

Baccalaureate Sermon By Dr. Hill

Staff Members Attend Press Convention

Raleigh Is Scene of Last Convention of School Season

NEXT CONVENTION AT HIGH POINT

Representing the college publications, six students, Jeanette Malloy and Josephine Foard, of the Edelweiss; Frances Raley and Margaret Gilliam, of the Sceptre; and Molly Mullen and Betty Manning of the Queens Blues, attended the Spring convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association in Raleigh, May 3, 4, 5.

Approximately sixty-five students registered, representing Duke University, Eastern Carolina Teacher's College, State College, The Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, Meredith College, High Point College, Wake Forest, and Queens-Chicora. Joint hosts for the convention were State and Meredith.

Informal talks and discussions groups led by men interested in collegiate publications and active in printing and newspaper business followed the business meeting on Friday morning. Mr. Bell Bradley, of The Photo Process Co., Atlanta, Georgia, spoke to the editors of annuals. Mr. John Parks, The Raleigh Times, addressed the editors of newspapers. Mr. Jonathan Daniels, The News and Observer, addressed the editors of magazines. Mr. A. M. Beck, Edwards and Broughton Company, of Raleigh, spoke to all business managers.

The chaplain a St. Mary's College the Rev. Fletcher, addressed the convention at a banquet Friday evening on the complex war alliances of Europe when the World War broke out and the disgraceful armaments business, with manufacturers in one nation selling to another at war with their country the guns and shells with which to slaughter their older country men. His talk was a full discussion and explanation of several references which Dr. Elliott made when she spoke here on Nationalism or Internationalism in this Age.

Junior-Senior Held May 11 A Big Success

Elizabeth Cassells Was Announced Pres. Of Sen. Class

The annual Junior-Senior Prom was held Friday evening, May 11. At eight-thirty the guests met in the reception rooms of Burwell Hall. Those in the receiving line were Elizabeth Cassells, Ruth Grover, Hughla Lee McCollum, Mary Lindsay, Margaret Trobaugh, Mrs. Lyons, and Dr. Green.

At the banquet in Morrison Hall, an aviation plan was carried out in the decorations, in the program, and in the favors. The hall was decorated with blue and yellow streamers, the class colors, and mixed flowers. Balloons and airplanes hung from the "hangers." The table was arranged in the shape of an airplane. A two-course menu was served. Music was furnished by Sammie Small's orchestra, and a reading by Laura Black. Elizabeth Cassells, chairman of the prom, was toastmistress. A toast was made to the graduates by Ruth Grover, president of the Junior class, and answered by Hughla Lee McCollum, president of the Senior class.

It was announced for the first time that Elizabeth Cassells had been elected president of the incoming Senior class.

After the banquet, the proms were held on the cam-

Senior Class Meeting

The Senior class will hold its last meeting of the year at midnight the week of May 28. This is a secret meeting and the exact date and place is unknown. The program is kept a secret from the other classes with the exception of the president of the incoming Senior class to whom the secrets and mysteries of the meeting are confided by the president of the outgoing Senior class. It has also been the custom for the Junior class members to serenade the Seniors after the meeting.

Senior Class To Graduate 60 Members

Class Exercises May 26. Class Reunion to be Feature of Day

CLASS DAY MONDAY AFTERNOON

Plans for the commencement program, beginning Saturday, May 26, and ending with the graduation exercises on Tuesday, May 29, have been completed.

CLASS REUNION

The program opens with the Alumnae Baby Show at 10:30 Saturday morning. Following this will be various alumnae meetings and class reunions. The Home-Coming Luncheon will be at one o'clock.

Reunion of the classes of 1884, 1904, '05, '06, '07, 1914, '15, '16, '17, 1924, '25, '26, and '27 will be held.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Rev. P. B. Hill, D.D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in San Antonio, Texas, will preach the baccalaureate sermon Sunday night at eight o'clock.

CLASS DAY

Class day exercises will be held at four o'clock Monday afternoon. On the program will be the class song, written by Martha Frazer, assisted by Alice Rankin; the poem, written by Katherine McLeskey; the history by Florence Moffett, the last will and testament by Dot Foard, and the prophesy by Eve Hill. The Art Department will hold its exhibit from three to six o'clock in the afternoon. In the evening at eight o'clock the annual concert will be held.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

Graduation exercises will conclude the program on Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Dr. Samuel McPheeters Glasgow, pastor of the Independent Presbyterian Church of Savannah, Georgia, who recently held a series of sermons at Queens, will make the address. Mr. McAlister Carson, chairman of the Board of Trustees will deliver the diplomas.

Literary Societies Unite To Form Single Club

New Society Now To Function As Four Clubs

The two literary societies of Queens-Chicora have united into one organization, in an effort to form a club that will function as one of the most important on the campus.

Membership will not be limited, and each student is urged to become a member. The organization will function as four groups, each one having a leader, who is to be chosen each semester. Each member will belong to one of these groups, having the opportunity to change to a different group at the end of the semester. The following are the groups: Book Tea Club, Debating Council, Dramatics Club, and Creative Writing Group. Each is responsible for one program given in the auditorium each semester. A cup will be awarded to the group accomplishing the most outstanding work.

The new name for this society has not been chosen yet, but will be made public soon. The officers for the ensuing year are: Mary Frances Austelle, president, Ann Batton, vice-president; Thorburn Lillard, secretary; Alva Ranson, treasurer.

Senior Class Entertained

The Senior class has been and still is enjoying the distinctions and the special delight which come only to Seniors.

They were entertained by the Elks at the Elks' Home on Tuesday afternoon, May 8, at 4:30. The Faculty members were also guests of the Elks' at this time. They were entertained by an orchestra, songs, and recitations. The Senior class color scheme of yellow and blue was carried out in the decorations, and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Lyon, the Senior class sponsor, gave the Seniors a breakfast at the S & W Cafeteria on May 17, at 8:45.

Eva Hill's Father To Address Class

Dr. P. B. Hill, A Well-Known Author, and Lecturer, Is Texan Minister

Dr. Pierre Bernard Hill, father of Eve Hill, one of Queen's students, who is to preach the baccalaureate sermon this year, is a well-known clergyman and author.

He was born in Richmond, Virginia, and educated in his home state, receiving his A.B. from Richmond College (now the University of Richmond), his D.D. at Hampton-Sidney College, and his B. D. at Union Theological Seminary.

His work, according to Who's Who in America, has been varied and helpful to humanity. While still a student, he did religious work in the mountains and coal fields in Virginia. After becoming an ordained minister in the Presbyterian church, he was pastor successively at St. Elmo and Lookout Mountain churches in Lynchburg, Virginia, and West End Church in Roanoke. For four years he was missionary to Korea. He returned to America in 1916; and after having several charges, now resides in San Antonio, Texas, where he is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Hill has made many improvements in First Church, which maintains notable institutional features, including a system of religious education for young people and children's face clinic.

During the World War, Dr. Hill served with the Y. M. C. A. He also lectured at munition plants and railroad shops.

He is now a trustee of the Carnegie Public Library in Austin Presbyterian College, chairman of the committee on men's work for the Texas Synod, chaplain of sheriffs and marshalls of Texas and a Mason (32° Shriner).

The books which he has written are: The Questionnaire, Studies on Korea, The Truth About Evolution, Handbook for Personal Workers and A Morning Prayer, and Other Poems.
