

Westinghouse Conducts Talent Search

Science Talent Search sponsored by Westinghouse and the Science Service was conducted Wednesday morning, December 11.

Each student who entered the contest had to complete a Science aptitude test and submit a report of 1,000 words with a scientific project. The school official also had to complete a personal date and scholarship record.

The Science Talent Search is held to find students whose scientific skill, talent, and ability indicate potential originality which is needed in the scientist of the future.

Westinghouse offers $34,250 in scholarships and awards to the winners. From the top ranking contestants the 40 winners will receive a five-day all-expense paid trip to the Science Talent Institute in Washington, D. C. At the institute the winners will visit places of scientific interest and talk with scientists in various fields. They will also learn about some of the recent developments in science and they will learn about some of the possibilities in science as a career.

The top five winners will be chosen from the group which attends the Science Talent Institute. The five winners will receive scholarships of $7,500, $6,000, $5,000, $4,000, and $3,000. Awards amounting to $87,500 will be distributed among the other 35 top winners.

Each year 260 students are giving honorable mention. Many of the students who receive honorable mention in the Science Talent Search are given scholarships and awards by other organizations. Each person who receives one of the Westinghouse Science Scholarships must use it to study a course in science or engineering at a institution which has been approved by a committee appointed by the Science Service.

The Science Service, a non-profit making organization, administers the Science Talent

Search. This organization administers the test through the Science Clubs of America.

P. S. ---

The partitions in the offices on the first floor of the Main Building have been torn down to make one big main office. Additions have been made to the teachers' boxes so that each teacher has a separate pigeon hole.

The GHS Concert Band gave an assembly program Tuesday, December 10, to juniors, seniors, and the sophomore whose home rooms are in the Main Building. During part of the program, students sang Christmas carols, accompanied by the band. Song sheets had been distributed, compliments of the Junior Civinettes. The GHS Dance Band also appeared to play several selections.

The Los Condes Club has been selling GHS decals that can be stuck on car windows.

The Junior Civitans have been selling "Go Whirlie" buttons to be worn the day of basketball games.

Twice as many college applications have been entered this year than last year.

Christmas holidays to begin next Wednesday, December 18, 1957 and last until January 2, 1958 . . . Whoopee!!

Playmasters sponsored the annual Christmas Story-telling Contest, Thursday, December 12 at 2:30, in room 106.

Students entering were John Stanton, Marianna Zimmerman, Donna Hinchey, Sandra Sharpe, and Sandra Tolley. Completing the list are Lynn Westmoreland, Celia Howell, Sandra Lambe, and Babs Landsberger.

TWIRL, GIRLS!

Growing Up With Opportunity

While you've been growing up and "getting educated", opportunity has been growing, too. All around you, industry and business have multiplied. Electrification has increased farm yield while cutting down on labor and risk.

When you were sophomores, the Duke Power Company was beginning new plants to supply your power needs after graduation. Now ample, low-priced power increases your job opportunity, and Piedmont resources are ready for your energy and ideas. Good luck to you as you find your place in the Piedmont Carolinas.
