

How Not To Open A Bank Account

There are indeed many students at GHS, and countless other schools, who find that from birth they have had a special knack for doing things wrong. The majority of these people spend their lives trying to cover up this slightly embarrassing habit, while a certain few make cultivating it their life's work.

For these of the latter group who wish to open a bank account here follow a few simple suggestions.

I. Whether honestly or dishonestly or otherwise(?) the student must have in his possession a certain amount of currency. It would be preferable for this amount to exceed the sum of $10.

II. Upon entering the bank, he should immediately go to the "next Window Please". After having completed this journey, he is faced with the puzzling question, "May I help you, please?" At this the student replies, "uh, I think I, uh, wanna open a bank account."

"What kind of bank account, sir?"

After much deliberation, he finds himself asking in return, "uhm, is there more than one kind?"

At this the clerk answers patiently, as if to a retarded idiot, "yes sir, we have checking and saving. If you plan to save your money, you can put it in a savings account and it will draw interest. If you would like to spend this money in the form of checks, we will open a checking account."

"O.K., I will take one."

"One what, sir?"

"Bank account."

III. After having decided upon a checking account, the new ac-countee is presented with a set of signature cards to fill out. He then very promptly returns them along with the statement "uh, you fill them for me, you can write better than I can."

IV. At this time the teller hands him a book of checks and he finds him asking, "what do I put in this space where it says 'no.'?" Practically at this point of tears or possibly hysteria, the teller explains that in that space is kept a record of the number of checks one has written. "Most people start at the number one and work up; but it really doesn't matter," she says with a smile as the student prepares to leave.

It is then that he exits feeling very proud of himself for having come through such an ordeal with complete calmness and aplomb.

The poor teller, on the other hand is at the moment recuperating from what she would consider a nerve-shattering experience. It takes her a few days to calm down; but before she can thoroughly get over this ordeal, his first check arrives. It is passable except for one minor detail—it is numbered 63.

Bry Richardson, a sophomore at GHS, was recently chosen Miss Datesetter for the Greensboro area. She is to compete in the national contest as representative of this area.

GHS Boasts Beauty Bry Richardson Wins Miss Teen Datesetter Chosen From Grimsley

Grimsley Senior High School has been boasting a beauty in a national contest for the past two weeks. Bry Richardson was selected the winner in the Miss Datesetter contest for this area. To win the area competition, held at Meyer's Department Store, Bry had to compete with 11 other girls from GHS, Bessemer, Guilford and Page. Each school entered three of its cheerleaders chosen by the head cheerleader. Other than Bry, GHS's entrants were Carole Harrod, a senior, and Anne Bradshaw, a junior.

In the contest the girls each modeled two cocktail dresses made of Celanese contemporary fibers. Three votes were taken with each girl being voted on in two of the three.

As winner of the Greensboro competition Bry was given her choice of the two dresses she modeled; but the one she chose was already sold and the others did not fit her. In this predicament Bry was given a suit she chose instead.

The first runner-up, Janie Morrison from Page, did receive her choice of the dresses she modeled.

As winner in this area, Bry will be entered in the national contest in New York City. She will not go to New York but she is to write an essay on "Planning a Wardrobe with Celanese Contemporary Fibers," and a brief autobiography complete with pictures.

First prize in the national contest is a three-day trip to New York City, five hundred dollars and her picture in the March issue of Seventeen magazine. The winner will be notified by mail on December 17, 1962.

If Bry wins the national contest she will be the first Southern belle to do so.

Page Band, Choir To Present Concert

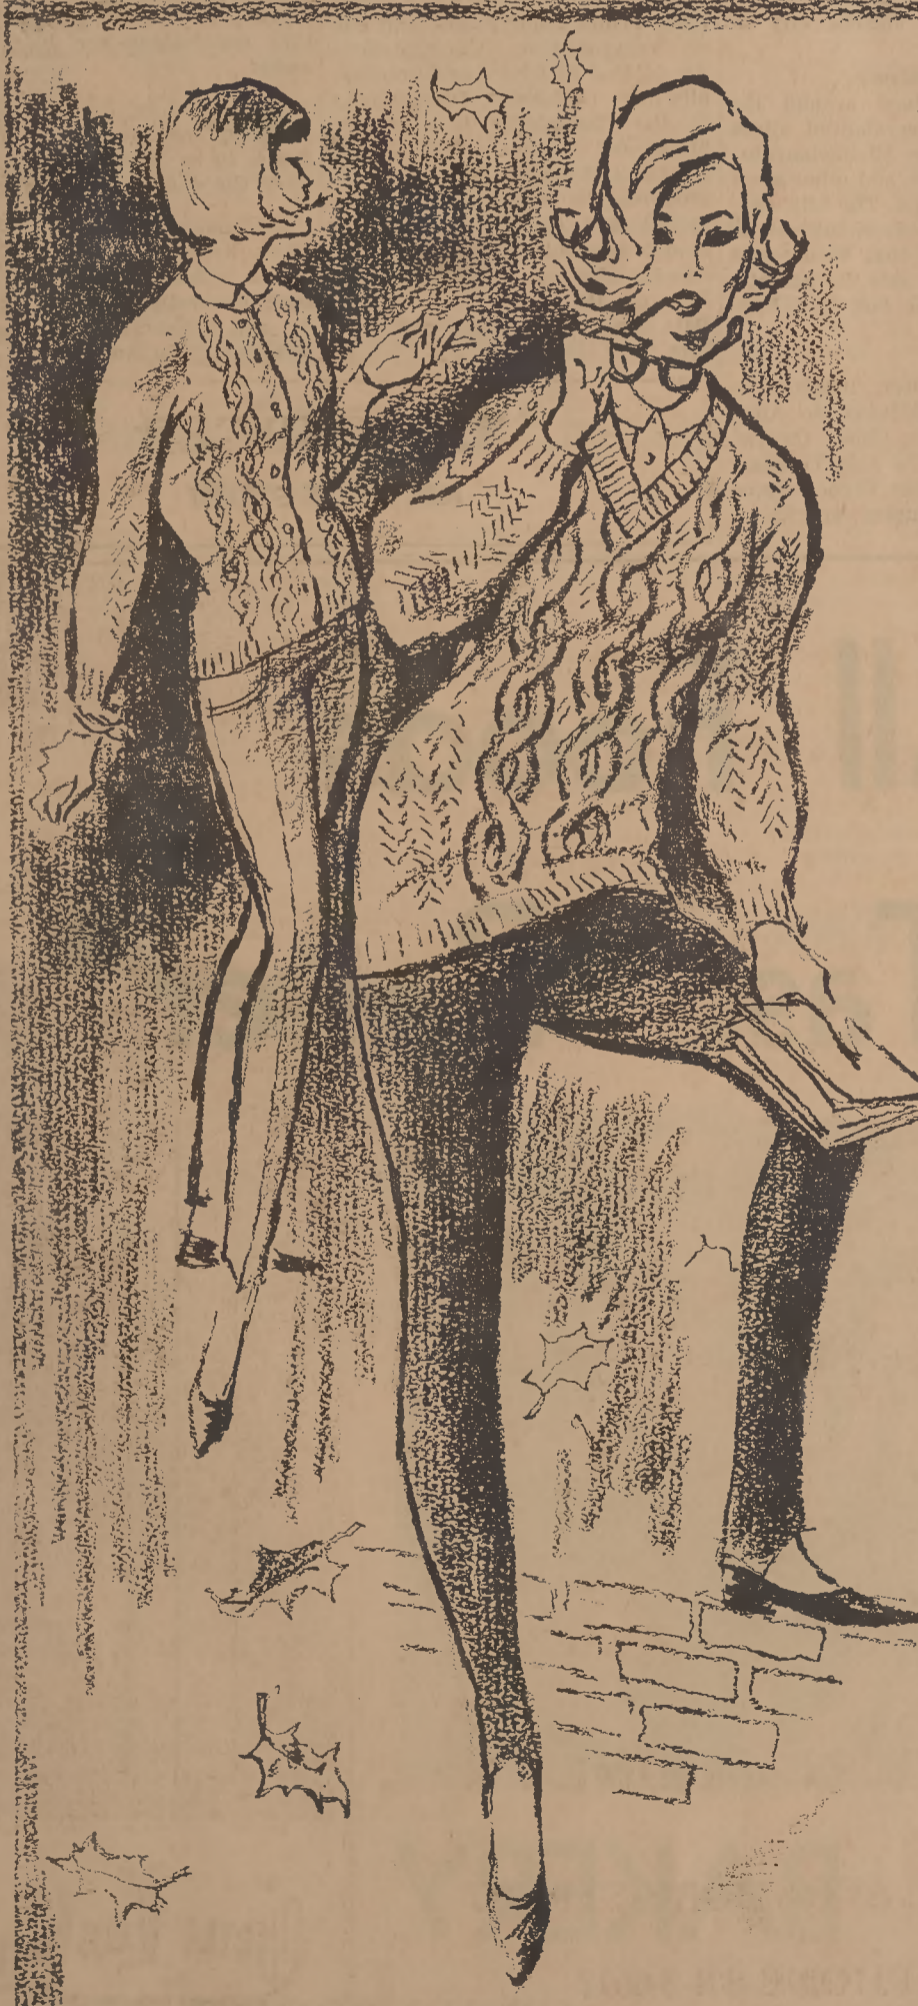

Greensboro's Page High School band and choir will present its annual concert Friday, November 30, at 8:00 p.m. in the new auditorium.

The band will present "Zu-nung" by Strauss, Bach's "Prelude in Fugue in G minor," "Anparita Roca," by Texidore, "Pavanne" from "American Symphonette Number 2", and Alford's "Colonel Bogey".

The choir will join the band for Sibelius' "Onward Ye People" and "Children's Prayer" by Humperdinck. The choir itself will do M. Thomas Cousins' "Glorius Everlasting," "Let Down the Bars, O Death," by Samuel Barber, and Nobel Cain's "Holy Lord God."

For Those Who Think Young

WHAT ARE YOU, SOME KIND OF KNT OR SOMETHING?

If you are, Contessa has a fabulous assortment of bulky knits . . . handmade by Famelia of Italy. Full fashioned, pull-overs and cardigans. You'll love the deep cables and warm up to the soft touch of Mohair. A perfect gift for a favorite knit wit. 36 to 40 in Green, Blue, Grey White, Orange, Beige, Pink and Yellow.

13.00 to 22.98

Evan Picone slacks in stretch or regular. Many Fall colors in wool, silk or cotton. Sizes 8 to 16 priced from 11.98 to 19.98

Country Shirt in Lt. Blue, Pink, Navy, Red, Yellow and White of course. 8 to 16 . . . 5.00 and 5.98

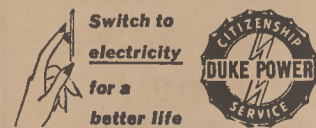

Golden Gate Shopping Center Quaker Village

Good lighting leads to better grades

When it's easier for young folks to see, it's easier for them to learn. For proper study lighting use at least a 150-watt bulb. Keep work surfaces free of shadows or glare.

DUKE POWER