why am I in North Carolina?" she asked, then immediately answered, "Because I hate winters that start in October and last through April."
