

Can't See America

You can't see America.

It's not hotdogs. They eat hotdogs in Russia too.

It's not baseball, either, despite what they say in the World War II movies. They also play baseball in North Vietnam.

But they haven't got America.

You can't see America, because America is a feeling . . .

To be an American is to be America. For America is the total of all the strivings for justice and freedom by every single American. In America, to be is to do.

The things we believe is mots sincerely are the things we cannot see.

And you can't see America.

HOYAH FRIENDS AND SOPHS!

Due to an illness we barely got this article to the printing press on time. We had the Egyptian Flu which we caught from our mummies

ATTENTION SOPHOMORES!

For your convenience we are printing this badge in the paper. Please cut it out and wear it. We are sure your upperclassmen will gladly tell you where to go!

Speaking of sophomores, we would like to welcome all you 10th graders from Kiser, Lindley, Page and Grimsley. And as always, with every new batch of sophomores there comes a new batch of brilliant remarks. Here are several comments overheard by our man on the scene; "I just can't find the Elevator!"—"Well, that senior told me yesterday that today is white sock day and I can't understand why nobody else is wearing them."—"I'm sure these pencils will practically sell themselves. They're so neat!"—"Where's the bike rack?"—Flash!—There is a new album out by the Turtles entitled "Songs Our Mother Tortoise."

The other day a sign appeared in the High Life Room reading: "Anyone using obscene language in High Life will be bared by the staff." Not wanting to be "bared" by the staff this column is one-half its original length.

OFFER! Steve Smith announced today that he will teach ANYONE to Tango for $2. As Steve said, it takes $2 to Tango.

And now, as a closing word, we'd like to say: albatross.

I AM A SOPHOMORE PLEASE HELP ME!

Beatles Better Than Ever

The Beatles with their new 45 rpm release "Revolution" and "Hey Jude" have continued to surpass the efforts of more recent groups. When the Beatles first appeared on the musical scene several years ago they were thought by many to be a bizarre group who were merely a fad which would quickly end. Far from this they are now writing significant pieces such as the social commentary in "Revolution" on people with "minds that hate." They are expanding with the times and experimenting with new music forms and new lyrics to accompany them. Instead of passing into obscurity, the Beatles have a large following, even in the circles where the ages are over thirty-five.

When the Beatles' names are mentioned there are no long piercing shrieks as in the first days of Beatlemania, but most people do credit the Beatles with a great amount of responsibility for a major part of our present music. Many "experts" on the present-day music and the Beatles like to say that the Beatles' major turning point was with the album "Sergeant Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band". In that album the Beatles demonstrated their ability to write more than love songs, at which they were more than capable.

Paul McCartney and John Lennon, the main writers for the group, have become internationally known for both their lyrics and their music. Many well-known singers and orchestras have included many of the McCartney-Lennon tunes into their repertoires.

The Beatles have expanded and their music is the better for it. With their wide influence they can be a vital force in changing things. Music has always been a universal language and the Beatles are very fluent in that tongue. If in the future, lyrics and melodies which concern the present situations as in "Revolutions", they may be able to shape opinion favorable to peace.

NEW POSTERS

Another popular type of poster is the star poster. Who wouldn't like a life-size or larger picture of Paul Newman or Dustin Hoffman or on the other side of the coin, Raquel Welch of Bridgette Bardot? Psychedelic idol posters of music stars such as the Beatles, Jimi Hendrix, Jefferson Airplane, and the Mothers of Invention decorate many teens' rooms.

The third major kind of wall poster is the protest poster. It deals out a cut to some part of the establishment. One favorite shows President Johnson and Vice President Humphrey as the "Dynamic Due." However, one of the most popular is found in your local Army recruiter's office. It's simply the familiar poster of Uncle Sam pointing his finger and saying, "I want you." Ironically nowadays it's a protest poster and against the draft.

Other popular posters are color surfing posters and travel posters. Whatever your choice, just for fun, go on and pin up!
