Forward Hoe, to our first exam! Bright, lively, fully awake, no fears. Wonder how these people look later on in the week after many sleepless nights and many, many late hours cramming. Just imagine closed eyes, dragging, hanging on to walls, lockers, anything.

Let's All Be Thankful!

Exams Are Over!

Youth Council Proposed

On Wednesday, January 15, a proposal was given to the State General Assembly to create a state board for the Youth Council of North Carolina.

The reason the bill is being presented is to unite all the present Youth Councils in North Carolina and create them as an official part of the state government with an advisory board and state representatives from each council.

The ultimate goal of a state council would be to create a council in each county—hopeful of one hundred councils.

The present six youth councils who are under the heading of the Youth Councils of North Carolina are Greensboro, (the first), Asheville, High Point, Fayetteville, Raleigh, and Wilmington.

The chairman of the councils, Roger Carrick of High Point helped organize the bill. The representative for Greensboro presenting the bill is "Skipper" Bowles. He has had petitions from the high schools in the area, and various clubs and organizations supporting the bill.

High Life thoroughly supports this bill.

Senior Class Project

On December 23, the Senior class of Grimsley High School sponsored a Christmas project for the children of Smith Homes, a housing development on Florida Avenue.

Months of preparation and effort were contributed in this attempt by the Senior Class to brighten the holiday for those less fortunate. The Senior Class voted in November to alter the Senior Christmas project from the traditional play to a party for 50 children in downtown Greensboro, but because of the interest and enthusiasm expressed the project was later expanded to the five hundred Children at Smith Homes.

The chairman of the project was Jane Garvey who headed a large committee of Grimsley Seniors. Among the most active committee members were co-chairmen Susan Gibson, Mark Morris, and Doug Harris. Other active workers included Kathy Shields, Eddie Deaton, Larry Payne, Jana Moore, Carol Johns, Steve Gennaro, and Paulette Flanary. The entire Senior Class was involved in the project through the contribution of candies, cookies, and decorations through the Senior home-rooms.

The exact nature and location of the party was worked out with the aid of Rev. Ray Moss of the Inner-City Ministry and the Greensboro Housing Commission. The faculty advisor for the party was Mrs. Richardson. Miss Lynne Hundley and Miss Sarah Lovett were the faculty members who attended the party.

About twenty Grimsley Seniors attended the party which was held between 6:00 and 7:00 p.m. on December 23. The Grimsley string quartet provided the music for the singing of Christmas carols which was led by Jana Moore. The children enjoyed the carols a great deal, but the real excitement started when Santa Claus (Steve LeFever of High Point) arrived. During the carols and Santa Claus' visit the children were given cookies contributed by members of the Senior Class, and of the one hundred dozens which were contributed not a crumb remained.

Just before the party ended the toys and ice cream which the tenant's Council had purchased for the children were distributed along with the bags of candy and gum which the Senior Class provided.

From beginning to end chaos reigned, but it was happy chaos, and Christmas was much happier for five hundred little disadvantaged children because of a group of young people who cared.

New Honor Code Discussed, Special Meeting

On January 9th, the Honor Code Committee held a meeting after school to discuss changes in the existing code or a possible new code.

Bill Buckley, chairman of the committee, said the student council had decided to take action after reading students' comments from the Suggestion Box and discussing it among themselves. So a committee was selected to look into the Honor Code. The other members are: Kathy Glenn, Cem Brown, Joe Carruthers, Suzanne Williams, and Mike Frier-son.

The main plans for the committee are to try to change or set up a new code. If a new code is written, it will have to be approved by a 2/3 majority of the student body. The committee hopes if there is a new code, it will be a sort of personal statement, so the student will be able to identify his own personal goals within the code.

A new code would try to challenge a student to apply the code as part of his own individual life and then as a part of the student body. The committee wants the individual to "establish obligations from the code toward both persons."

The main objective of the committee for a new code is to write a realistic honor code. They want the code to be attainable for students.

By meetings such as the one held, the committee hopes to receive suggestions for the new code. Each member of the committee is to write his own version of a code in hopes that the committee will receive different ideas for a code.

Anyone interested in the changes of the code or a new code should turn in any suggestions he might have so as to help the betterment of the school.
