

To gain firsthand knowledge and to help understand the problems and needs of students, teachers, and administration, Dr. Newbold plans to visit the schools as a regular part of his schedule next year. He regrets that he will not be able to spend as much time as he could in a smaller system.

A major goal of Dr. Newbold is to maintain Greensboro's high quality school system. The next decade will be critical, and he will do anything in his power to help the schools do their best.

"I want the very best personalized education for a person of any ability," Dr. Newbold states. He believes this can be achieved by spending more time with slow learners.

Free lunches for all students is an idea Dr. Newbold would like to see carried out. Money would be saved because red tape would be eliminated and records would not have to be kept on each student.

Thinking ahead, he commented, "I'd like to see a North Carolina school system take on a year-round school." He foresees many public relation problems with this concept, however.

Dr. Newbold believes that a good school system has got to have the home and school working together. This is the sector to the high quality education that he is striving toward as he takes over as Greensboro School Superintendent.
