

HIGH LIFE

From the Gate City of the South and the Birthplace of O. Henry

VOLUME XXXIII

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL, GREENSBORO, N. C., NOV. 30, 1956

NUMBER 6

Bill O'Brien and Dick Lambeth ride a float in the Holiday Jubilee Parade representing different men's clothing stores.

SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE TO SENIORS HAVING HIGH SCHOLASTIC STANDING

Countless scholarships in a varying interest field are available to Greensboro Senior High School seniors.

Of interest to girls are the Duke University School of Nursing scholarship and the Burlington Mills Foundation Nursing scholarship.

Nursing Grants

The Duke scholarship is available to any North Carolina senior girl, who would, regardless of the scholarship, have the requirements necessary to enter the school. It is valued at $600 per year and if grades are kept up to honor standing is renewable. The qualifying test will be given December 1.

Burlington Mills provides a grant to the UNC School of Nursing for a girl ranking in the upper one-half of the Senior Class. The winner of this scholarship, which is for $500 per year, will be decided on the basis of scholarship, character, aptitude for nursing, personality, and financial need. All applications must be in by January 15, and the winner will be announced at the Awards Day assembly.

Hankins Awards

Need and ability are the two major factors in selecting the persons for the George Foster Hankins scholarships. Requirements for this scholarship are residence in North Carolina and placement in the upper 25 per cent of the graduating class. These scholarships range in value from $300-$900 and are for Wake Forest College attendance.

Erwin Gift

Scholarships are also available in the field of vocations. One of these scholarships is known as the Clyde A. Erwin Scholarship Award and is available to anyone who wishes to become a teacher of vocational education. Qualifications are a financial need for the scholarship, average grades, leadership ability, and character. All winners will be announced at the Awards Day program.

In addition to these scholarships there are a number of other grants available. Anyone interested in knowing more about them should see A. P. Routh in the principal's office or Miss Lucille Browne in the Vocational Building.

Coming Events Listed For Senior's Students

- December 4 — Basketball game, Raleigh, here
- Report cards
- December 6—Choir-Orchestra program
- December 7 — Basketball game, Bessemer, here
- December 11—Orchestra assembly
- Basketball game, Asheboro, away.

Annual Holiday Jubilee Parade Occurs In Downtown Greensboro November 23

Residents of Greater Greensboro lined the streets of the city Friday, November 23, to view the annual Holiday Jubilee Parade.

The 110-unit procession was the longest ever staged, and O. L. Fryman, general parade manager, stated that more than 250,000 people turned out to watch the festivity.

Bands from 10 junior high schools, two colleges, and two high schools provided the musical entertainment. The Greensboro Senior High School Band was among the representatives of the city school music program.

Beauty queens from 40 North Carolina cities were led by Miss North Carolina, Joan Melton, and Miss Virginia, Rebecca Richardson, in the parade.

Jane Lynch, a senior at Senior High School, represented Greensboro and Kay Wrenn, a graduate of Senior, was Miss Hamilton Lakes.

Hopalong Cassidy, the Old Rebel, and Pecos Pete drew the attention of the small fry while the many floats appealed to the adult viewers.

The float contest was won by the Christian Endeavor Society which was awarded $75 for its replica of a chapel with a youth choir. Second and third prizes of $50 and $25 went to the Windsor Community Center and the Greensboro Community Center, respectively.

Miss Diana Johnson of Asheboro was crowned Miss Holiday Jubilee of 1957 by a trio of judges at the Holiday luncheon. The many funeral homes of Guilford County pooled their ambulances and took 30 children from the Carolina Convalescent Home along with several cerebral palsy patients to see the parade.

The parade was formed at the First Presbyterian Church and marched south up Greene Street, around Edwards Square and north up Elm, giving more people a chance to view the procession.

The bitter cold prevented only a few people from leaving their place on the curb until the very end when Santa Claus officially opened the 1957 holiday season.

Rick Aderhold Serves As NHS Treasurer

Rick Aderhold, newly tapped Torchlight member, was elected as treasurer of the GHS Honor Society Thursday, November 15, at the first meeting of the group since the fall tapping.

Other officers were elected earlier from the members who were inducted during their junior year. They are Jean Ogburn, president; David Craig, vice-president; Nancy Lambeth, secretary; and Doug Albright, social chairman.

Rick's duties include handling of the club's funds and directing the Torchlight talent show. Rick is vice-president of the Senior Class and is lieutenant governor of the Junior Civitan Clubs in this district. He is also a member of the traffic squad.

Gilbert Frank, senior, was appointed by the president to be in charge of the scrap book. He will compile newspaper clippings and other items of interest to the club in the book.

Jane Lynch, as Miss Greensboro, was one of the beauty queens highlighting the parade.

Many Honor Roll Students Obtain Gold, Silver Stars

Out of the Senior Class 29 students have attained their gold stars for making honor roll 13 consecutive times, while 57 students have received silver stars for making honor roll seven consecutive times.

Only seniors can qualify for gold stars, while both juniors and seniors may achieve silver stars. Gold star wearers may exempt one semester examination if they take four major subjects and two if they take five majors. Silver star wearers may exempt one examination if they take four or five majors.

Elizabeth Antrim from home room 102 has received her gold star, while Larry Brown and Ann Butler are the recipients from room 202. David Craig represents room 106, while coming from 101 are Stratton Eldridge and Alec Decker.

Representing 307

Gold star seniors from room 307 are Henry Flynt, Gilbert Frank, Hilda Garrett, and Libby Garvin.

Bill Hanling, Elwood Hartman, and Hal Haskins are gold star recipients from room 204, while from room 4 are Buck Hoyle, Tom Hudgins, Ruth Hunt, and Jack Jessup.

Judy Kellett represents room 303, while from 300 come Ruth McCulloch, Jane McLennan, and Jerry Mann. Jean Ogburn, Maranell Pearsall, and Katherine Polk are the gold star wearers from room 3, and those from room 103 are Judy Shallant and Margie Rose.

End of Gold Stars

Concluding the gold star recipients are James Spence, room 13; Kay Weston, room 8; and Robert Willett, room 313.

Shirley Bernau, room 102, and Barbara Coble, 106, are seniors who have received silver stars. James Ebert, Harvin Dickey, and Shirley Dowd in room 101, while from room 204 comes Joe Hensley.

Silver star recipients from rooms 303 and 309 are Nancy Lambeth and Jane Lynch, respectively, while from 306 come Gary Massei and Camille Merriman.

Continued on Page Three

Willett, Hill Will Serve As Narrators For GHS Christmas Play By Seniors

Rehearsals have begun for the "Story of the Nativity," the Christmas Pageant presented annually by the Senior Class during assembly the day before Christmas vacation begins.

Robert Willett has been selected reader for the narration, which includes nine scenes, with Diane Hill taking supplementary parts. A cast, composed chiefly of seniors who have study hall sixth and seventh periods when the rehearsals occur, has been chosen, but as the program progresses changes may be necessary. Various practices have been scheduled for the different scenes, and the final dress rehearsal will take place December 17.

First Scene

The first scene, entitled "Mary of Nazareth," features Maranell Pearsall, who will portray Mary, and three children from the nursery school. Virginia Atcheson and Maranell are cast in "The Annunciation" scene two.

Rick Aderhold, Maranell Pearsall, Polly Young, Bill Wrye, and Ken Robinson will characterize the third scene "Leaving Home." Others in this scene will be Merry Wrye, Ann Butler, Carolyn Pearson, Betty Rudd, Kay Wood, Kathleen Caldwell, Carole Kellam, Connie Daniel, Shirley McLaurin, Bonnie Adelstein, and Annette Bailey.

"No Room at the Inn," following next, includes Jake Giles, Chuck Wrye, Bob Poe, Ronnie Parks, Rick Aderhold, Frances Blake, Maranell Pearsall and the same women as were in the previous scene.

Willett

Hill

Portraying shepherds in the fifth scene of "Shepherds Abiding" are Jay Lambeth, John McCurry, Phil Causey, Ed Lowry, Charles Donohoe, Edwin Meade, and Raymond Spaulding. Angels in this same part are enacted by Virginia Atcheson, Sylvia Sox, Ann Wheeler, Diane Hill, Connie Gorsuch, Elizabeth Antrim, Barbara Dunlop, Kitty Wagoner, Marilyn Helms, Jean Brooks, Jane McLennan, Valinda Beal, Ann Darnell, Marie White, Mary Katsikas, Becky Ozment, Judy Schaeffer, and Molly White.

Scene Six

Cast in scene six entitled "In The Manger" are Maranell Pearsall, Rick Aderhold, and the shepherds of scene five. Doug Albright, David Craig, and Alton Brewer have the roles of the Three Wise Men in the succeeding scene.

"Herod and the Wise Men" will feature Bert Wilder, George Varsamis, Frank Dennis, Elwood Hartman, Bill Wrye, Kenneth Robinson, Doug Albright, David Craig, and Alton Brewer.

The finale, "The Wise Men Find Christ," will include the same characters as are in the sixth scene plus the Three Wise Men.