

Computer To Ease Fall Scheduling

There is a good possibility that rising seniors, juniors and sophomores will not have to stand in those long lines to register for courses next fall.

The four city senior high schools most likely will be computer registered. That means students and teachers will not have to go through the registration hassle of previous years.

Dudley Senior High assistant principal and Chairman of the Task Force for Computer Registration, Mr. Fran Nolan, told HIGH LIFE reporters that Dudley was participating in a bogus run of the registration procedures. All the students at Dudley were given a computer form and were asked to fill it in as if they were selecting their next semester's courses. Mr. Nolan is now in the process of making a master schedule by running forms through the computer.

"The computer is large and sophisticated and has many more capabilities than the computer used by the city schools now," commented Mr. Nolan. It is called the Guilford County Data Processing Computer and is located at the court house.

1979 Talent Awards Show

Show Displays GHS Talent

Several Grimsley students have been selected as finalists in the 1979 GYC Talent Awards Show to be held tomorrow, March 17, at 7:30 p.m. in Greensboro's War Memorial Auditorium.

Auditions were held on February 24, 25 for the performing arts. GHS finalists include Ishmael Whitfield in the Dance and Variety category and Jeff Kiorpis in the Instrumental category. Also selected as a finalist was a Grimsley instrumental group which includes Stephanie Bartis, Kristen Warren, Laura Loper, Chris Beng, Emil Burns, Anne Gray, Bob Johnson, Glen Cashion, and Elmore. These finalists will perform at the Talent Awards Show.

Grimsley students prepare for GYC Talent Awards Show on March 17. Shown above are Michelle Kennerly and Don Moffit, co-hosts for the show.

[Austin photo]

In the non-performing categories Alan Silfen and Linda Wells were finalists in photography, and the art work of Julie Bailes, Louis Burch, Lisa Lynch, Mike Coyle, Cathy Porter, Neil Reitzel, Mysoon Rizk, and Carol Welker were also selected. The work in each category will be on display at the Talent Awards Show.

The Awards Show itself is a presentation which annually searches for the finest talent in the Piedmont. Auditions were open to any resident of the Piedmont between the ages of 13 and

19. Judges in each category included three professionals, one Knights of Columbus representative, and one GYC representative. Close to 100 people auditioned for the 23 spaces in this year's show, and there were close to 350 non-performing submissions. The final judging, based on a point system grading both talent and presentation, will take place on the night of the show.

The performance in the March 17 show will be [See 1979 GYC, p. 8]

Juniors Attend Program

Grimsley juniors who took the Strong-Campbell Inventory Test attended Career Day at Elliot Center of UNC-G on March 6.

The Strong-Campbell Inventory tests interests, activities, and academic strong points. It is designed to show the correlation between a student's aptitudes and possible career interests.

At Elliot Center, students received the results of their tests, and in a one and a half hour session, were taught to interpret them. Each person, according to interest, was then placed in one of the following categories: realistic, investigative, social, conventional, enterprising, or artistic.

After the group session, students were given the opportunity to talk with many professionals in every job range. These professionals gave vital information about annual pay rates, educational requirements, and time expectations for the vocations they discussed.

GYC, Service Clubs Sponsor Carnival

The annual GYC Carnival will be held April 25-29 at the Greensboro Coliseum.

Brent Clark, a Page junior directing the project, will team up with the entire GYC membership and the James H. Drew Exposition to produce in Clark's view, "one of the best carnivals ever. The rides are, as usual, of good quality. It should be an enjoyable experience for everyone involved."

The Drew Exposition will provide fifteen midway rides including the two main feature rides, the Flying Bobs and the Double-Sky-Wheel. Chairman Clark commented, "We're really lucky to have the Drew show with us again this year. The Drews have always brought a quality show to the GYC Carnival. They're a fine group of people to work with and to have in the Greensboro area."

In addition to rides and exhibits, each Greensboro City School has made plans to sell souvenirs and invent games at their individual booths to make extra revenue for their service clubs. Several Grimsley service clubs have game booths entered in the GYC Carnival involving games of skill and chance.

News Briefs

Career Center Fair

On March 14 and 15, the Weaver Education Center sponsored a Career Center Fair.

The intent of the Fair was to show the public the function of the Education Center. Each department demonstrated their purpose by being in charge of several booths.

Governor's Youth Conference

(Special release from the Governor's office) If you are between the ages of 14 and 19, you may be among 450 youth to participate in the Governor's Youth Conference to be held May 18-20 at Meredith College in Raleigh.

Workshops sessions will focus on youth employment, adolescent sexuality, discrimination, recreation and community education.

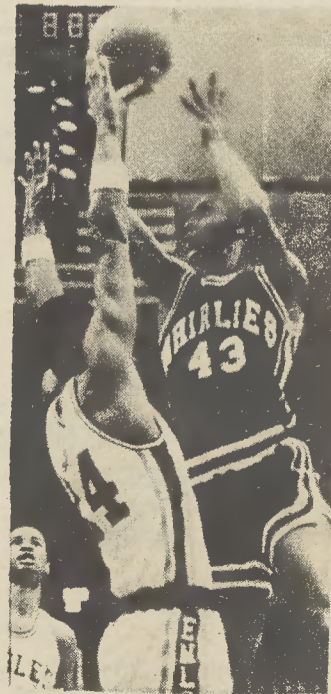

[See News, p. 8]

Whirlies Place 2nd

"I think we (Page) had a great effort; we had to... to play against a great basketball team like Grimsley. Rod Elkins, Jeff Anderson, and Cedric Cokely -- you're not going to find finer people than that anywhere around, and I'm proud that we were able to play well enough to win."

These words were part of the post-game statements made by Page's head basketball coach, Mac Morris, moments after his team's state championship win over Grimsley on March 9.

In the 72-57 win in the finals at the Greensboro Coliseum, on the very same floor where the Whirlies defeated the Pirates for the Little Four Championship three months ago, the Pirates finished the game [See Whirlies, p. 8]

[Garnett photo] Grimsley's Jeff Anderson shoots over defending Raleigh Enloe.