

Clare Hazel Is Chosen May Queen

Queens Girls Speak Before Model League

Ruth Freeman and Jessie Pierson are today, as official delegates from Queens-Chicora College, delivering talks before the fifteenth session of the Model League of Nations which is now meeting at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, South Carolina.

The Assembly will take up all questions brought up before the League meeting in Geneva during the past year. Every country which is a member of the League of Nations is represented by official delegates from various colleges which were invited to attend the Assembly. Ruth Freeman will represent France, and Jessie Pierson will be the representative from Belgium. Those two girls will speak on the vital questions in the international affairs of those nations.

Several students from Queens attended the Friday night meeting of the Assembly, and a number of students plan to attend the main session of the Model League this afternoon at which time will be made the main talks on the pertinent questions Russia and The League; to whom should the Saar Basin go? is Japan a menace to the peace of the world?; why the United States should join the League; why doesn't the League stop the war in the Chaco?; what has the League accomplished?.

Fourteen colleges in the two Carolinas sent delegates to the Assembly: Lander, Furman, Queens-Chicora, Converse, Columbia, G. W. C., Davidson, Columbia Bible College, Wofford, P. C., University of South Carolina, Citadel, Coker, and Lenoir-Rhyne.

Dr. Delano Will Attend Modern Language Meeting

Queens-Chicora will have a representative at the annual meeting of the Modern Language Association which will be held during December 27 to 29 at Swarthmore College in Philadelphia. Dr. Delano, who will represent Queens-Chicora, attended the meeting last year at St. Louis. This Association is a national organization and includes professors of English, French, Spanish, German and Italian languages.

The Modern Language meeting was attended last year by as many as five hundred members and others interested in the languages. Since it is being held in the east this year a larger number is expected. A most interesting program is being planned including many eminent speakers, among whom are Doctors Lyon, and Adams from the University of North Carolina, and Norman Foerster, Director of the School of Letters, State University of Iowa. Queens-Chicora is honored that one of its Faculty is a member of this national organization.

FIRST ISSUE OF "THE CORONET" NEW TYPE ANNUAL APPEARS

Student Carnival Plans Are Made

A carnival is coming to Queens. The Social Committee is planning a student carnival very soon in an effort to raise additional funds necessary to complete the improvements in the recreation rooms in Burwell Hall. It is hoped that all Boarders and many Day Students will plan to come and join in the fun.

A small general admission will be charged which will entitle the students to visit several side shows, see exhibition dances by students. Music will be furnished by a local orchestra.

Two of the main attractions at the Carnival will be a freak booth of new and unusual freaks, and a fortune telling booth, where a real artist will tell the secrets of the future.

There will be booths selling candy, popsicles, and nuts. There will be a cake walk and a novel—and profitable—grab bag in the form of a huge mince meat pie.

Those who compose the Social Committee are the Misses Mary Pope Murray, Vivian Hilton, Margaret Trobaugh, Betty Manning, Miss Edwards, Miss Henderson, and Mrs. Lyon.

Beta Iota Chapter of the Alpha Delta Pi Sorority, announces the pledging of Charlotte Couric, Wednesday, December 5, 1934.

Reception of Magazine by Students Is Enthusiastic

The reception of The Coronet by the students, faculty, and residents of Charlotte has been most enthusiastic. Since the publication of both the weekly papers have written their hearty approval of the new step Queens-Chicora has taken.

V. Sampson, Editor

The first issue appeared December 7. It contained two short stories, one by May Lebby Smith and the other by 'Peggy' Mitchell and a poem by Sara Coppening. The senior section contained pictures of eight of the graduating class. The Junior section was in the form of a scrap book. Write-ups were given of Stunt Night and Rat Week. Dr. Frazer and Dr. Sommerville each wrote an article significant about the college. The Alumnae Section was handled better than ever before, according to many of the students.

Wins After A Close Race With Eleanor Hayes

Following a campaign of three days, Clare Hazel was elected May Queen at Queens-Chicora College. Eleanor Hayes was the other candidate.

In her campaign speech, Betty Manning described Clare Hazel as a "delicate Nordic beauty, serene, exquisite, lovely, sensitive to beauty and art." Clare is known not only as a beautiful girl, but also as a capable and talented personality. She has made excellent grades in college, has joined a number of honorary societies. Clare is this year president of Chi Omega Fraternity and president of Pan-Hellenic Council, beside holding one or two more minor offices. This year Clare Hazel has won wide recognition for her work in Dramatics for the Little Theatre of Charlotte.

Clare Hazel possesses all the qualities of a May Queen—stateliness, grace, dignity, beauty.

Eleanor Hayes was described by her campaign manager, Margaret Trobaugh, as a "regal beauty, possessing the dignity befitting a queen." Eleanor won many titles in high school and has always been considered unusually beautiful. She is president of the Kappa Delta Sorority and is a student in the Home Economics Department.

All nominations and voting were done by secret ballot. Nominees were determined by the number of students who nominated a girl. No student was permitted to cast a nomination or a vote unless she had paid her budget fee or signed a note for the amount.

Annual Party Will Be Given For Children

On Monday afternoon, December 17, 1934, at three forty-five, a party will be given for forty-seven children from the Alexander Graham Home, and fifty other children from Charlotte. Some of these local children have never had any gifts or a part in any Christmas activities.

The student body is sponsoring this party, and it is hoped that each girl will do her part in making these unfortunate ones happy. The names and ages of the children may be secured from Vivian Hilton. Aside from these individual gifts each girl is asked to contribute ten cents for the refreshments of the afternoon.

This Christmas party is always a very gay affair. A beautiful Christmas tree plays an important part, and the Home Economics girls have made gingerbread boys, pop-corn balls and toys of apples and candies. Santa Claus will arrive about four-thirty. A professional entertainer will be secured if possible, and the children will entertain with Christmas songs and recitations. This party is one of the most delightful occasions of the entire year, and the hostesses feel that they get more from it than the happy little guests.
