

Gateway: A Better Way To A Better Future

Are you concerned about Greensboro's future? Will the government be the way you want it? It can be if you go to Gateways Day, February 23, 8:30 to 5:30, Elliott Hall, UNC-G.

Gateways is an organization for the development of Greensboro's future. Discussions on schools, taxes, pollution, law enforcement, and recreation and other problems which pertain to Greensboro will be held.

Gateways, "A path through the present to the future," is sponsored by the Greensboro Junior League, The Greensboro Chamber of Commerce, and United Community Services of Greensboro.

Designed to generate citizen involvement by making new methods of establishing community goals and problem solving. Gateways will include Greensboro and rural Guilford County.

Since its formation over 18 months ago, Mrs. J. Brantly McAdoo, Jr. has been making preparations for Gateways Day.

Seminar programs in preparing youth and organizing for the future have been tried and proven effective in Dallas, New Orleans, New York, and other cities. Raleigh and Charlotte also have a program of this type underway.

Intelligent Life Found At GHS

Grimsley's High I.Q. Getting Higher

The Grimsley "High I.Q." team has made a fine start. On February 9 at UNC-G they defeated Lexington High by the score of 138-88. (Lexington is usually one of the strongest teams in the division). They also defeated Central Davidson, 243-76 and Ruffin, 151-33.

The team consists of Margaret Parham (captain), Greg Eason, Randy Kaplan, Jim Osborne and David Pearce.

Mr. Whisenant, team advisor, said that the sportsmanship is much better this year because of rule changes that help prevent disputes. Also there are five Whirling Boots, Girl ROTC Cadets.

Marine ROTC At Grimsley

Their Boots Are Made For Marching

The Whirling Boots are a performing group consisting this semester of 28 Grimsley High School girls. The major function of the group is to perform independently or with the Marching Band with the ROTC Precision Drill Team during the pre-game and half-time for Grimsley athletic events. They performed during the N.C. State scrimmage and also during half-time at the Cougar game on January 18 in the coliseum. They also usher at the games when the Boys' ROTC is performing, and likewise the boys usher while the girls are whirling.

The Whirling Boots are under the sponsorship of the Marine ROTC Department. Each member of Whirling Boots is also a member of the ROTC Cadet Corp.

The girls' requirements were to have good coordination, be able to dance and preferably to have an above average academic level. Last semester the captain of the Girls' ROTC was Patti Parrett, and this semester Leslie Stearns leads the girls.

The Marine Corps JROTC or Boys' ROTC is designed to emphasize leadership development or leadership education, both in military and civilian environments.

The Boys' ROTC plans on performing at the final game of the district basketball tournament, and they both are also planning their annual ball (usually at the Hilton). They will be selling candy for this event.

They usher at the basketball games and participate each year in the Empty Stocking Fund. This year the guys worked from 6:00 p.m. until midnight helping to pack stockings with goodies and toys. They are also responsible for raising our flag each morning.

Both of these fine groups are under the leadership of Colonel Booker and Sergeant Zales.

1973-74 Whirling Boot mem-

Austin Leads Optional School Program To Be Started At Grimsley

An Optional School was started here at Grimsley in the Vocational Building February 4 by Director Gerald Austin. The school will be a program of counseling and study to meet the needs of those who have had difficulty succeeding in the regular high school program.

Most students will hold jobs while they are going to school. The emphasis of the program will be on occupational education.

Students from all four Greensboro high schools will be eligible for the program. Age limit for

Continued on Page Eight

Exchange Day Rewarding; Student Affairs Plans More Events To Come

Student Exchange Day was underway February 12 and 13, with a total of 72 students participating from the four Greensboro High Schools.

Eighteen students were sent from each school (3 blacks and 3 whites from each class), and in turn each school received 54 students (18 from each of the other 3 schools).

This year for the first time students from Student Council and Student Affairs were actual exchange students (these students were usually guides for the incoming exchange students).

There were no requirements for any students wanting to participate in Exchange Day. Students were asked to sign up in the Guidance Office if they wanted to be an exchange student. A few days later Student Affairs drew their names from a hat, separating each class into two hats (black and white) three people from each hat were picked.

Exchange students began the day by meeting in the auditorium. Each student received a

Continued on Page Eight

Governor Holshouser Speaks

Journalism Workshop Holds Press Conference

A press conference with Governor Jim Holshouser spotlighted the third annual Piedmont Journalism Workshop held at UNC-G January 26.

More than 150 high school students from 26 schools in the Piedmont area attended the workshop. The workshop was planned to give these high school students, interested in some phase of journalism, as a career, a chance to learn something about the field from professional journalists.

Only students were allowed to quiz the Governor during the news conference, which lasted only an hour. A wide variety of questions were asked; some of the main question dealt with corporal punishment and the energy crisis. Holshouser stated that he has been associated with corporal punishment crimes and feels sometimes the penalty is abused. However, he forecasted a defeat of its dismissal because it may be one of the few means of control.

On the energy crisis, the Governor said that Daylight Savings Time was "distasteful for most" and that he didn't like it from the start. He also mentioned that gas rationing would be for 18 years olds or older because most persons under 18 would drive for personal travel rather than business. Talks of four day work weeks and busing would remain

Continued on Page Eight

With Grimsley's Whiz Kids, "Togetherness" stands out in the preliminary High I.Q. rounds.

Journalism students hold Press Conference with Gov. Holshouser at Piedmont Journalism Workshop.