

The long anticipated Music Building for Greensboro Senior High School is at last in the planning stage. Combined efforts of the school's music instructors and building architects resulted in the above plan. The building is designed to meet every occasion that might arise. It will be sometime next year before it will be erected and it will be located between the Main Building and the Vocational Building. I. A. Sigmon is the architect for the two-story structure which will add much to the modernness of the Greensboro Senior High School Campus.

Plans For Music Building Being Drawn For School

By next September a music building will have been built in Senior High's back yard. Located between the Vocational Building and the Main Building, the $150,000 building will house the three musical groups — the band, the choir, and the orchestra. Miss Eula Tuttle, the choir director, J. Kimball Harriman, the orchestra conductor, and Herbert Hazelman, the band leader, have worked closely with the architect, I. A. Sigmon on the tentative plans to make the new buildings as serviceable as possible. What they desire most is space—and they're getting it. Each music group will have a separate rehearsal room, and 20 individual practice rooms will be available for students. An inter-communication system will be installed in each room, so that the supervisors can listen to the students practicing.

On the second floor will be the choir rehearsal room, orchestra rehearsal room, storage rooms, teaching studios, orchestra library, choir and orchestra offices and practice rooms.

Student Council Members Give Help Holiday Meal

On Wednesday, November 23, the Student Council presented a complete Thanksgiving box to each janitor and maid of Senior High School.

Each year the Student Council sponsors this project; however, the entire student body participates by their contributions.

Student Council members, accompanied by an adult adviser, purchased the Thanksgiving dinner at a local grocery store.

A few of the items included in the box were a turkey, potatoes, apples, onions, oranges, grapefruit, bread, rice, peas, and cookies.

Serving on the Student Council this year are Houston Groome, Dick Robinson, Leon Boggs, Wayne Griffin, Gail Kirkman, Janie Walters, Manley Dodson, Zade Turner, and Bill Williamson, seniors.

Bill O'Brien, Bob Baynes, Susan Brooks, Buck Hoyle, Nancy Lambeth, Jane Lynch, Karl Ray, Harriet Wells and Pete Wyrick represent the Junior Class.

Miss Dorothy McNairy is the adviser for the Student Council.

Band members will be provided a locker room which will give them the opportunity to change into their uniforms at school for parades, concerts, or music contests. Each bandster will also have his own mailbox for receiving instructions about shows at the football games and for receiving music. A forced air system will keep the building warm in winter and cool in spring. With this regulation, fresh air will be circulating through the rooms all the time. Some other rooms included on the first floor are the band rehearsal room, band library and office, an instrument repair shop, instrument storage room and locker rooms.

Lost, Found Department Boasts Variety of Items

Have you lost a rhinestone earring? Have you lost an angora glove? If you have, come to the lost and found department, which is in the office and is kept by Mrs. Margaret Malone, the office secretary.

The many articles turned in to the office range from gym clothes to half-knitted multi-colored argyles. Some of these unusual articles are a GHS Whirlie pennant, compasses, a watch, eye glasses, bottles of pills, and a large leather shoulder bag. Others that are not so unusual include fountain pens, change purses (containing money up to and over a dollar), cuff links, pencil cases, pencils, and bracelets.

Now that cold weather is here, these articles in the lost and found would come in handy: sweaters, scarves of all colors, coats—short and long, gloves of different fabrics, colors and sizes, and umbrellas.

In the cosmetic and "beautifying" department, there are found these items: lipsticks (an assortment of colors which range from "Kissing Pink" to "Rosy Future"), compacts, bobbie pins, and barettes.

Under miscellaneous would be pocketbooks of all sizes and shapes and one small article, a WCUNC charm dated 1943. The eye glasses number approximately 15 pairs. The head and neck scarves are various colors; mostly reds, greens, yellows, and blues. As for jewelry, there is a tan sequin earring, a small copper one, and also a silver earring. The bracelets include a turquoise one, and several simple bracelets.

Any item that contains any identification is returned to the person during school. At the end of the school year, the found articles are given to the Salvation Army.

Guatemalan Honors La Alianza Espanola

Miss Norma Davis, a native of Guatemala, was the special guest of the La Alianza Espanola which met Thursday night, November 17, at the home of Eleanor Zwicky.

Miss Davis has been in school in the United States for a year. She spoke to the group in Spanish and demonstrated several Spanish dance steps.

Tony Martinez, a sophomore at Senior, played records of popular Cuban music, including "The Little Shoemaker," which was sung in Spanish.

Miss Maunida Wales, Spanish teacher, is the adviser of La Alianza Espanola.
