

What Do We Want
The Q.-C. Type
To Be?

QUEENS CHICORA COLLEGE BLUES

Examinations
Next Week

Volume XII

QUEENS-CHICORA COLLEGE, CHARLOTTE, N. C., JANUARY 20, 1933

No. 6

DR BLAIR OFFERS STUDENT PRIZE

Students To Write on "What We Want The Queens-Chicora Type To Be"

Series of Programs Planned For Student Hour

Five dollars for an opinion! That was the offer Dr. Blair made to the students at their last chapel meeting, Wednesday. The opinion is to be stated in not over one hundred words, and is to be on "What We Want the Queens-Chicora College Type To Be." The money will be given to the person writing the best paragraph during the contest, which will be held at the end of the next regular student assembly.

This contest is only a part of the first of a series of programs planned by Dr. Blair. The first part of the program will be given over to talks on college types, and discussions of Queens - Chicora ideals. Ensuing programs will be on related subjects to be chosen by Dr. Blair, Nell Whitworth, and the student body.

These programs are an outgrowth of a conference between Dr. Blair and the student body president concerning the best way to utilize the extra chapel time during these next few months when all other activities are going through a slack period. Dr. Blair, the ever efficient, suggested the series of highly varied programs in order to develop a better school spirit, to develop poise among the students, and to bring out the many talents with which the student body is endowed.

Dr. Blair has once more proved herself worthy of the high office which she holds. As Dean of Education at Queens-Chicora college, she has been of untold value to the institution. Through her services, first as English instructor, and later as Dean of Education, she has been an important factor in bringing Queens-Chicora college to the high rating of an

(Continued on page four, col. 2)

Dr. Robertson Speaks at Chapel

Relates Recollections of Civil War Is Author of Several Books

Dr. Robertson lectured at the chapel period on last Thursday and Friday and gave the students a real treat by telling his recollections of the Civil War. He was but a boy of eight when the war began, but it made such a lasting impression on his mind that he remembers it, "As if it were yesterday."

(Continued on page four, col. 1)

College Celebrates Founders' Day

Thomas N. Glasgow Gives Inspiring Address

The students and faculty of Queens - Chicora celebrated Founders' Day on January 14. Dr. Frazer extended a welcome to the visitors and introduced the speaker.

Mr. T. N. Glasgow, well-known business man of the city, was the able speaker of the morning. He chose for his subject: "The Vision of Founders' Day" and pictured the future college as an institution increased and enlarged in buildings and departments, trustworthy and loyal in student government and pure in christian womanhood. From the viewpoint of a business man Mr. Glasgow exalted the business career of a college graduate. In describing the ideal character and conduct of college students, he proved that the "business man is interested in character and capacity."

Among the entertaining features of the program was a piano solo by Caroline Lillard.

An alumnae luncheon was held in Morrison dining room after the exercises.

Societies Have Afternoon Meetings

Gamma Sigma Has Impromptu Debate

Pi Delta and Gamma Sigma literary societies met January 17.

The Pi Delta program was opened with a discussion of current events by Ann McLaughlin. The second number was an organ solo by Caroline Lillard. "Jades and Dragons," Princess Der Ling's new book, was reviewed by Virginia Sampson. The last number was a contest of matching titles of books with authors. Sides were chosen by Rachel Hamilton and Mary Jane McBath. At the end of the contest Rachel Hamilton's side was announced as winner.

Gamma Sigma had one of the most interesting meetings of the year. The first number was a song, "The Lullaby," sung by Eve Hill. This song was especially entertaining because the words were written by Mrs. Lyon. The second number was a reading by Clare Hazel, followed by an impromptu debate. The query was, Resolved: That Co-education Is Desirable. The affirmative was represented by Florence Moffett and Mary Bowen; the negative, by Frances Ripplemyer and Margaret Trobough. After the question had been debated thoroughly,

(Continued on page four, col. 3)

McLeskey Receives Many Honors

Awarded Prize by Gamma Sigma; Has Poem Published In Anthology and Magazine

A prize of $2 offered by Gamma Sigma literary society for the best society song was awarded to Katherine McLeskey of the junior class. Katherine has distinguished herself as a writer of poetry and has composed many poems which have appeared in her high school and college magazines.

Among the poems chosen by Miss Nell B. Sergent for an anthology of high school and college verse, were two poems by Katherine McLeskey: "I Never Shall Forget," and "Rainy Nights." The former poem was chosen by Miss Sergent to be published in School Life, where it appeared in November. "I Never Shall Forget" was first published in "Lace and Pig Iron," Central High school magazine. It will appear again in the Vocationalist, magazine published by New York State Normal school.

The writer was assistant editor of the Coraddi, magazine of W. C. U. N. C., in the year 1930-31. She is poetry editor of the Sceptre and a member of the poetry club.

Speakers Lead Sunday Vespers

Mr. Ovens and Dr. Little Address Students

The Student Christian association has provided many interesting and inspiring vesper programs during this semester.

Mr. David Ovens, well-known to the student body of this school, spoke Sunday evening, January 8, at vespers. His subject was "Fixing the Responsibility." While discussing plainly the present-day situation, he inspired the younger generation to prepare themselves in order that they might be able to cope with all kinds of unfavorable circumstances.

Last Sunday evening, January 15, Dr. Luther Little, pastor from the First Baptist church, spoke on "Standing in the Land of Wonders." This talk was helpful as well as inspiring.

Student vespers will be held on January 29, the last Sunday before exams. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

The student body expresses deepest sympathy to Alice Rankin in the recent loss of her father, and also to Alva and Mary Guy in the loss of their mother.

COTTAGE IS GIFT TO QUEENS CLASS

Attractive Hut Built For Queens Students Dedicated Sunday

As an expression of interest in the Queens-Chicora girls, the Myers Park Presbyterian church has constructed a beautiful building for the Sunday School class. The erection of the hut, which has been named The Cottage, was fostered and largely financed by David Ovens, able business leader of Charlotte and outstanding member and worker of the church. The students here who attend the Myers Park Presbyterian church are fortunate in having Mr. Ovens as teacher of their class.

The cottage, located back of the church near the other huts, is approached by a neat path which leads to a porch, where students may check in. The single room is well adapted for a large class. As one enters, she sees a beautiful tapestry representing the Crusaders bearing the sign of the holy cross. The room is tastefully furnished with comfortable upholstered seats. The large windows decorated with draperies are attractive. A full length mirror in the rear is an example of someone's knowledge and foresight.

The formal opening and dedication was held last Sunday. Dr. and Mrs. Gammon; Mr. Thompson, superintendent of the Sunday School; and Mr. Glasgow, representing the departments of the church, welcomed the class into the new building. Dr. Frazer spoke a few words on behalf of Queens-Chicora. Several mem-

(Continued on page four, col. 3)

Student Will Speak At Raleigh

To Compete With Other Representatives

Janet Robinson will speak tonight at Raleigh on "Public Education in North Carolina: Its Past and Its Future." She is representing Queens - Chicora in the State Intercollegiate Oratorical contest, sponsored by the American Legion. Students representing colleges of North Carolina will compete. All orations are original and will be delivered on the same subject.

A medal and an award of $75 will go to the first winner. Second, third and fourth awards of $50, $25, and $15 will be given. Janet Robinson won the second award of $50 last year for her oration on George Washington.