

Static

Jingle bells—or something—played by a music box at midnight in the quiet sanctity of Morrison Hall somehow failed to arouse the Christmas spirit that this nocturnal concert was intended to. In fact, about the only result was the sudden wrath of the gods and the house-president directed against the occupants of room 313. There was no point to this escapade—only three.

Speaking of the Christmas spirit (as who isn't), have you noticed Agnes Gibson's and Mary Lindsay's room in North? They don't do things halfway. Neither does the University of South Carolina Glee Club.

Suggestions for Santa Claus: Electric horses for those girls in Morrison who insist on taking reducing exercise at night—a telephone for each dormitory—a formula for the acquisition of intellectual curiosity for the sophomore English class—100 street car tickets for each girl in the student body—an alarm clock for Bobbie Ingram—some Mexican jumping beans for Thorbwin Lillard—and some chewing gum for the whole student body.

What fraternity is the most popular on the campus? Did we hear Lula Hall, Margaret Truesdale, AND OTHERS giving three cheers for the shield-shaped pin?

Merry Christmas, Happy New Year, and WHAT HAVE YOU!

The Junior Class presented their yearly entertainment Wednesday, December 13. This entertainment was the play, "She Stoops to Conquer," Goldsmiths immortal comedy. It was presented by the Bergmann Players with a cast of selected players. Anita Tully and Gene Bergmann were the principal actors.

A large crowd was present to enjoy this unusual treat. The costumes were beautiful, and the acting of note.

Supper Postponed

Because there is an epidemic of influenza at the Alexander Home, the seventy little children from there will, for the first time in 10 years, be unable to come to Queens Monday afternoon, December 18 for their annual Christmas party.

Queens-Chicora considers these little children her special charges, and even though they cannot come to the college, the students are determined those orphans shall have a Christmas party. Accordingly Monday morning presents and food will be sent out to the home. Every student is urged to bring her gift for one of the children. Wrap it and turn that with her cash contribution in to the committee by Saturday afternoon.

Since the students have always looked forward to and enjoyed entertaining these children equally as much as the children have enjoyed this traditional party. Plans are now being made to have them at the college in the spring for an Easter party.

Alpha Lambda Mu met Friday 8, 1933, in Dr. Ninniss studio at 2:30. The program was mostly taken up with business. Lillian Gwaltney and Margaret Floyd spoke on Ernest Schelling.

Radio Station XMAS

Each year, just before Christmas holidays, the seniors of the Public School Music Department, under the direction of Miss Mabel Murphy, give a novel program in the auditorium. This year it will be Monday, 18th at 3:30 o'clock.

The first half of the program will be spent in the singing of Christmas carols by the Public School Music and Grammar School music classes. Other members of the student body, also the faculty and friends, are welcome to come and join in the singing.

The second half of the program will be a musical play called "Radio Station XMAS," which will be given by the members of the senior class, in honor of the juniors and public school music classes.

Elizabeth Mason was instrumental in planning most of the program. Those who will participate are Martha Frazer, Elizabeth Mason, Dorothy McCreight, Virginia Carson, and Alice Rankin.

Christmas Parade

December 7th a Christmas parade was held in the streets of Charlotte in which many Queens girls participated. This parade represented Christmas as it is in various nations. Santa Claus led the way on a sleigh drawn by six reindeer. Following him were his guards of honor: Margaret Clegg, Dolly Maddox, Eleanor Hayes, Ione Smith, Margaret Price, and Mary Frances Erhlick. Next in line were the feature costumes and there were: Ashe Bennett Sikes, Janet Hilton, Katherine Shellem, Vivian Hilton, Elizabeth Mason, Martha Ward, Catherine Pharr, Doris Harmon, Mar-Storey, Virginia Young, Martha Pettiway, Mary D. McMullen. After the feature costumes came the banner bearers: Martha Crosland, Mahalie King, Dorothy Foard, Mary Jane McBath, Ann West, Mary McMaster, Virginia Sampson, Frances Raley, Katherine Aaron, Edith Ramseur, Grace Walker, Ruth Curri, and Virginia and Mary Steele Hubbard. The nursery rhyme characters were: Jeanette Malloy, Little Miss Muffet; Miriam Reid, Jack Horner; Miriam Steele, Jill; Dorothy Earhardt, Jack; and Caroline Hoon, Red Riding Hood.

Both the children and grown-ups of Charlotte enjoyed this parade.

The Delta Gamma chapter of Chi Omega will be hostess at a Christmas party, Sunday night for the actives and pledges.

Outside News of Interest

The Charlotte Symphony Orchestra will give its second concert of the season tonight at the Little Theatre.

Nellie Taylor Ross, first woman governor, spoke at the Court House last Tuesday, on "Drama of Government from Back Stage." Mrs. Ross is now an official in the United States Mint at Washington.

The Alpha Delta Pi actives and pledges will be entertained at a Christmas dinner Sunday night by Misses Mary Richbourg and Edith Cullen.

30% of School Children Have Defective Vision

Studying under poor light is responsible for the greater part of defective eyesight.

The sense of vision is your most precious possession. Poor lighting causes eyestrain and fatigue which may result in permanent injury.

Don't handicap your future by risking injury to your eyes.
