Y. C. N. C. In The Process of Change

Because of the state law which was passed during the last General Assembly session, the Youth Councils of North Carolina are in a stage of reorganization.

The constitution of the Youth Councils has several points which are in conflict with the state law. The committee which is in charge of by-laws is now in the process of rewriting the constitution, subject to approval by all YCNC Greensboro's delegates to Y.C.N.C. compose this committee. Marty Hammer, Ross Covington, Susy Levy, Jack Hunngman, Bill Glass, David Gaynor and by-laws chairman Cathy Payne are now meeting to make these changes.

Conflicting points have to do mainly with the Advisory Board. Under the present arrangement there is a Corporate Board which is made up of adult advisors from each of the Youth Councils. There also is an Executive Director who works for Y.C.N.C. They have the power to advise and take care of all corporate business for Y.C.N.C.

Under the state law there is a different arrangement. An advisory Board of eight adults and eight youths is to be set up. The adults will be selected by the governor of N.C. for a term of four years. The youths will be selected by the Youth Council. They are to be chosen geographically with not more than four coming from established councils. The powers will be similar to those of the present board. They shall also pick the Executive Director for the council.

The present council was formed in 1966 when three councils banded together. Greensboro, High Point and Raleigh became the Youth Councils of North Carolina, Incorporated. The charter and by-laws were drawn up by youths. Soon afterwards, Fayetteville, Ashville and Wilmington became council members.

In 1968 a grant by the Smith Richardson Foundation gave a grant for a pilot study of the bill. It was proposed and passed by the 1969 General Assembly. When the Youth Councils go under this bill the present organization will be abolished. Then N.C. will be the only state which has such a program for its youths.

Whirligig Wins Award

HIGH LIFE would like to congratulate the staff of the 1969 WHIRLIGIG for receiving the All-American Honor Rating in the All American Critical Service. This rating is conducted by the National Scholastic Press Association at the University of Minnesota. This marks the twentieth consecutive time the WHIRLIGIG has won this high award. Editors Bonnie Boyles and Fred Pearsall and advisor Miss Virginia Powell are especially to be congratulated on this journalistic achievement.

The rating is based on over 5000 high school publications. These are judged on content, writing and make-up in categories based on enrollment, frequency of publication and method of printing.

In the release Otto W. Quale, NSPA Executive Director stated, "Scholastic journalists are the communications leaders of tomorrow and high school publications provide a living laboratory for journalistic research and innovation. The school and community are to be commended for their support of this challenging co-curricular activity."

This year's WHIRLIGIG Editor Bill Proctor promises many improvements and surprises in the WHIRLIGIG. The page size is to be expanded to 9"x12" from the old 7 3/8"x10 1/2" and the faculty section will be combined with the achievement section. The first sale of WHIRLIGIGS is set for November 5-12 at the price of $5.25, the price will go up to $6.00 during the February sale.

J.C.L. ELECTS OFFICERS

JCL — the Junior Classical League — is a non-service club made up of Latin students. Its purpose is to promote an appreciation of ancient classical culture. The JCL creed sums up the purpose very nicely: "The members of the Junior Classica; League covenant to hand on the torch of classical civilization of the modern world. They believe an acquaintance with the civilization of Greece and Rome will help them understand and appraise this world of today which is indebted to ancient civilization in its governments, laws, literature, language, and arts."

This year's state JCL president is Kevin Butler. He was elected at the state convention in Chapel Hill earlier this year.

Grimsley's JCL officers for this year are as follows: Jack Knight, president; Dave Buie and David Carpenter, co-vice presidents; Susan Decker, secretary, and Cynda Crawford, treasurer.

Industrial Program Started For Youth

The Youth and Industry Program is a program set up to teach youth about the economic and industrial facts of our society and the opportunities for youth in industry. Some of the purposes of the program are to help youth learn about basic economics and industry to the social, political, and international aspects of society; to teach them about those who operate the industrial economy of the United States; to raise the students' level of knowledge about basic economics and industry; to enable youth to appreciate the operations and benefits of a free enterprise system and to learn how to explain it.

It is made of a group of twenty to twenty-five high school youth meeting weekly for a minimum of six weeks under the direction of an able discussion leader. During the six weeks the group visits five different plants and learns about economy and industry.

GRIMSLEY TO HAVE PRESIDENTIAL CLASSROOM

Grimsley High School will be one of the privileged schools in the state this year as one senior, selected by the school administrators, will be sent to Washington, D.C. for a week to participate in the 1970 program of A Presidential Classroom for Young Americans, a non-partisan non-profit organization for education. The purpose of this governmentally project is to provide high school seniors from all parts of the United States with an opportunity to discover what our government is really all about—its functions and how these duties are carried out.

"A Presidential Classroom for Young Americans" serves to open the door to greater understanding of the American democratic system which, to many high-school-age youths, may seem remote and bureaucratic.

Sessions will be held in Washington beginning on February 14 and running until March 21. Each session will last one week. During each session, classes begin on a Saturday afternoon and end the following Saturday morning, each class consisting of 350 students.

The project is being held in Washington because most of official Washington will be present, and most governmental functions are under full swing. The Senate and the House of Representatives will both probably be in session, and next year's budget and plans will be being discussed. Schools must initiate a request in order to insure a place for a senior in the 1970 program. The request should be signed by Mr. Glenn. No more than two students will be accepted from the same school. In order to be selected, a student must be doing well in classes, express a genuine desire to learn about government in-depth, and have maintained good self-discipline in the past.

Although transportation to and from Washington is not included, the $200.00 tuition (per student) covers food, lodging, text, field trips, instructor fees, and health and accident insurance.

The holding of classes in the actual location of the department or agency being studied adds to the benefits for the students. They will see first-hand how our democracy works. The week will be broken up into 20 seminars, with a work day lasting from 8 a.m. until 11 p.m. Largely, lectures and class participation in discussions, these seminars cover all areas of the government, such as an in-depth look at the senator, the representative, the work of the Senate and Congressional offices, the state department, and the Judiciary system. Also, there are other topics discussed, such as the work of the foreign embassies, an introduction to the Nation's Capital, and the methods of the Fourth Estate. At the end of the week, all seniors will be given a National Student Body Test. The results of the test will be personal and not subjected to a national rating of any kind.

On Friday night of each session, a graduation banquet will be held and Certificates of Achievement will be awarded. A major speaker will address the students, and nationally known entertainers will present "A Salute to Young Americans". It promises to be a memorable experience for seniors across the country. Many students have had community clubs sponsoring their trip and providing the finances. This is greatly urged by the organizers of the program. If it were possible, the government would like to have all students come and "discover America", but it must settle for just a few. It is hoped that those who are part of the classroom program will pass on their experiences and knowledge to others.

College Entrance Exams

There are several college entrance examinations for Juniors and Seniors at Grimsley. For Juniors there is the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT), the College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB) Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), and the CEEB Achievement Tests. Seniors may take the CEEB-SAT and the CEEB Achievement Tests.

Also, there are three tests for Seniors which Juniors do not take: CEEB Advanced Placement, CEEB Language Listening, and the American College Testing ACT).

The cost for the CEEB-SAT is $5.00, for the CEEB Achievements, $8.50, and for the CEEB Language Listening test, since it is a supplement to the written Achievement test, there is no cost. The ACT's cost $6.00.

CEEB-Sat's are given on November 1, December 6, January 10, March 7, May 2, and July 11. The CEEB Achievements are given on December 6, January 10, March 7, May 2, and July 11. The deadline dates for the test applications are October 1, November 5, December 10, February 4, April 1, and June 10.

On October 18, December 13, February 21, April 25, and July 18, the ACT's are given. The CEEB Advanced Placement is given on May 18 and May 22. February 3 in the test date for CEEB Language Listening.

economic system that may be covered are profits and prices, money and credit, machinery costs, taxes, competition, government relationships, supply and demand, jobs, training and development, plus others.

A range of industries to be visited are textile mills and products, food, rubber products, leather goods, electrical equipment, petroleum and coal, printing and publishing, and many others.

The program takes place from October 15th to November 12. On Oct. 15, orientation took place where more about the program was learned. The schedule for the program for the city schools is as follows: Oct. 22—Pilot Life Insurance Company, Oct. 29 — Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, Nov. 5—Meyers Department Store, Nov. 12—J. P. Stevens and Company.

Grimsley participants in the program are Susan Johnston, Stephen Marks, Randy McFettors, Marty Schott, Terry Stout, and Mark Thompson.

CORRECTION

High Life would like to apologize for the statement for money usage from the Junior class project. It does not go to the prom as stated, but is used to pay for the Junior section in the annual. Excess money is carried over until next year to use in the senior class project.
