

Perimeter of Campus Tops Plans For School Beautiful

Lari Powell and Tim Weikel, co-chairman of this year's school beautiful project, are now planning the activities for all of the groups participating in this program.

Projects for this year include planting grass in the area between Campus Drive and the parking lot and on the girls' athletic field, landscaping along Campus Drive, and completely renovating the campus at the corner of Benjamin Parkway and Westover Terrace.

School Beautiful, a division of Operation-You-All, the city wide beautification endeavor, runs from October 1 to May 1. The first part of this period, October 1 through December 31, encompasses the planning by all participating groups while the activation of these plans is from January 1 to April 30.

Reports to the Youth Council on Civic Affairs Beautification Committee on the activities and plans of each month during the competition are part of the criteria for the School Beautiful Trophy.

Barbara Dale Black, chairman of the scrapbook committee, will supervise the written and pictorial accounts of the work days to be placed in this book. The originality and completeness of presentation in this record will comprise 20% of the total points used in determining the winner of the trophy.

Student participation is another new area taken under consideration in the awarding of the School Beautiful Trophy. Forty per cent of the total score comes from this category. To help in interesting more students in working or school beautiful, class work days instead of the previous service club work days will be held.

In order for the total effectiveness of the program to be checked, a panel of three judges provided by the Greensboro Jaycees will make periodic tours of inspection to all of the schools participating in this project.

Ellstrom Runs For Secretary Of Student Council Congress

From November first through the third, three members of Grimsley's student council will be participating in the North Carolina Student Council Congress at East Mecklenburg High School in Charlotte. They are Dave Grimes, Judy Ellstrom, and Bret English.

These delegates will be taking part in several activities at this convention. Judy, who is President of Grimsley's Junior class, will be running for secretary of the state convention. Dave Grimes is Judy's campaign manager.

In addition to helping Judy, Dave will be leading a group discussion on public relations. Bret English is campaign manager for Brenda Allen of Rocky Mount High School, a candidate for president of the Congress.

Officer's Workshop Held Here At GHS

Grimsley Senior High School was the site for the seventh annual Officer's Training Workshop.

The purpose of this workshop was to bring about a better understanding of the various duties of the officers in the Distributive Education, Diversified Occupations, Cooperative Office Program, Industrial Training, and Vocational Industrial clubs.

The schools in district six which were represented by their officers and coordinators are Southern Alamance, Eastern Alamance, Walter-Williams, Burlington, Page, Smith, Ragsdale, Northeast, Northwest, Southeast and Grimsley.

Larry Wrenn, Senior president for the D.E. club welcomed the guests and introduced the speaker, Mrs. Virginia Heard who spoke on the "Effectiveness of Good Leadership." Parliamentary Procedure in Action was the film shown by Mr. Louie Bonard, D.E. coordinator from Smith High School. After the film the various officers divided in their different groups to discuss the duties pertaining to their office.

Monday morning, Grimsley's representatives will begin attending a series of workshops and discussions on subjects such as stimulating interest in student council projects, public relations, and responsibility of American high schools. Delegates will, also, discuss problems that their own student council may have had and offer various solutions for these problems.

Ideas for creating new projects and developing a more efficient student government will be exchanged

On Tuesday the delegates to the convention will choose who their officers for next year will be. Reports on the previous day's discussion will be given while the ballots are counted. The new officers will then be installed and the Thirty-Eighth N. C. Student Council Congress will come to a close.

Greensboro had had several officers, local and national, representing our city in the past. Last year our student body president Jim Byrd was elected chairman of the district student council convention. Linda Filipski became secretary of the state convention in 1962 and travelled to the National Convention in Maine. Bill O'Brien was president of the National Student Council Congress.

Some of the President's responsibilities are to find discussion leaders, and the keynote speaker,
