

Citizenship Honor Roll Students Chosen

Citizenship Honor Roll representatives have recently been chosen from the three classes at Senior High School by the faculty and the student body.

The senior representatives are Eve Purdom and Houston Groome; juniors, Jean Ogburn and Karl Ray; sophomores, Lynn McGregor and Der Hong Hanson.

Being editor of the North Carolina National Honor Society Newspaper is only one of Eve's activities. She is also a member of Torchlight, Future Teachers of America, an office assistant, and is participating in the Christmas Pageant. Eve is a member of the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant and is on the Church's Senior Advisory Citizenship Committee. Last summer, she was elected to attend the sixth annual Odd Fellows Pilgrimage to the United Nations.

President of Greensboro High School is Houston's title. He is in the choir, the Youth Council, and Student Council. Besides his many school activities, he is a member of the Key Club, Les Amis Hi-Y, president of the Leaders Club, and he attends the West Market Street Methodist Church, where he belongs to the Youth Fellowship.

Jean, secretary of JCL, is also president of the Glee Club. She is a Future Teachers member, and secretary of her home room. Outside school, Jean is in the Euterpe Symphonia, a member of West Market Street Methodist Church where she is assistant secretary of her Sunday School department. Jean is also in the church choir and a member of the Youth Fellowship.

Vice-president of the Junior Civitan Club is one of Karl's activities. He is also a choir member, president of his home room, a representative on the Youth Council, and a member of the Les Freres Hi-Y Club. Karl also sings in the choir of the Bethel Methodist Church.

As vice-president of her home room, Lynn is a bronze star wearer, a youth council member, and attends the Presbyterian Church.

Der Hong is fire captain of his home room, is participating in the Christmas Pageant, and has been elected best citizen of his home room for the last two times.

Making themselves useful at school are the Best Citizens for the past six weeks. Karl Ray and Jean Ogburn, juniors, are window polishing and looking quite happy about the whole business! Making a clean sweep of things are Eve Purdom and Houston Groome, seniors. Lynn McGregor and Der Hong Hanson, sophomores, are helping the vegetation at school by watering some plants. Best citizens for home rooms are chosen each six weeks; and from the home room best citizens, the faculty selects the students for the Citizenship Honor Roll.

D. E. Members Have Christmas Celebration At White Oak YMCA

Distributive Education classes will have their Christmas party at the White Oak YMCA December 17 from 7:30 p. m. until 9:30.

About 50 D. E. members and their dates will attend the party which will have as a theme "It's party time for D. E.'s and their dates." Included in the program will be the presentation of Santa Claus, who will lead the dancing and give out treats to all those attending. He will be dramatized by the husband of Mrs. Margaret Hadden, the D. E. co-ordinator.

Each person will wear an identification label shaped like a Christmas bell and tied with ribbon.

The program will consist of dancing and playing games. Hot chocolate and cookies will be served to the group.

Serving on the planning committee are Betty Stanford, Betty Simmons, Lou McCulloch, Billy Matherly, Eldridge Greeson, and Jerry Varner.

Others who will be away are Miss Ann Moore, Box 555, Elizabeth City, North Carolina; Miss Ida Belle Moore, Burgaw, North Carolina; Mrs. Louise Morgan, Gray Gull Cottage, Fort Myers Beach, Florida; Miss Helen Turlington, Jacksonville, North Carolina; Miss Maunida Wales, 723 Circle Court, Martinsville, Virginia; and Miss Sarah Yarbrough, 307 Calvin Road, Raleigh, North Carolina.

D. O. Classes Emphasize Social Development Study

Members of the Diversified Occupations classes have been attending Christmas parties in connection with their unit of study on social development.

They believe that to be successful in business, one must be a success socially. But because their jobs keep them so busy, D. O. students don't have time to put their social knowledge to use. Elizabeth Gregg MacGibbon, author of Business In Manners, says, "A well-known handbook for secretaries recommends the study of social etiquette as an aid in handling difficult personal relationships in business, but my observation is that social knowledge is not sufficient in the office."

Such things as how to act at a social gathering; what to do with knives and forks, and what to say and when to say it, are examples of things the students have practiced at their parties.

The first period class had their party Tuesday, December 6, at Nancy Martin's home, while the second period class had a dinner party at the Holiday Inn. The third period had a party at Ruth and Janice Matthew's home, Monday, December 5.

Musical Program Given In Assembly For School

On Tuesday, November 29, a variety musical program, in which various students participated, was presented to the student body.

After the devotional, given by Karl Ray, a junior, Randy Dodson, a junior, and Jerry Farber, a senior, played several piano selections.

Randy opened the program with "Autumn Leaves" after which Jerry played an arrangement of "Chop Sticks," "Ain't It A Shame," and "Tenderly."

Cooper Null and his band presented several musical arrangements, including "Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing," "Love Walked In," "My Own True Love," "Darktown Strutter's Ball," "In a Minor Mood," "Ja-Da," "Confusion,"—a piece which the boys themselves composed—and "Shake, Rattle, and Roll."

Members of the band are Cooper Null, Lee Cory, Bobby Johannesen, Dennis Maynard, Bill Ward, Sandy Tucker, and Carl Tate.
