

Amy Hutchison Reigns As Queen of May

Amy Hutchison, Greensboro Senior High's Queen of May, reigned over the May Day exercises May 3 in the gym. Attendants in the Queen's Court were Senior maid-of-honor, Peggy Durham escorted by Mark Foster; Junior maid-of-honor, Jane Lynch escorted by Dick Robinson; and Sophomore maid-of-honor Marsha Bumpass escorted by John Jester.

Other ladies in the court were Camille Merriman, Libby Garvin, and Kitty White escorted by Carl Tate, Bobby Baynes, and Roy Michaux, respectively. Dave Wible, Shelly Morganstern, and Mike Haley walked with lady members of the court Ann Wilson, Harriet Wells, and Madeleine Holley.

Diane Hill's Speech Wins First In Contest At GHS

Diane Hill, a junior, won the Knights of Pythias speech contest, "Threats To Freedom and How To Meet Them," which took place Monday, April 30, in room 106 here at Senior.

From the three judges, Diane received two first-place ratings and one second, while Reggie Bell, who took second place, received two second and one fourth-place rating.

When asked her reaction after being selected as the winner, Diane stated, "I feel very honored, and I'll do my best to represent Greensboro Senior High School in the state contest."

The students who participated were to speak anywhere from eight to eleven minutes, Diane's winning speech was nine minutes in length.

The eight students who spoke were Reggie Bell, Lee Pickard, Judith Lea, Judie Bittinger, Diane Hill, Raymond Spaulding, Marie White, and Sarah Jo Stanley.

The winner of the state contest to be May 21 in Greensboro will enter the regional contest. Following this will be the national contest to take place in New Orleans some time in August. The winner of the national contest will receive $1500.

Last year's national winner was Barbara Massey, who received a $1000 scholarship.

Junior Y-Teen Girls To Hold Discussions On Current Subjects

Y-Teens of the eleventh grade have decided to have three discussions on topics that are now before the American public. They are for faculty members of the Greensboro Public School system, and Carolyn Pearson suggests that it is interesting for teen-agers interested in public affairs.

"Communism," the first topic of discussion was discussed last night at the YWCA with Mr. Arnie Olson moderator. The panelists were Ed Stanley, Dave Green, and Dr. Weisman.

The second topic, "The Middle East," will be discussed on May 17 at 8 p. m. at the YWCA. The moderator will be Bob Strok and Mr. Robert Fredrickson. GHS history teacher and music instructor, will be a member of the panel.

"Juvenile Delinquency," the third and final discussion will take place on May 24. On the panel are Lt. Geiger of the Greensboro juvenile court, Miss Lucille Browne for Senior High's guidance department; Judy Bittinger from the city recreation department; and Rev. Joe Flora of the First Presbyterian Church.

Escorts for Gracie Duncan, Ann Baldwin, Nancy Lambeth, and Lynn McGregor were Louis Glascock, Wilson Carruthers, Bill O'Brien, and Jim McGregor, respectively.

Joan Moring and Bobbie Jean Williams were escorted by Bradley Anderson and Jimmy McNairy. Fran Welch, escorted by Phil Causey, and Ann Poole, escorted by Leon Boggs, completed the Queen's court. Queen Amy was crowned by student body president Houston Groome.

Juniors attendants to the Queen were Betty Groves, flower girl, and Rives Kistler and Tommy Snead as crown bearers.

The circus theme of May Day, Big "Little Top," included such different skits as a trampoline act by the Martinez twins, Tommy and Tony; a tumbling act composed of members of the boys' physical education classes; chorus lines, cowgirls, a circus animal parade, majorettes, and clowns. Dance supervisors and chairmen were Judy Lea, Sarah Jo Stanley, Sylvia Willard, Louise McGee, and Anne Davis.

The student activity band, under the direction of J. R. Still, provided music for the processional, recessional, and the circus dance acts.

Dave Plyler, who wrote the script for the May Day, served as the circus ring master. Student chairmen were Zade Turner and Gail Kirkman, while faculty advisers were Mrs. Judy Milligan, Miss Margie Gabriel, and Miss Dorothy McNairy.

Rain prevented the annual festival from being in the stadium May 2 as was previously planned.

"Cane and hat dancers" are shown "whooping it up" in the top picture. These girls were part of the entertainment fitting in with the circus theme for May Day. In the lower picture is shown the traditional May Pole dance, as done by members of the student body. Other dances were the parade of the circus animals, which consisted of an elephant, Kay Fatso Kuydendall, and a ten-girl caterpillar.

Above are shown Amy Hutchison, May Queen, with student body president Houston Groome. May Day was held in the Boys' Gymnasium on May 3.
