Grimsley Competing In High I. Q. Bowl

Grimsley High School is once again competing this year in the Greensboro Youth Council's High I.Q. Bowl on Feb. 21, 1970 in Elliott Hall at UNCG.

Grimsley's team is composed of five members. They are Stuart Kalifon, Marty Schott, Janice Smith, Chuck Steacy, and Ted Tally. Only four people can be in a round. Up until this year there were only four members and an alternate. This year there are five members with four being designated for a specific round by the team coach.

Grimsley's coaches are Mr. Stanfield and Mr. Whisenant. Aside from choosing the team, their other duties are to organize practices, choose the players and this year have been given a prerogative about spectators. If the two coaches of opposing teams agree, a limited number can observe between 10:00 and 3:30.

The High I.Q. Bowl is run on the basis of the G. E. College Bowl. There are rounds of twenty minutes in which each team tries to amass the most points. There are ten point toss-up questions in which they have ten seconds to answer. Bonus questions worth ten to thirty points are asked to the team winning the toss-up.

The questions are compiled by a national testing service and local colleges. They are geared for local high school seniors. Questions are in the areas of mathematics, science, English, social studies, geography, current events and humanities. Each round is relatively the same in difficulty.

High I. Q. Bowl is a second semester event co-sponsored by Greensboro Youth Council and WFMY-TV. The purposes are to show scholastic ability of high school students, to give students from across the state a chance to meet and to award scholarships. North Carolina National Bank awards scholarships to the winners and runner-ups. The winning team also receives a trophy for one year which they can come back and defend.

The first four rounds will be February 21 at Elliott Hall with adults serving as judges and moderators and local teams as scorers, timers and runners. The next four rounds will be February 28 in this double elimination event. The final round will be broadcast over WFMY-TV.

Thirty-two teams have entered this year, making this the largest High I. Q. Bowl. All high schools in Greensboro have entered. For the first time teams will come from all over the state. Asheville, Charlotte and Wilmington all have entered teams.

Jack Knight is chairman of the High I. Q. Bowl. Howard Stang and Joe Carruthers are co-chairmen. All are students from Grimsley.

Survey To Be Made

Some students from the schools in Greensboro have established a committee which will compile statistics and information on the effectiveness of student councils. The committee is working on a survey which will ask students of different high schools their feelings about their student councils. Some of the questions which might be asked, are how the council members are elected, do they represent the student body, does the council take a political stand on issues, etc.

The committee plans to distribute the survey to a wide variety of schools. Schools which will take the survey will be picked according to size, integration, economically, and the location, whether its city or rural.

The survey should be out sometime in May. Then, after the statistics and information has been gathered, a pamphlet will be made which will show the information gathered from the survey.

The committee comes under the TASK FORCE, which is headed by the State Department to get a better understanding of problems in the high school. The Task Force has allotted the students a budget in which to work in.

Greensboro Young People Out To Save Zoo

Many young people in Greensboro are concerned about the problems of the mistreated animals in our "zoo." The Youth Representative of the Save the Zoo Committee, Candy Caldwell, and many other concerned high school students are doing something about them. Volunteers are and will be soliciting funds and sponsoring money-raising campaigns all around Greensboro. The downtown shopping centers will be the centers of GYC and high school service club sponsored money-raising drives in the next few weeks.

A few days ago a display was set up downtown by a local man for the Save the Zoo Committee. It was a collection of life-like plaster animals in cages representing the present "zoo." Page students and members of the Pep Committee collected donations which were put in toward the goal of $270,000 needed to build the new zoo.

GYC is planning a festival at the park in the coming weeks to raise more money to meet the monumental goal. The Save the Zoo Committee had also been planning a festival, but that will be postponed until after the GYC festival is held. The zoo as it stands now is sorely in need of repair. No, not repair—abolishment! The poor, desolate inhabitants do nothing but pace from one end of their tiny, dirty, cement-floored cages to the other, longing for the freedom that they once enjoyed.

The new zoo will provide large areas of grass for each of the animals, and a stream will flow through the area. An island in the stream will be reserved for monkeys, and will have no wire for cage at all. The monkeys are free to roam all over the limits of the island, providing as much freedom as possible.

The site of the new zoo is the area where the old rides were torn down. When the building is completed, the landscaping will include trees, ground cover, and a barn for smaller children to pet tame animals. Volunteers will soon be offering projects for participants here at Grimsley. It is up to us to be a part of these projects, in order to do our part to save the zoo. PLEASE HELP!

At the present time, the Jaycees are soliciting funds from small businesses by letters sent on Saturday. They will follow this up by visiting these businesses later on. The Sertoma Club will soon be sponsoring a "walk-a-mile" campaign in which people and businesses will pledge an amount of money for each mile a certain selected person (hopefully the mayor) walks in a certain day. It is expected to be held in March, and announcements will be given in advance in the schools. Mrs. Harriet Zauber is soliciting funds from larger businesses and industries. Since the adults of the Gate City are doing so much to save the zoo, the youth can work just as hard for so worthy a cause. Already, volunteers from GYC built a float for the Christmas Parade which won second prize ($10.00). It may not seem like much money, but at least they're doing their best. But what about the majority of us at Grimsley who aren't directly involved in this affair. Surprisingly enough, the success of the program lies with us. The Save the Zoo Committee cannot raise $270,000 by themselves. It is up to us to provide participation and donations to provide a decent place for these virtually imprisoned animals to live.

Anyone interested in saving the zoo can contact Candy Caldwell at the Greensboro Youth Council office.

23 Acts In Teenage Talent Show

Teenagers from Greensboro and surrounding area will be displaying their talents to the public at War Memorial Auditorium on March 14, at 8:00 p.m. They will be taking part in a five thousand dollar project that has been in the making for months. Auditions were held for the Vocal Division on Saturday, January 31, at Glenwood, for the Combo and Instrumental Division on February 1 and for the novelty acts, dramatic acts, and solos on Saturday, February 7, both at First Presbyterian Church in the dining hall. 23 acts were chosen by qualified judges, including 8 vocal and 3 combos. On the 14th, the judges will pick a winner from each of the aforementioned categories, the winner receiving a $200 prize. There will also be a "best of the show award" given to the combo, vocal, or act who, in the opinion of the judges, presented the best display of talent in the entire show. In addition, there will be an Art Show for anyone who wishes to submit an entry. There will be a $200 prize for the most artistic entry.

Although last year's talent show lasted for over three hours, this year's is not expected to be so long. So come down to War Memorial Auditorium and watch the talented Greensboro youth do their thing(s)!

J.C.L. Meeting

The JCL meeting on February 18 will include a Miss and Mr. Rome Pageant. The meeting will be held immediately after school in either the band or orchestra room.

Contestants will be judged on talent and how well each wears a maxi and a mini toga. The talent must be related to Latin or Roman culture.

Two contestants—a boy and a girl—were chosen by their classmates from each of Mrs. Madlin's classes. Those competing include: Steve Settle, Meredith Foltz, Lou Hudson, Don Cohart, Betty Sebastian, Jim Moberly, Martha, Wilson, and Cary Wilson.

Judges will be chosen from each class and will include Mrs. Madlin.

Congratulations to
Mr. & Mrs. Canady
on the birth of a son
