JCL Visits Future Members

Carol Marvin, Candy Sauer, and Cynthia Wharton presented a program for the JCL'ers from Lindley, Jackson, Central, and Aycock Junior High Schools at Lindley Auditorium on November 1.

Carol Marvin narrated and related humorous anecdotes, while slides were shown of the national convention trip last summer. Pamphlets and folders from some of the favorite places visited were on display. The meeting was held to stimulate interest in the future members of the GHS Junior Classical League. Mrs. Madlin, who appeared unexpectedly, stated her wish for the junior high students to continue their membership in JCL.

Mrs. Madlin hopes that next year the GHS chapter of the Junior Classical League will top its present membership of 112 students.

Central DE Convention Held A Bessemer High

North Carolina's Central District Convention of the Distributive Education Clubs met at Bessemer Senior High School on November 7.

The convention began at 3:15 in the school cafeteria with registration and refreshments.

Tommy Smith, who graduated from Greensboro Senior High School last year, presided over the General Session. After the invocation by Dianne Williams from Page, a welcome was given by Mr. Robert R. Clendenin, principal of Bessemer Senior High School, Mr. E. P. Pearce, Jr., superintendent of Guilford County Schools, and Mayor David Schenck.

Each of the ten clubs and their co-ordinators were introduced, and announcements were made. The candidates for offices of the state's Central District D.E. Convention were presented before the screening and nominating committee convened.

After secretary and treasurer reports and a summary of the national D.E. convention, the nominating committee made its report, and the officers were elected.

Dinner was served in the school cafeteria and was followed by the final speeches in the auditorium.

At the convention there were three contests. Pat Dean, a GHS student, placed first in the job application contest, with Mrs. Elizabeth Mann from Ellis tSone and Miss Jeanette Sievers from the Business Education Department at Woman's College as judges. Judy Mayberry placed second in sales demonstration; and Carol Shepherd, in the speech contest. Judges for the sales demonstration were Mr. Bill Cooke, personnel director at Belk's; Miss Helen Doyle, personnel director at Burlington Industries; and Mrs. Virginia Heard, owner and manager of Brides and Formals. Miss Lucille Browne of the Greensboro City Schools, Mr. J. D. Dawson from Southeast High School, and Miss Dixie Guill from Bessemer judged the speech contest.

After the election results were announced and the officers were installed, the meeting was adjourned. A sock hop concluded the convention.

At present GHS's D.E. Club is planning a field trip to Cone Mills.

Spanish Society Inducts Members

Spanish Honor Society recently initiated its new members. A refined ceremony took place in which each new member came forward to light a candle, and when all had come forward they repeated the creed of the Spanish Honor Society. Following the ceremony there was a brief discussion pertaining to the club's selling project.

Career Material Filed At GHS Guidance Center

Many students are unaware of the career material that comes to the Guidance Center every month.

This material consists of folders, pamphlets, leaflets, and booklets about every career. Each is filed for future use by a special number system. An index gives the key to this number system so that the information on all the occupations is readily available.

Information in these catalogs includes the courses and schooling necessary for the job, the wages it brings, and other related professions.

The Guidance Center welcomes all students to come to the office at any time to use the materials. Counselors are there to give any needed help.

GHS's Seven Clubs Amid Yearly Projects

Civinettes, Jr. Civitans, Junior Jaycees, Junior Exchange, Key Club, Senior HI-Y, and Demolay have completed several projects since the opening of school.

Grimsley Senior High School's CIVINETTES sold shakers at the Whirlie-Reynolds football game last Friday night. With the JUNIOR CIVITANS, they are selling fruitcakes and working with their parent clubs in collecting material for the Mentally Retarded Home at Bunter. Civinettes are collecting scout uniforms and small toys, while Civitans are assembling Boy Scout and athletic equipment.

The Civitans, who have been ushering at football games, are responsible for the canvas goal post banner at the south end of the field.

JAYCEES

Today the JAYCEES will sell barbecue at Friendly Shopping Center. Recently they have had a combo at the Shrine Club with the "Delacardoes." They also awarded a $50 gift certificate to Reggie Foster for correctly naming the Whirlbird, Pat Brugh, at the Homecoming game.

KEY CLUB is selling blue and white Whirlie license plates for $1. They are "fostering," or sponsoring, a 12-year-old girl in Hong Kong by contributing a certain amount of money a month. The Key Club Directory was distributed early this week.

HI-Y

The SENIOR HI-Y will collect money downtown and at Friendly Shopping Center tomorrow for the Greensboro Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America. They also are making plans to help the Greensboro Foster Homes on Saturday afternoons.

Last Saturday the DEMOLAY'S Statewide Grand Master's Class was held here in Greensboro in honor of the Grand Master of Masons, Charles C. Ricker. Two hundred and fifty boys from all over the state attended the banquet and dance. At Thanksgiving the Demolays will give food to needy families.

JR. EXCHANGE

The officers of GHS's newest club, JUNIOR EXCHANGE, are Vestal Palmer, president; Keith Gullledge, vice president; David Conrad, secretary; Wayne Brady, treasurer; and Randy Miller, chaplain. The advisor for the club is Mr. A. M. Snyder.

The Junior Exchange presented a plaque to Miss Burnside's home-room 206 for having the largest percentage of students at the Page-Senior football game. At the Whirlie-Salisbury game, they passed out some 500 bags of confetti which the Key Club picked up afterwards.

The club is planning to construct cement steps leading to the lower teachers parking lot behind the Science Building.
