which is normally under the "jurisdiction" of Mr. Booth. According to Mr. Rooker, "We played mostly patriotic music—'Hail to the Chief,' 'You're a Grand Old Flag,' and 'This Land Is Your Land' to name a few.

"We also played our fight songs. Mr. Nixon was thrilled to hear them."

He continued to say, "After we played, the Master of Ceremonies, Roy Acuff, invited us to play at the Grand Ole Oprey. We played off and on for an hour and a half from our position on the Observation Deck. It was an ideal place. We could see everything, while the other two bands played from a position behind the band stand. When we arrived someone had taken our place, so we asked if we could play from the observation deck

The Grimsley band will receive a certificate from the White House saying, "We Played for the President of the United States."

The 75 members of the bands from Grimsley were treated to hamburgrs, french fries, and cokes from MacDonald's. Refreshments for the players were provided by the Republican County Commissioners.

Band members were transported from GHS to the airport by chartered bus. Going home took one hour and twenty minutes from the airport to Guilford Col-

Dr. Jack Jarrett, composer and ton performance of a choral symphony of American poems on Saturday, November 11.

"This is the first time all four major high schools have been working together toward a common goal," asserts Mr. Ron Hill, GHS choir director. "We hope to continue to promote better interschool relations."

The concert, for the North Carolina Music Educators' Association, included approximately 20 singers from each city high school. Accompanying the choir was an orchestra composed mostly of Grimsley students with several instructors playing in vacant Choir members from GHS selected to attend the Wilmington performance were Brenda Tagert, Carolyn Jack, sopranos; Mary Jean Riggsbee, Anne Bell, Karen Williams, second sopranos; Donna Summers, Laura Jackson, Brenda Ennis, Jane Ingram, Jackie Thomas, first altos; Lois Lann, Karen Gipple, Katy Friggle, second altos; Sam Lewis, John Coble, Don Wimbs, Rich Llewellyn, first tenors; Tom Ralls, Jim Coble, second tenors; Peter Byrd, Greg Shoffner, baritones; Zane Leake, David Watson, basses.

Tuesday, December 5 is the date set for the departmental Christmas concert. Tickets are now on sale for students and adults. The choir will sing many famous Christmas selections.

Student Council Activities, un-Council President Kathy Whitcomb and other dedicated members, have concluded a majority of their planning sessions, and an active year is projected.

The Student Council wrapped up the selection of Student Council Representatives by choosing six sophomores. Thep are Edwina Brown, Debbie Hughes, Bob Howerton, Rick Stafford, Jerry Swartzberg, and Nancy Wagoner. These six people were chosen to fill vacant positions left from an incomplete sophomore ballot.

Plans include a carnival to be held on Saturday, December 9. The Carnival, lasting from 12 until 4, is being staged in order to boost school spirit and to provide a ilttle fun to the students Leigh Salls and Ruth Kabat plan to have service clubs and any other groups of students to set up booths in an effort to provide fun games. Refreshments will be propided by der the strong direction of Student the Student Council and all money made will go to the sponsoring

Also, the Student Council will again support the annual Thanksgiving Project. Student Council members will visit homerooms to raise money to pay for a Thanksgiving Dinner for the Custodial

In addition to these projects, the Student Council will initiate a program used two years ago. Juanita Gladney will be in charge of a program dealing with showing movies after school. These movies, the type shown at local theatres, will cost around $.50 per person. Refreshments will be served with profits helping to pay for the movie. This movie program was not used last year because of the reconstruction of the auditorium. As in the past, conduct at the movies will decide

GYC Prepares Annual Christmas Project

The Greensboro Youth Council is preparing for Christmas with ecology. Chris Evergreen is an annual project to promote the sale of live Crristmas trees.

This project started three years ago, and has spread city wide The sale of live Christmas trees has grown from 200 to 2000 in the three years since its concep-

This year, for the first time, this Christmas project will have a kickoff day. It is scheduled for November 28.

The kickoff will take place downtown in the plot that houses the first live Christmas tree sold when the project first began.

To help influence people to buy the trees, there are fliers being handed out in local grocery stores. Also, there will be advertisements on the radio and on T. V. and a float in the Christmas parade. All of the Christmas tree lots are participating in this project. After the people have purchased a live tree, they will sign a list that will be handed over to the National Park Service.

"The National Park Service will then, on January 2, pick up all live trees from the homes of the people who bought them, and plant them where they're needed" said Mary Blitchington, tree chairman

"All the people have to do is pick the trees up at the lot and take them home. Then they will be picked up after Christmas so there is no worry or hassel about the disposal of these trees," stated

"We just hope that this year is very successful and the sale goes over 2,000 trees," said Mary.

The Smith family is about to be transferred to New York, dispite objections from all members of the family.

The two youngest children, Tottie portrayed by Robin Starolitz, and Agnes, played by Kathi Garrett, try to ruin their father's transfer to N. Y.

They try to convince Mr. Smith's boss, Mr. Dodge (Bill Marvin), that Mr. Smith (Rich Lewellyn) cannot possibly handle a family.

The other members of the family include Esther (Denise Descouzis), Rose (Kasey Klemmer), and Lon (Peter Byrd), all of which are extremely attracted to the opposite sex.

All try to discourage the transfer to N. Y., but ironically in doing so get their father ifred.

Finally everything and everyone put the pieces together and as the story enls, "they lived happily ever after."
