

A MILLION HERE, A MILLION THERE,

Pretty Soon You're Making Real Progress

How much difference can $30 million of targeted investments make in Winston-Salem and Forsyth County? Just look around. The non-profit Millennium Fund has invested private sector funds to provide a catalyst for new jobs, new construction, downtown revitalization and a growing arts and innovation community.

In the last two years, The Millennium Fund has invested in:

- Support for the Downtown Winston-Salem Partnership
- Piedmont Triad Research Park
- Land acquisition and site improvements to help attract Dell's new manufacturing plant
- and Financial assistance to recruit Caterpillar Manufacturing
- Nissen Building residential redevelopment in Downtown Winston-Salem
- Goler/Depot Street community neighborhood revitalization
- Southeast Gateway
- Land control and investment in the downtown baseball stadium
- West End Village residential development
- The Alliance Science and Technology Park
- Plans for the Downtown Civic Plaza
- Support for the retention of Pepsi's National Service Center
- Piedmont Craftsmen's new shop in the art's district
- National Black Theatre Festival
- Summer Music Series
- Summer on Trade
- Rock The Block
- Hispanic Festival
- RiverRun International Film Festival
- Winston-Salem and Forsyth County's 250th Anniversary
- Arts Ignite
- Support for entrepreneurial development
- Children's Museum of Winston-Salem
- Support for Winston-Salem Business
- Milton Rhodes Center
- Support creation of Bio-Tech Accelerator
- The Stevens Center renovation

So as you drive around Winston-Salem and Forsyth County, take a look. You will see how The Millennium Fund is helping to make our community a better place to live and work.

Millennium Fund Oversight Executive Committee

Sidney Falken, Sara Lee; Dr. Donald Reaves, Winston-Salem State University; Don Flow, Flow Motors; David Neill, The Neill Group; F. Borden Hanes, Bowens, Hanes & Company, Inc.; Jeffrey L. Smith, Smitty's Notes; Redge Hanes, The Encore Group; Steve Snelgrove, Wake Forest University Baptist Medical Center; J. Allen Joines, Winston-Salem Alliance; Ralph Womble, Trade Street Partners; Scott Wierman (Ex-officio), Winston-Salem Foundation

