Torchlight Initiates Forty-Nine

By Alise Weinstein

The following students were inducted into Torchlight, Grimsley's National Honor Society on Thursday, May 12. The seniors were: Kimberly Adams, Linda Arruda, Kari Berg, Anna-Lena Dannaeus, Pamela Gentry, Estelle Gottman, Michaline Gray, Mary Imbus, Lisa Kershner, Martin Leary, Suzanne Morrah, Traci Noah, Corey Reed, William Sierdzki, Todd Tanner, and James Terrell.

The juniors inducted were: James Albright, John Alspaugh, Michelle Andrews, Alan Atwell, Philip Block, Mary Cahoon, Charles Cassell, Jeffrey Cline, Stephen

Clowse, Amy Davis, Suzanne Devaney, Lisa Elmore, Lezlie Fort, Linda Goldman, Allen Leonard, Warren Lewis, Tamera Majors, Michelle Martorano, Robert McDaniel, Wendy McLees, Karen Poulos, Pamela Ramsbotham, Amy Russell, Peggy Sandin, David Sawyer, Karen Seagraves, Joe Swindler, Diane Timblin, Alise Weinstein, Jennifer Wells, and Michelle Wulforth.

The National Honor Society is a chartered organization established by the National Association of Secondary School Principals. The 20,300 member society which ranges all across the country, must operate under the same guidelines.

There are four basic qualifications which students must fulfill before they are eligible for membership in the National Honor Society. Students must have a cumulative average of 3.4 or better; they must exert leadership in activities and in the classroom. The students must have exhibited service for the school as well as in the community, and most importantly, the students must have a good attitude and character.

Here at Grimsley, a computerized list of students with a 3.4 average is given to the selection

Students To Attend Summer Programs

By Lisa Earley

Rising seniors, Tamera Majors, Amy Davis, Brad Knott, Evon Hartgrove, Allen Leonard, Timothy Wood, David Lindabury, Sarah Catherine Clegg, Michon Crawford, Steffanie Vaughn, and David Sawyer will be involved in Girls' State, Boys' State, and Governors School.

Majors and Davis will be representing GHS at Girls' State, a one week event from June 12-18. Girls come from all over the state to learn about government. Girls' State, sponsored by The American Legion Auxiliary, is held on the UNC-G campus. The PTSA makes a contribution toward the $90 fee.

Knott and Sawyer will also be busy this summer representing GHS at Boys' State. Boys' State is also a week program (June 12-18) which emphasizes a study of government. Boys' State is held at Wake Forest University and is sponsored by the American Legion. The PTSA also make a contribution toward the fee.

News In Brief

Cheerleaders

The new 1983-84 cheerleaders have started off their new year with a busy schedule and are ready to go!

The cheerleading squad is now selling peanuts for two dollars a bag to raise money. Another money-raising project was a bake sale at a track meet on May 13.

Summer practices have been scheduled and afternoon practices have begun. This summer they are attending the Eastern Cheerleading Association Camp at Randolph Macon College. A mall competition has also been put down on the agenda for August or September.

History Club Speaker

On April 19, the Grimsley History Club sponsored a lecture by Dr. Karl Schleunes on Nazi Germany.

Dr. Schleunes, a history professor at UNC-G, discussed the commonly accepted theories on totalitarianism and showed how Hitler, who slept late, held boring dinner speeches on irrelevant subjects, and delegated responsibility to his immediate subordinates, did not fit those theories.

The large audience of about fifty, mostly students, responded to Dr. Schleunes' speech by asking questions in all areas relating to Hitler's regime.

A reception followed, with food and drinks provided by members of the History Club.

As its next activity, the History Club, with its adviser Mr. Robert Fredrickson, is planning a picnic at Battleground Park.

Madrigals

Grimsley's Madrigals traveled to Atlanta, Georgia for a musical competition in April.

Invited to the festival, the Madrigals (out of 45 groups participating) received one of only three 'excellent' ratings.

The Madrigals' final performance for the year was on May 23 at the dinner meeting of the Greensboro City Schools principals.

YAC Award

Recently, Grimsley received a National Youth Advisory Committee Fund Award of five hundred dollars.

Co-Chairman, Reba Morehead, will be flown to Phoenix, Arizona on July 19 to represent Grimsley.

The award was received for the renovation of our cafeteria.

Flag Girls

After hard work and a week's worth of practices, the Flag Corps' auditions were held on May 12. Sixteen out of forty girls were chosen with two alternates and banner girls.

Out of a 100 total points from each judge, they were judged on a dance routine and marching. The three judges were music students at UNC-G.

In 1983-84 Flag Corps consists of: Nancy Cashion, Kacia Duncan, Lisa Dukes (capt.), Lisa Frazier, Gina Gibson, Diane Ginblin, Karen Green, Stephanie Good, Sidney Heilig, Katheryn Kees, Jenny Macon, Mary Pope, Jeri Roberts, Rectika Sachdev, Lori Simons, and Emily Taylor. Banner girls are Michelle Olgesby and Yvette Cook. Alternates are Lisa Sumner and Genevieve Maker.

Jazz Band

Grimsley's Jazz Band has taped an appearance for "The Good Morning Show" on WFMV-TV.

Host Lee Kinard had heard of Grimsley's Jazz Band from the overwhelming popularity it has collected through the 1982-83 school year. The band has been noted as "one of the best in the state." Under the direction of Mr. Forrest Mudenthe band has performed for numerous school and community affairs.

TLC-Teen Life Center

Entertainment Center To Open For Teens

By Tamera Majors and Jay Floyd

Complimentary major motion pictures, pinball, a video arcade, flashing dance floor, and concessions will be offered under one roof to teenagers from ages thirteen to eighteen. All of these entertainment devices and more will become available upon the opening of the facility founded by the Teen Life Center, Inc., (TLC).

The concept for the $200,000 project was spawned before the tragic accident on Westridge Road in February which took the lives of four teenagers. The wreck did, however, convey a sense of urgency to the local founders, Jack and Molly Eisenman of Greensboro.

The original idea for the establishment came from the news of a successful activity center in Spartanburg, S.C., under the direction of Paul Barclay, a former resident of Greensboro. The Spartanburg organization attracts between 750 and 800 patrons on Junior High Night, and over 1,000 students on Senior High Night.

The activities brought to the center in Greensboro, to be constructed in the old Train Station downtown, will be decided entirely by the students. "Whatever you want, you'll get," said Molly Eisenman in an interview with HIGH

LIFE. The planning board will always be open to suggestions from students. Some suggests already under way are rock concerts, stand-up comedy, casino-style gambling, country hoedowns, and Saturday Morning coed fitness classes. The funds needed to produce the center are being derived from mailouts sent to various citizens of Greensboro. These funds are needed to provided a heating system, a cooling system for dance floor, electrical work needed to accommodate video games and amplifiers, pool tables, ping pong, and videomovies. The adults exist in the plans simply for funding and an advisory board. "We want to phase the adults out," said Molly Eisenman. In a memo submitted by John R. Eisenman, the following clause exists: "It is important that our teenagers feel from the very beginning that this youth center is theirs. For this reason every Junior and Senior High School in Guilford County will have a representative serving on a Teen Board. It will be up to these representatives, along with an adult Advisory Board, to set policies and select activities for the Center."

"We want the center to have no redeeming social value," said Mrs.
