

Senior Class Presents Concerto Night; McNairy Emcees; Reception Follows

John McNairy, president of the senior class, recently released through HIGH LIFE an invitation to the student body to the senior class' annual "Concerto Night."

Concerto Night, in honor of and sponsored by the Class of 1966, will feature eight senior soloists from the band, choir, and orchestra. Seniors will receive special printed invitations and three complimentary tickets apiece; these invitations are not only for the concert, but also for the following candlelight reception which is only for faculty members, seniors, and their parents.

John, who will be Master of Ceremonies, stated, "Although juniors and sophomores may not attend the reception, I know they would want to hear this unique concert and honor their senior friends. Concerto Night will prove to be the most enjoyable and the best-attended concert ever presented at Grimsley. The Class of '66 is indeed proud to sponsor it."

Talent Show Winner Performs

It will also be the most varied concert. Hardin Matthews, first place winner of the Torchlight Talent Show, will play a very wild piece on his saxophone. Marion Scott, voted Most Talented by the senior class, will present a short, fast piece on the viola.

Skip Spenser, Most Talented boy, will sing, "When I Look Upon the Maiden." Kathy Lilburn, North Carolina All-State first chair celloist, will be a soloist and Steve Adair, president of the symphony Band will solo on his oboe.

Lari Powell will put aside her cheerleading long enough to zoom through a very unusual piece on her bass, which is rarely a solo instrument, and G. H. Sharp, concert master of the orchestra, will present a concerto along with Charleen Pyron. Kathy Howe will also solo on the French horn and Chris Efland will solo on the flute.

Reception for All Seniors
The reception following will be very pretty, with candles and roses upon white linen, and of course, delicious food.

Jaycees Build Patio For Front Campus

Grimsley's Jr. Jaycees are at it again! A committee headed by David Nichols set out to beautify the area next to the main walk on Westover Terrace.

In late December the Jaycees made plans for a patio to occupy that space. Actual construction began in mid-April and was completed the last of April.

Approximately two hundred dollars was spent. This included the cost of brick, four stone benches and urns for cigarette butts. Along with this were shrubbery, petunias, boxwood, and Japanese Cherry trees to add to the landscape.

The Jaycees worked for the money spent doing various jobs. All money made at the GGO and working for a Garden Club in Hamilton Lakes was spent for the patio.

Working with David were David Thompson, senior, Richard Newby, junior, and Ronnie Merrill.

David Thompson state, "We probably got the idea for the patio from the grove and the immediate need for improvement to that area."

The Jaycees did this for the School Beautiful committee and will receive credit.

Other things planned for this spring by the Jaycees are the annual scholarship given by the Jaycees and the Roger Hobbs Memorial Trophy.

Seven Whirlies Go To N. C. Governor's School

Clubs Contribute More Service As School Year Begins To Close

As school draws near the end of its 1965-1966 year, service clubs have busied themselves with taking advantage of the last chance to contribute to GHS life before summertime.

Exchangettes built a badly needed gravel path parallel to the cement walk running from the Science Building toward the halfway point between it and the Main Building.

Exchangettes also earned a city-wide first place for collecting the most in the Cancer Drive.

Jaycees recently built a very attractive patio on the front campus and also helped the Greensboro Jaycees with the Car Rodeo.

Jan Petrehn Tours N.Y. City, Capitol; Interviews UN Delegates, Leaders

Jan Petrehn, GHS senior, returned recently from an all-expense paid, four-day tour of New York City and Washington, D.C. As Grimsley's first place winner in the annual American Freedom Association's United Nations speech contest, Jan joined the Smith and Page High School winners and 78 other students, teachers, and chaperones from throughout the state for her trip.

Arriving in New York City late Sunday evening, April 24, Jan stayed at the Hotel Piccadilly located in the heart of Times Square. "Monday morning I saw the United Nations for the first time. It is just as majestic as I had dreamed it would be," she relates. Upon being addressed by the UN delegates from Yugoslavia and India, the group had the opportunity to interview the delegates. "We were all interested in the Red China question. Being accustomed to Uncle Sam's refusal to recognize the Chinese Communists, I guess I was a little surprised by the delegates' sincere desires for Red China to be admitted to the United Nations."

Monday afternoon Jan was caught up in the whirl of New York City sights. "We saw everything from a Buddhist Temple in Chinatown to the Manhattan skyline as seen from the deck of "Miss Liberty," the boat which took us out to the Statue of Liberty.

"I saw my first Broadway play Monday night. I'm not sure whether I was dazed more by the play itself ("Wait a Minim" starring seven actors from around the world) or by the hundreds of limousines and chauffeurs which were literally packed into every inch of the streets there in the middle of Times Square."

Following her tour of the United Nations, she joined the group of contest winners for lunch in the Delegates Dining Room.
