

Friday Is May 31 Commencement Speaker

DR. BOWEN

William Clyde Friday, president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, has accepted the invitation of the Class of 1957 to be graduation speaker at commencement ceremonies May 31, while Dr. Claude Bowen, pastor of the First Baptist Church here in Greensboro, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon the preceding Sunday.

President Friday, a native of Virginia, has been associated with the University since the end of the war. He has served as assistant dean of students, as general administrator, and in April 1951 he was appointed assistant to President Gordon Gray.

Since March 1956 he has filled the post of "acting president" of the University and was officially named president of its three branches, Woman's College, State, and Chapel Hill, in October of the same year.

May 8 of this year he will be inaugurated. His coming to GHS will then be his first public appearance after the event.

President Friday has attended several North Carolina schools including Wake Forest, State College, and the University at Chapel Hill. Between his educational stretches at Wake Forest and State where he received his B.S. degree from the textile school, President Friday also served four years in the navy.

Dr. Bowen, a Mississippian who has lived in Greensboro for the past 10 years, has accepted the invitation to address the graduating class baccalaureate Sunday. Dr. Bowen has attained degrees from Southwestern College in Memphis, Tennessee, where he received his B.A. and has also acquired a M.A. and Ph.D from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky.

During his career with the Baptist Church, he has served with the Baptist Foreign Mission Board in Richmond, Virginia, as educational secretary, and as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Opelika, Alabama, and Calvary Hospital in Winston-Salem and Cone Memorial Hospital in this city. He is also trustee of the South Eastern Baptist Theology Seminary at Wake Forest College and is chaplain of the local Fire Department.

Science Fair Postponed; New Dates March 28-29

Because of a meeting of the North Carolina Education Association which several Senior High teachers will be attending the third annual Science Fair has been postponed from March 21-22 to March 28-29.

The fair will be conducted as planned in the balcony of the gymnasium. Thursday will be the day for setting up the projects; Friday the general public will be invited; and Saturday students will retrieve their projects.

Senior High will select six winners—three each from the biological and physical divisions. These six projects will be entered in the North Piedmont Fair, which will be directed April 6 at Wake Forest College in Winston-Salem. From the district fair, five projects will be sent to the state fair. An entry fee of $20 is required for a project to be entered in the state fair. This entry fee will pay the two winners' way to California for the national science fair.

This year every participant in the GHS fair will receive a merit recognition. Cash prizes or merchandise prizes are being gathered for first place winners, and plans are being made to give similar prizes to second and third place winners. Local merchants are contributing toward a fund for these prizes.

Judges for the fair will be well qualified in their chosen fields. For the physical division there will be one college physics teacher, one high school chemistry teacher, and one Guilford College chemistry teacher. Except for their training, the judges for the biological division will follow the same line.

Because of the change in the dates of the Science Fair, WUNC-TV will not televise it as planned. So far there have been 837 entry blanks turned in. This is the largest number for any fair yet.

Merriman Names Pupils To Help With May Day

Camille Merriman, chairman of the 1957 May Day committee, has recently announced the names of students who are to serve with her for this project.

Nancy Lambeth and Buck Hoyle, seniors, and Marsha Bumpass and Lois Lynch, juniors, will be in charge of decorations, while Peggy Sink and Roy Michaux, juniors, and Libby Garvin, senior, will supervise the printing of programs.

Other Improvements

Jey Deifell, junior, and Bobby Teague and Davis Bowen, seniors, are trying to secure more bleachers and a better sound system for this year's May Day, which is to be presented on the front lawn.

Props and special equipment are being gathered by Jean Ogburn and Bobby Baynes, seniors, and Pete Banner, sophomore. Jane Lynch, and Lynn McGregor, will provide flowers for the girls in the May Court.

Forty girls will be needed for parts in the milkmaid dance and Irish jig. Other dances will include the dance of the maypole, given by the girls' physical education classes, and the minuet, to be presented by the May Court. Mrs. Eleanor Lambert, girls' gym teacher and Diana Evans and Phyllis Steed, seniors, will supervise the dances.

May Day Music

Music for the May Day will be supplied by Joseph R. Still's sixth period band.

Four jesters will be used this year, and the positions will be given to two boys and two girls. Additional parts are open to boys and girls interested in obtaining them.

Sink, Faculty Members Delegates To Convention

Peggy Sink, as state secretary of the Future Teachers of America, and eight faculty members will attend the North Carolina Education Association convention in Wilmington March 21, 22, and 23 as delegates representing Senior High.

Besides Miss Ida Belle Moore, algebra teacher, and Mrs. Kathryn B. McEntire, Diversified Occupations Office Practice co-ordinator, who will participate in the program, the eight official representatives are Miss Mary Ellen Blackmon, history instructor, Robert Fredrickson, history and orchestra instructor; Miss Estelle Mitchell, French teacher; Miss Virginia Powell, WHIRLIGIG instructor; A. P. Routh, principal; and Miss Louise Smith, English and Shakespeare teacher.

Music Students Visit GHS At Annual District Contest

Greensboro Senior High School is again host to the annual District Music Contest which began today and will continue through tomorrow, March 9, according to J. R. Still, band instructor.

Herbert Hazelman, GHS head conductor, is district chairman over the groups who are now in Greensboro participating in the two-day event. Choral groups are taking part today, while bands and orchestras are scheduled to play tomorrow.

Groups participating are graded on a one, two, three, four, five basis—one indicating that the band is superior and five showing that there is a need for improvement.

Judges for the instrumental contest are Robert Barnes of North Carolina State College; Frank West, Davidson College; and Harold Smith, Western Carolina College. Choral judges are Miss Peggy Barksdale, Wilmington High School; Charles Taylor, High Point High; and Leroy Rowley, Gray High, Winston-Salem. Loren Withers will hear piano players.

Mr. Still stated that this contest, which has as its purpose improving musical groups, has a representation from Burlington, Reidsville, Spray, Leakesville, Asheboro, Randleman, Pleasant Garden, Tri-City, and Durham.

William David Miller, Robert Teague, Annette Bailey, Louise Thomas, and June Rubin, all members of the GHS band, are acting as pages for the event.

Sophomore Talent Show Assembly Has 'Just Tripping Around' Theme

"Just Tripping Around" was the theme of the March 5 talent show assembly conducted by the Sophomore Class and advised by Miss Notie Vay White, and Mrs. Mary Siler, biology teachers.

Susan Caviness, Sophomore

Class president, together with vice-president Penn Waldron, who emceed the program, and Jane Spence and Pat Hutchins, sophomore secretary and treasurer respectively, were in charge of the program, which had as its setting a railroad station.

Variety of Acts

Allen Barger pantomimed "Rock-A-Bye Your Baby With a Dixie Melody," and Robert Hamlin played a clarinet solo, "Nocturne in E-flat Major."

Others in the program included Sandra Coe, accompanied by Kay Easterling, singing "Birth of the Blues," and Hal Greeson also giving a vocal solo.

Carol Overstreet and Hal Greeson sang a duet of "Got Along Without You Before I Met You," and Becky Chambers sang "People Will Say We're In Love." An instrumental trio composed of Jerry Robertson, Wally Midkiff, and Norman Carroll also participated in the program.

Other Talent

Magician Buddy Smith and a sextet of Brenda Blake, Jeanne Davant, Toni Thompson, Barbara DeVelbis, Emma Jon Potter, and Rose Turnage also entertained.

Presenting piano solos were Maureen Ferrell and Emma Jon Potter. Also in the show were The Mad Lads, a band.

In charge of the stage committee was Mackie Stout, and serving with him were Bill Sullivan and Margie Stone. Jane Spence headed the publicity committee composed

Seniors Purchase Cards, Invitations For Graduation

Members of the Senior Class have placed their orders for graduation invitations and cards from Stanley Johnson, manager of the school store.

Senior home room representatives were given samples of the invitations and cards to show each senior so that he could choose the type preferred. The cards are either engraved or printed. A student who buys the engraved cards gets the plate so he can have more cards made at a later date. It has been found that more seniors prefer and order the printed cards.

The graduation invitations are eight cents each and orders ranged from just a few to a hundred. The invitations are expected to arrive around May 11.

Anyone can buy the cards but just seniors can buy the invitations. Mr. Johnson states, "The sale got off to a slow start, and the students will probably be lined up to the gym, gnashing their teeth, waiting to get their invitations on the last day."

Sue Ellen Barker, Mary Wallace Clement, and Joyce Mitchell are "Just a 'feudin', fussin', and fightin'."
