

Eclipse Tonight Brings 2 Week Holiday

Quick as a bunny, the HIGH LIFE photographer happened to snap a picture of the eclipse—even before it had happened.

"CHRISTMAS IS . . ." PRESENTED BY SENIORS IN ANNUAL ASSEMBLY

The senior class of Grimsley High School presented its annual Christmas pageant at a assembly program this morning.

Marianne Buie wrote the script for the pageant. This year's program presented fairly contemporary enactments of the secular and religious aspects of Christmas.

The theme of the program was "Christmas Is . . ." This topic was divided into four parts, connected by narrators Frank Paschal and Worth Badwin.

The first meaning of Christmas presented was song. The singing of carols represented this meaning. Nancy Rhoades performed with the accompaniment of her guitar. The Queen's Men, Ken Bell, Trip Nard, Phil Stogner, and David Quinn, made one of their first appearances of the school year. For the assembly Lauren Scott played the chimes.

The second meaning of Christmas was its story. Jim Van Hecke read the Christmas story from the Bible. In addition, Patty McCall read "The Night Before Christmas."

Giving was the third concept of "Christmas Is . . ." Ken Murphy, Wayne Farlow, and David Martin played the parts of the Wise Men. Santa Claus, Bill Rinker, gave out toys. A dance of the toys were presented at this time. Jan Simmons did the choreography for the dance.

The final meaning of Christmas given in the pageant was the family. A contemporary family was shown visiting their grandparents. The climax of the pageant was the appearance of the holy family. Mary was played by Amy Murray, and Sam Patterson played Joseph.

Mrs. Patricia Pardue served as faculty director of the pageant. Becky Dinkel, student director, shared responsibilities.

'Golden Door' Is New Service Project

Members of the Seniorettes and Sub-Junior Woman's club of GHS are among the numerous junior service clubs taking part in a statewide service project.

The authorities of the Mentally Retarded Children's Center at Morganton, North Carolina have requested North Carolina service clubs to co-operate with them on project "Golden Door".

The project consists of a new room being added to the Center. The entrance being a "Golden Door." The room will be used as a toyland, stocked with various gifts and toys for the children at the Center.

On their birthday or at Christmas, each child will enter the "Golden Door" and select the gift that pleases him most from the shelves.

Each service club is doing its part towards the project by collecting toys, new and old, which can be repaired and sending them to the Children's Center.

Through helping with the "Golden Door" project, junior service clubs from our entire state are contributing to the drive to help mentally retarded children.

cated the import of Eclipse Day, but at last report the Blue & White Club had adopted the annihilation of these subversives as their service project.

To honor the eclipse, many special programs have been scheduled. Starting at approximately 8:00, the Red and White Star Gazers will set up their telescopes in the second paved parking lot to observe the celestial phenomena. Because only a few people can attend this gathering, due to a limit of space, the meeting may be moved to a more spacious area on West Market Street.

Rumors Spread

There have been many debates during the last few weeks about the significance of such an event. A few uniformed persons have been preading a rumor about an obscure holiday that may super-

Celebration

Many of the students who decide to refrain from such public celebration will have eclipse parties featuring three ho-ho-ho's and a bowl of punch for eclipse carol-

ers. The type of entertainment has been designed for the younger star gazers who, due to the age requirement, can not attend the other gatherings.

Service clubs, academic societies, and publication staffs have been working on parties to commemorate this event for several weeks. As early as two weeks prior to today, people have been buying moon beams to deliver to their friends and hunting up records to entertain the guests.

Further Plans

The HIGH LIFE staff urges each person enrolled at GHS to make the best of the eclipse, to have fun, and forget school! Tonight students are reminded to view the eclipse atop the third floor of the science building. Elevator tickets are being sold for 35 yen by the Sophomore Class.

GHS Send Student To Senate Youth Program

ate Youth Program will follow a very strict schedule while in Washington. They will spend two days accompanying their state senators and sit with them at Senate meetings.

The 100 representatives will hear from leading senators, cabinet members, Supreme Court Justices, and other distinguished Americans. Their visit will also include a tour of the White House where it is hoped President Lyndon B. Johnson will address the students.

Surprise Appointment

Judy did not know that she was being considered among those to go to Washington, D.C. The appointment greatly surprised as well as excited her. She received official notice of her selection Saturday, Dec. 4.

According to plans, Judy will leave Greensboro airport Jan. 29. and fly to Washington via United Air Lines. She will spend a week along with the other delegates at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington.

Military Escort

After arriving, Judy, along with four of the 29 girl representatives, will be assigned a female military escort to accompany them during their week-long, all expenses paid, visit.

This has been an active year for Judy. She now adds her appointment as N.C. representative to the Senate Youth Program to her list of achievements. Among those are: GHS Junior Class President, Secretary to the N.C. Student Council Congress, and N.C. delegate to the National Student Council Congress.

The William Randolph Hearst Foundation has made possible the Senate Youth Program for the third consecutive year by a yearly grant of seventy thousand dollars.

Holiday Music Featured On 'US' Christmas Program

"US," the television program produced by and for the teenagers of Greensboro and surrounding areas in cooperation with WFMY-TV station, has planned a special Christmas production to be presented over channel 2, on Saturday, December 19, from 1:00 to 1:30 P.M.

Film Clips

Holiday music, scenes from teen-agers preparing for Christmas by promoting worthwhile projects, a dramatic presentation of the Christmas story, and other specials will be featured on the telecast.

Nancy Rhoades, a popular folk singer from Grimsley, will be the special talent on the show. She will present her rendition of "What Child Is This?" There will be special scenery created for decorating the studio consisting of shots and scenes prevalent to the holiday atmosphere.

After-Christmas Party

On December 26, the day following Christmas, "US"'s non-sectarian Christmas production will dissolve into an after-Christmas party featuring plenty of dancing and games plus other activities for the dancers.

A special band, the Mono-Tones who have played on the program before, have been contracted to provide music for all types of dancing, from the ever popular twist to the newly-originated jerk.

Shirley Kindley and Dave Wright, the two "US" moderators, will be on hand to lead the group in dancing and games. To keep the party atmosphere from being interrupted, the news section of the program will be eliminated.

Old Year Previewed

The next special show to appear in the "US" time slot will be on January 2. The program entitled "1964-1965," is an annual production endeavoring to review the past events of 1964 and their effects on the life of the teenager and to preview the coming events of 1965.

The presidents of the high schools in the city and the surrounding viewing area are invited as special guests to speak on the subject at hand. Dave Wright will act as moderator.

GHS FIGHT SONG

We are Whirlies

We are Whirlies

Colors Blue and White

To change our name

Can't change our fame

We still know how to fight Rah!
Rah!

So yell twice as loud

'Cause we're twice as proud

Boys, fight on for our name

Fight Hhirlies fight and we will win this game.
