

Out of the Blue

From your friendly SRO: Will the student who is choosing to sit on the photocopier machine and posting the copies outside anatomy classrooms please refrain from doing so. Anyone with information on the anonymous booty-flasher please report to me.

Special interest workshops will be held by the cafeteria staff throughout the school year. These will include "Grease: It's the Duct Tape of Cooking," "The Art of Defrosting," and "What One Can Hide under the Consolidated Gel Formed over the Food."

Ms. Green would like to announce to all students that the vending machines are absolutely not, under any circumstances whatsoever, automated prostitutes. Students still baffled by this concept please see Ms. Perkins for a course in sex education.

Due to Grimsley's low funds, Prom will be held in the auxiliary gym instead of Starmount. The theme is "My favorite carebear." Students are asked to come dressed as their favorite carebear, and please indicate your individual special power on your tummy.

Recent spray painting on sidewalks and grass around Grimsley are to serve as directions for directionally challenged students. Follow the yellow brick road, because, because, because we're following the yellow brick road. Yes, just keep following the colored lines. You'll get there.

The National Landfill Recognition Society is saluting Grimsley students this month for ignoring the trashcans and making Grimsley a model Landfill.

Boy band class grooves into Grimsley

By Corey Agraphy
Everybody's doin' it!

Dante Ellis is in tears. It's less than a week until the Honors Boy Band Class will put on its first show, headlining a concert at Grimsley auditorium featuring already established hit groups such as "Orchestra," and "Jazz Band."

Dante tries to explain his frustration: "First I had to learn how to sing, and then I had to learn how to dance. ... and now Mr. Vincozzi wants me to do them both at the same time ... for crying out loud, I'm only human."

The Grimsley Boy Band started when, due to the money created by continually jacking up the price for a

Grimsley Boy Band works hard, but they play hard too. After a long week of class, they celebrate with pillow fights and chocolate ice cream in an all-night Slumber Party!

What's more important to the average 18 year old guy: being able to play some pansy-a** tuba, or being able to make eight year-old girls faint?

-Mr. Vincozzi,
 music coordinator

student parking sticker, the school found itself with enough of a surplus to start a new music program. At first, music coordinator Tony Vincozzi toyed with the idea of creating a class that actually taught real music, but soon changed his mind when he thought of the children.

"So I figure to myself, what's more important to the average 18 year old guy: being able to play some pansy-a** tuba, or being able to make eight year-old girls faint?" said Vincozzi, "If this guy's adolescence is anything like mine was, it would be making the eight year-old girls faint." This reporter did not wish to inquire further into Vincozzi's activities during his high school years.

Under Vincozzi's direction, the Grimsley Boy Band has made incredible strides as a group; however, they have not done so without facing some criticism. Sophomore Trevor McCalister spoke on that issue: "It makes me so mad when people say that all we do in this class is make ourselves look pretty and dress up in expensive clothes. . . What they don't understand is that we had to spend a grueling two and a half days at the beginning of the year actually learning how to sing all our songs, before we even started putting on our makeup."

And what a great bunch of songs it is. Like any modern day pop group, the Grimsley boys have a repertoire of extremely diverse songs, covering a wide range of topics. To name a few of these gems, one would most certainly have to include "My heart was made for your love," "Every time you show your love (I feel it in my heart)," and "A heart plus a heart (can only equal love)."

Of course, any class like this one cannot come without its share of controversy. On several occasions, a student has had to be kicked out of the class because he finally hit puberty, and his voice became so low that it could no longer be confused with a little girl's.

And then there was the scandal of Reggie Hutchinson. Reggie at one time was the ideal boy band student, at the head of his class. But Reggie had some rebellious desires brewing within him. Behind the back of Vincozzi and fellow members of the class, Reggie was secretly learning to actually play an instrument for himself, and even started to write his own songs. Fortunately, Reggie's wrongdoings were discovered, and he was immediately removed from the class and expelled from school.

Despite these setbacks, Grimsley Boy Band continues to roll along smoothly. With all the attention and acclaim it is drawing, there's no question that this is no ordinary class. But then again, these are no ordinary boys.

Senior Hunter Young identifies photo shoots as his favorite activity in the Grimsley Boy Band. Young enjoys walks on the beach, Lifetime television, and fuzzy animals.

Lost and Found

New spirit day
 Just when you thought they were over, "Everybody's a Senior Skip Day."
 page (category) 2

Fashion craze
 Who wears short shorts? We have ours. Where are yours?

page 5-7-9

Golf pointers
 The nineteenth green is the best place to improve your lies.

page fore!

Sine 90 . . . . . 1
Turtle Doves . . . . . 2
Blind Mice . . . . . 3
Bush's IQ . . . . . 4