

Winners on the Hi-Q program are Charles Tate, Irene Gullege, Sandra Bargamian, and Jim Kropa pictured left to right.

Charles Tate Top Scorer In Hi-Q TV Quiz Program

Charles Tate, senior, came out with highest score honors when a team from GHS competed on the Hi-Q quiz, sponsored by WFMY-TV, Saturday, November 19.

The four high schools of Greensboro; Notre Dame, Page, Curry and Senior, are competing for top scores each Saturday. A panel of four world history students is chosen by history teachers. This panel is asked questions, scoring 10 points each.

The top scoring school will receive $50 for their library fund.

Senior High's panel consists of Charles Tate, Irene Gullege, Jim Kropa and Sandra Bargamian.

Senior has scored highest so far with 410 points. That is a lead of 40 points over Notre Dame and Page.

The panel is allowed 10 days to read newspaper and briefs, listen to newscasts and absorb other information. The panel is not coached at all. The questions consist of international, national, state and local news.

Curry will compete Saturday, December 3. That contest will determine the city-wide winner.

Choir Practicing Music For December Program

Miss Eula Tuttle's choir is practicing for the program December 8, when they will do "Blessed Are They That Mourn" created by Greensboro's resident composer, John Chance.

Performing December 8 with the choir will be Mr. Kimball Harriman's orchestra.

The choir will sing in several Christmas programs, including the Christmas pageant and the morning services at the First Presbyterian Church.

Officers of the choir are as follows: Jimmy Thompson, president; Jess MacFarland, vice-president; Sandra Marsh, secretary; Max Thompson, treasurer; and Becky Rountree, accompanist.

Twenty girls from the advanced glee club at GHS sang as a church choir on a float sponsored by Southern Life in the Holiday Jubilee Parade, Friday, November 25.

Teachers Monitor Class In Language Lab

Installation of the language laboratory was completed, and the lab was ready for use of the French and Spanish students by October 10, 1960.

There are 30 booths equipped with tape recorders in the laboratory. The cost of the project is approximately $14,000. Buttons on the teacher's desk allow her to tune in and monitor the individual students in the class.

Jeannie Anderson Leads Discussion At Bible Club

"Applying Christian Principles to Everyday Living" was the topic of a panel discussion led by Jeannie Anderson, senior, at the Bible Club meeting November 8.

The panel was composed of four senior girls: Harriet Eiler, Nancy Lambert, Becky Byerly, and Susan Gardiner.

A dinner meeting in the Mayfair Cafeteria, October 25, featured Mr. William Hethcock, former curate of Saint Andrew's Episcopal Church, who spoke on interpretations of the Bible.

History Honor Club Adds Eleven Senior Members

Eleven seniors were inducted into the History Honor Society at their last meeting, November 15.

The new members are Suzanne Anderson, Mary Bradley, Pam Bowden, Celeste Frontis, Tommy Sloan, Kent Morgan, Lois Moser, Adele Freedman, Peggy King, Allen McSween, and Ginny Horsman.

To be eligible for admission to the society, one must be at least a second semester junior, must have maintained an average of 90 in all history courses taken at Senior, and must be recommended by one's history teacher.

The six foreign students who were on the assembly panel discussion given by the History Hon-

Classes Raise Money; Sell Various Articles

The senior, junior, and sophomore classes have been selling various articles to raise money for their class projects.

Members of the senior class have been selling ribbons to raise their money. The ribbon committee is headed by Jimmy Bullock and Miss Ann Moore, teacher of commercial subjects; subcommittees headed by Sue Foster, Jerry Craig, Sharon Eldridge, Jean Shaffer, and Roberto Morphis. The ribbons this year have had a variety of verbs rather than the usual "beat." The number of ribbons for each game average about 900, with the largest number, 1800 for the Page game and the smallest number, 650, for the Fayetteville game.

Miss Peggy Joyner, English teacher, is the class adviser and Janet Rankin is the senior class president.

Junior Class

This year the juniors sold peanut butter candy to raise their class money. The candy sold for $1.00 a can, and there were two representatives from each home-room to handle the sales. Mrs. Helen Proctor, history teacher, and Mrs. Margie Ledford, math teacher, were in charge of the sales campaign.

Office Practice Students Plan Christmas Project

Plans for a Christmas project were discussed after a dinner meeting of Co-operative Office Practice at the Mayfair Cafeteria November 15.

The club decided to "adopt" a family from the Welfare Department and provide them with food, clothes and toys. This is a repetition of last year's project. The club and its sponsor, Mrs. McEntire, hope it will become a tradition.

After the meeting, the group met with the Education Committee of the National Secretaries Association to discuss office procedures and duties of a beginning office worker.

The NSA has adopted the Senior High club as "Little Sisters".

Members of FTA Attend Annual Convention At WC

Approximately 70 Senior High FTA members attended the State FTA convention at Elliott Hall, WCUNC, Saturday, November 19.

As GHS was the host school to about fifteen schools throughout the state, Senior's FTA presented a skit. The first part of the skit was entitled "For Want of a Teacher" with Janice Mathieu playing Jane; Kaye Riley, junior, Jane's mother; and Dot Latta, junior, Sue.

Following this play another skit was presented with Virginia Harmon, senior, as narrator. Girls in the skit represented different eras in education. The first era represented was 1800 with Betti McNairy, junior, playing the teacher. This was followed by 1900 with Judy Hackett, senior; 1920 with Cherry Swaringen, junior; and finally the present day teacher was represented by Scottie Kellam, junior.

The convention, which was presided over by Jess MacFarland, senior, was from 9:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. The highlight of the morning session was a speech by Mr. Charlie Phillips, publicity director. Other speakers were Dr. Kenneth Howe, Mrs. Phoebe Emmons, state head of FTA, and dean of education. Also during the morning session candidates for the state offices presented their campaign speeches. The voting took place during lunch.

The afternoon session was composed mainly of the GHS skit and the announcement of new state officers. The new state president elected is Linda Boone from West Mecklenburg in Charlotte.

Miss Mozelle Cusey, dramatics teacher, and Miss Estelle Mitchell, French teacher, are the FTA club advisers of GHS.

Pictured here are Virginia Harmon, Kaye Riley, and Mathieu practicing for the FTA skit.