April 20-21 Date Set For National Convention

On April 20-21 the Alpha Kappa Gamma National Convention will be held here at Queens-Chicora College. In 1932 the convention met at Farmville State Teachers College with the Florence Nightingale Circle; in 1933 it met at the University of South Carolina with the Joan Circle; and this year it meets with the Olympian circle at Queens-Chicora College. Representatives from all three colleges will be present at the convention. Miss Florence Stubbs of Farmville, the National Executive Secretary of Alpha Kappa Gamma, will be at the convention.

The convention opens at 2:30 on Friday afternoon with a general business meeting. A model initiation of some Queens girl is to be held on Friday. Discussion groups will meet all day Saturday. Alumnae and Alpha Kappa Gamma members in town are invited to attend this convention.

Saturday noon luncheon will be served in the sorority houses—a course in each house. Saturday after lunch Miss Edwards will speak on "The Liberal Arts College." Saturday night at the banquet to be given at the Mayfair Hotel a talk will be made on "Leadership Among Young Women Today."

A tour conducted by the Olympian Circle will be made of Queens-Chicora campus on Friday evening, and a tour of Charlotte on Saturday evening.

The officers of this organization are: President, Mildred Reynolds, Hollins College; vice-president, Dorothy Ratcliffe, University of Tennessee; secretary, Ira Gibson, Winthrop College; treasurer, Georgia Hutnington, Salem College.

Public Relations and the Honor System were the two main topics of discussion. The former was given by Katherine Purcer of the University of Alabama; the latter by Carleen Vinal of the Florida State College for Women.

Thursday morning after registration, convocation, welcome, and speeches were given in chapel. Thursday afternoon after luncheon at which Dean Ruth Noer, Dean of Women of the University of West Virginia, was speaker, discussion groups were held concerning such problems as Freshman orientation, Social and Dormitory problems in women's and co-educational colleges. A formal banquet was given that evening. A general meeting was held Friday morning at which the main speeches given concerned "Our Present Social Order." Discussion groups followed. Other discussion groups were in session in the afternoon and were followed by a dinner and tea dance in the evening. Alumnae Are Entertained By Faculty

Misses McLean, Harrell, and Foreman Act as Hostesses

The Alumnae Association of Charlotte was entertained at a tea given by Dean McLean, Miss Foreman and Miss Harrell in the Day Students' building Thursday afternoon, April 5. After the business meeting a reading, Amy Lowell's "Patterns," was given by Clare Hazel and a challenging talk on "The Place of the Liberal Arts College" was made by Miss Edwards. Refreshments were served by Mary Murray, Jeanette Malloy and Margaret Truesdale.

"Another challenge to youth" was made by Miss Edwards in her talk and we feel that it must be passed on to each of you.

"When we look about us and see what is actually happening to college graduates now coming out of college, we must see the futility of too early specialization, or specialization at all, for that matter, young lawyers operating filling stations, teachers selling insurance and real estate. Of course these are peculiar times and we look to see them pass, but the old days will not return. It will be a long time before a college official can honestly tell his young freshman that a given course in college will equip him for a definite career or profession, and yet he must tell him something. I have been thinking some about what we could say to a young man or woman entering college. I think I should feel something like this: I believe in young people today. I believe they are honestly endeavoring to discover themselves in a baffling world. They do not need super-intelligence to see that they are the victims of a disintegrated economic order. They need scarcely more intelligence to see that men today who have depended for their success upon a wealth standard are what they call 'let down.' Is it not a good time to say to students that our modern life needs some new thinkers, that we need a breed of college graduates who will establish and maintain some aesthetic and ethical standard, who will have an appreciation of

Contestant Papers Judged
On a General Basis

FROSH COMMENDED

By a decision of the judges, the Sophomore class has been proclaimed winner of the Freshman-Sophomore Queens Blues Contest.

JUDGES

The judges, members of the English department of Queens-Chicora College, were Dr. Stout, head of the English department; Mrs. Lyon and Mrs. Townend. Their respective decisions were made privately on a determined basis and handed in to the editor of the Queens Blues.

BASIS OF JUDGMENT FOR CONTEST

The papers were judged on a general basis—make up, newspaper style, news contained in articles, and the business management were the most important points considered.

FRESHMEN TO BE COMMENDED

The Freshmen are especially to be commended for their handling of the business management of their issue. They brought in a surplus of "ads," exceeding the necessary amount required to pay for their issue. It is the current belief on the campus and among the faculty members that these two papers ran a close race and that both showed unusual journalistic abilities.

The regular meeting of the Day Student organization was held Monday, April 9. Virginia Gabriel announced that plans for the Variety Night to be given by the Day Students are in progress, the program of which will consist of a play by Booth Tarkington, "The Trysting Place," songs by the Hubbard sisters, and several tap dance numbers. The regular program for the afternoon consisted of two duets, played by Helen Thompson and Lucille Shore, and several numbers by the Hubbards. After the program, the president, Janet Robinson, expressed her appreciation for the co-operation of the group during the year, and her enjoyment of the work that they had done.
