A Ted Kazakos Announces Candidacy for District Court Judge, Forsyth County ADA to seek newly allotted Forsyth County
Judgeship

A. Ted Kazakos

Winston-Salem, NC: Forsyth County Assistant District Attorney Ted Kazakos announced today his intention to run for the newly allotted district court judgeship in Forsyth County. Kazakos currently serves as assistant district attorney for Forsyth County and handles misdemeanor appeals, felony cases, jury trials and screens habitual domestic violence offenders for felony prosecution. As the designated UIFSA court attorney, he also works to enforce child support orders.

Kazakos was born and grew up in Forsyth County and attended Appalachian State University and Wake Forest School of Law. Upon completion of law school, Kazakos was hired by the Forsyth County District Attorney's Office as the designated domestic violence prosecutor. He handled cases involving assault, child abuse and protective orders.

Kazakos currently lives in Lewisville with his wife and two children. He serves as a SCAN board member and is the National Vice President of the Eurytarian Association of America, a North Carolina based philanthropic organization. He is a longtime Sunday school teacher, Oratorical Festival Chairman and Bible Bowl coach at Annunciation Greek Orthodox Church. Kazakos also participates in annual events such as Walk a Mile in Her Shoes and the Athena's Run for Gynecological Cancer.

"This community is very important to me," says Kazakos. "I was raised here and am raising my family here. It would be an honor to serve the community in this new capacity." For more information visit tedkazakosforjudge.com.
