

Sophomore Students Lead Honor Roll For Recent Six-Weeks Grading Period

Rufus Russell
President of the Junior Engineer's Club

Science Day Assembly Presented February 6

To GHS Student Body

Science Day was observed here at GHS February 6 when the Junior Engineers' Club and chemistry and physics students presented a program consisting of experiments and demonstrations to the student body.

Helen White, senior, gave the devotional, which pertained to science, after which Wallace Williams, Junior Class president, presented the Citizenship Honor Roll pins to Rodger Dorham and Carol Eichorn, sophomores; Paula Sain and Add Penfield Jr., juniors; and Peyton Neal and Jerry Mann, seniors. Next Camille Merriman, chairman of the scholarship committee awarded the scholarship plaques to home rooms of Mrs. Martha Hundley, Mrs. Jean Newman, and Mrs. Nancy Edwards. Concluding the announcements, Buddy Rives, junior, announces that the Key Club is offering two $150 scholarships, one for a senior boy and the other for a senior girl, applications for which may be obtained from Miss Mary Ellen Blackmon, Senior Class adviser, in room 102.

Elizabeth Antrim, senior, began the science part of the program by briefly explaining the progress science has recently made. Jean Medearis, junior, began turning the pages of the Science Album. Each demonstration presented by the science students was represented therein with the name of the participant and his project.

Jerry Kennon, junior, gave a demonstration entitled "Dance of the Molecules," which dealt with ultraviolet light. The name of the demonstration was derived from a ballet which Janet Snider, junior, accompanied by Peggy Sink at piano, performed in a costume treated with fluorescent paint. David Craig and Jane McLennan, seniors, demonstrated electro-chemistry by mixing various chemicals and showing the changes brought about.

Light waves in relation to the microphone were demonstrated by junior Jim Sawers, "Energy Transformation" experiment, while Dorothy Mattox and Jeanine Van-Kerkhove, seniors, experimented with "Conductivity." Sarah Ann Cox, junior, and Bill Wray, senior, presented demonstrations with the jumping helix and electron pump, respectively.

Max Snodderly, junior, gave an experiment entitled "Scientific Illusions," in which he attempted to boil hot water by using ice water. Mr. Wizard himself was present in the person of Rufus Russell, junior. Rufus explained to the audience that which lies behind a magician's "tricks," and demonstrated a few. To climax the demonstration, he made a series of fireworks by using various chemicals.

Rufus, as president of the Junior Engineers Club, announced the plans for the annual Science Fair, scheduled this year for March 21. It will take place in the gymnasium, and everyone interested is invited to participate. If all goes as planned, it will be televised for the first time.

M. W. Sharer, chemistry teacher, directed the program.

Los Condes Undertake Cleaning of Trophies

Los Condes, one of three service clubs here at Senior, has undertaken a project of cleaning out the trophy cases around school and polishing the trophies.

The boys have begun on the trophy case in the foyer of the Main Building and plan to continue the job on various other trophies around school. According to Charlie Williams, president, the club plans to continue this idea as an annual project. Each year the trophy cases will be cleaned and the trophies shined.

Seniors are reminded of the $300 scholarship being given by the club Awards Day. Application blanks are available in the office.

Annual J C L Convention Takes Place February 9

Chapel Hill is the meeting place for all Junior Classical League Clubs when they have their annual convention February 9.

Greensboro will be represented by 50 club members from Senior, 16 from Curry, and 21 Latin students from Aycock.

The delegation from Greensboro will be divided into several sessions, business, law, housewives, journalism, medicine, and science. Two members, Prissy Wyrick and Pat Hutchins will be delegated to the nominating committee and the two official delegates are Rinda King and Laura Pearce.

Because of the past interest and cooperation of the club here at Senior, they have been asked to participate in the 1957 program at Chapel Hill. The program will portray the 12 Labors of Hercules. The labor Senior has been asked to depict is the "Ermanthian Boar."

John Moore plays the part of Hercules; Paul Tobin, the boar; Carey Sloan, the king; and Sandra Coe, the Delphic Oracle.
