Dear Santa Claus:

Please leave all my presents at the music building; Miss Starr also wishes that her gifts be left there too. Just a Baby Grand Piano is all I want. Miss Starr desires a pitch pipe, but she says to bring the vanity case, hankie and few other things that she signified in a letter written a short time ago to you. Oh yes, I have just now thought of it, if you have time you might install a new organ or bring some chimes for the old one. Beth and Eunice send regards, hoping that you will not forget the poodle dog.

Yours sincerely,
Dr. Ninnis.

Dearest of' Santa Clause,

Oh, I am just the thrilliest person, tra-la, tra-la, tra-la. To think that it is almost time for you to climb down my chimney and fill my stocking. Oh, deary me!

Now, Santy dear, I hate to ask for very much this year as you have to remember all the others on the faculty of Queens-Chicora, but I do so need one thing extra, specially bad. Santy, dearest, will you bring it to me? Please, won't you? Oh, tee, hee! I'd forgotten to tell you—I want a map! Yes! and guess what of? Those dear shining countenances of my darling pupils. Now, don't forget me, a week from Friday!

Hugs and kisses,
Robert V. Kennedy.

Santie Ole Boy,

I've really been good this year—Sallie will tell you I have—and so I don't have conscience-hurt to ask you for something real nice. I've quite a long list of things 'cause I've been saving them up till now on account of the depression.

First, I want a pair of nice, shiny roller skates. I've been so worm out trying to keep up with my suite-mate that I've decided to roll where she runs.

And, oh, Santie, you know me—I crave noise. So won't you please bring me a saxophone? South has been so quiet this year, and the poor girls seemed so depressed about having to go home for Christmas. They really need cheering up. And as a hint, I know (and this is inside dope) that my suite-mate wants a set of drums to put some pep into the girls. Then we can play Sousa's march for the girls to go to breakfast by every morning.

I've just list some other things I want. A bag of quarters to pay for keeping my light on past the limited time every night; some red eye shadow; some "seventeen" perfume; a pair of shoes with real spike heels; dangly ear-rings; and if it wouldn't be asking too much, a hot-water bottle. I'm tired of asking Mrs. Wilson for one.

Just a little girl who trusts you,
Mary Foreman.

My Dear Santa Claus,

i have bin an inded good small girl, and I feel sure that you will come to sea me without me remindin you but just in case you should forgit or at least not know what I want I'm goin to tell you.

I do so crave a little red wagon to haul my parallel papers in, and my dear Santa if you know any more about Chaucer than I do please bring me that to. I want a horn and some stick candy, and be sure and don't forget my little playmate, Mary—(Guy) be good.

Most sincerely,
Emma Lyons.

10c To Everybody

We Think We Have Helped

The number of married males has increased in the United States in the past 10 years by 4,447,843 according to the Census Bureau. The number of married females has increased by 4,851,823. No, we can't explain the discrepancy in the figures, but the point we want to make is this: Women have less fear of household work than they had ten years ago. Why not, in these days of Electric Ranges, Refrigerators, Grills, Irons and Dishwashers . . . innumerable other appliances that take the curse of drudgery off the housewife.
