

From the Freshmen

As freshmen—, we have been trying to publish a paper that will interest our student body and faculty, but we don't know whether we have succeeded or not. We have done our best; however, and we hope you are enjoying it.

A public utilities agent was once inspecting some work where a new side-walk was being laid. As he stood there looking on, he thought to himself that some people like abstract things, others like concrete. Just then a little boy came running out of his house and stepped into the fresh cement. I've made a serious mistake in my calculations perhaps, thought the inspector; I prefer little boys in the abstract.

We, as beginners here at Queens-Chicora, thank you all for giving us a chance. We appreciate the fact that you have let us in to help mold the design before the concrete was too hard. If we have reinforced the concrete any, we are glad; and, if we have spoiled any of your work, we want you to show us better ways for the future.

HAMPTON QUARTET

Mr. Pope stated that more than one-tenth of the population of the United States are negroes. He said there were three stages in the economic development of the negro at present—luck, change of development in negro customs, and foresight of a few thinking negroes. He stated, moreover, the three things needful in willingness to accept responsibility—perseverance, courteousness, and tactfulness. After this talk the quartet sang four more numbers: "Water Boy," "Gonna Shout All Over God's Heaven," "Your Sheep Don't Know the Road," and "Mighty Like a Rose." Then Mr. Reynolds made a short talk on the following subjects: (1) Without schools

Pallet and Brush

On Tuesday afternoon, March 14, the Queens-Chicora Pallet and Brush Club, attended the exhibition of oil paintings now on display at the Woman's Club. The pictures are of deserts and plains, colored canyons, Indians, and bright-hued flowers.

This exhibition is being circulated by the American Federation of Art and was arranged for Charlotte by Leila Mechlin, national secretary. The exhibit will be on display this month and the public is cordially invited. There is no admission charge.

Beta Pi Theta

Beta Pi Theta invited Le Cercle Francais from Davidson to entertain for the evening, Wednesday, March 5. The members of Le Cercle Francais presented an interesting comedy, "L'Anglais Tel Qu'on le Parle"—(English: As It Is Spoken) and a short scene, "Knock."

Although many in the audience did not understand, the synopsis preceding and actions of the characters helped them to know what was being said. The boys seemed fluent in speaking French.

Preceding the Davidson program, Beta Pi Theta presented an amusing dialogue, "L'heure de la Soupe"—(The Dinner Hour), followed by two songs, sung by our girl's quartet.

and ambition there would be no hope for the negro; (2) We can't afford to have fear and hate between the races. The last four spirituals were: "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?" "If You Love Jesus Serve Him," "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," and "Steal Away."

Great Prospects

Dr. Frazer and all of Queens College are very much elated over the fact that so far the office has had over 350 requests for catalogues. May we remind you at this time of Dr. Frazer's offer: Any student bringing the ten dollar fee of a new student required for registration for an applicant to the college will receive five dollars of the ten in the return mail. Start now paying for your next year at Queen's.

To the Sophomores

Yours was a great issue! You have heard this joke I know, but I want to repeat it. A professor was crossing a river by ferry. Since he had no companions with him he began talking to the boatman.

"Have you studied psychology?"

"No."

"Well, that's bad. Part of your life is lost. Have you ever studied English?"

"No, I've never been to school very much."

"My goodness! Why, half of your life is gone. Have you a good knowledge of mathematics?"

"No, I guess you think my life is all gone."

Just then the crack in the bottom of the ferry enlarged to such an extent that the boat began to sink.

"Excuse me, but do you know how to swim, professor?"

"No."

"Well, your whole life is gone!"

And that's the way we feel, sophomores. If you had not published the first edition we would have been "sunk."
