

Whirlie Words

Next year Smith Senior High School will be the third Greensboro high school in the Central 4-A conference. They will present their major threat in their first year on the baseball diamond. They have a strong defensive team and at the present are working on their offensive attack. It will be interesting to watch the body of the school rivalry grow especially if Smith turns out some strong competitive teams.

The Grimsley Junior Jaycees and Jayettes are currently selling tickets to the Greater Greensboro Open to be held from March 29th through April 4th. The tickets are $12.50 for all seven days. The GGO will have more participants this year than ever before and will be carried coast to coast on national television. An added honor will be the participation of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in the tournament itself.

The track, golf, baseball, varsity and Jayvees, and tennis Whirlie athletic teams have officially opened their 1965 seasons. Each of these sports deserve the interest and attendance of the entire student body. The baseball and golf teams are defending state crowns this spring. Coach Dave Murr will try his hand at baseball coaching this season taking Coach Lewis McCalls place.

Censored Nonsense

BY BUDDY POWELL

I wish students wouldn't practice in the music building during the period we have TV history. It keeps the whole class awake.

How does the Key Club get away with not having an advisor?

Some of our Seniors are taking their college days to go to some rather wierd colleges eh Root, Lawrence, and Snipes.

The boys in the orchestra have volunteered to paint shirts on the murals in the auditorium; however I don't think this modesty is necessary.

We want a CONVENTION!!! Can we have one if we promise not to get gross?

The Civinettes who wash the black boards have been missing two spots on the board in room 301.

In family life we have made up a list of interesting things to do on a date. Here are a few choice suggestions:

Visit the emergency room at the hospital

Disect fetal pigs

Learn braille

Weave baskets out of bull rushes

Look up dirty words in the dictionary

Drop frogs from the Jefferson Building (also a game)

Visit a leper colony

Students Over Flu, Spring Fever Hits

"Spring has sprung" and it looked as though Grimsley teens were springing all records set in the past. What records? Just that phase of the year when winter gives way to spring and students STOP being absent from school.

The usual practice in previous years has been to give up the colds, flu bugs, and sore throats and dig into the spring semester, then affected with "spring fever," but they are here.

So what happened this year? The first weeks of March brought empty desks, office absentee lists five pages long, and, from those students present, the chorus of sneezing, coughing, and the rustle of kleenex.

This was the year the flu bug hit late and the cold germ extended its visit. Rumors that nearly 300 students were absent spread over the campus. And the clinic started compiling the long lists of the "whys," and "whens" of all those absent.

Now things are looking up though. Spring arrived last Sunday . . . absentee lists are getting smaller . . . and only the persistent spring fever justifies the dreamy stares students cast out the windows.

Of course, there will always be those who skip the pursuit of learning a day or two for an appointment in court (driver's training must be getting pretty tough for those who insist on throwing their teacher through the windshield at the sight of stop signs; an upset stomach (at the thought of the chem test); college entrance tests (assuming a lot, aren't they?); or because they are needed at home (Herman, the family seal, needs a playmate).

But to all of you who found themselfse victims of virus, colds, etc., etc., etc., WELCOME BACK!
