

VALENTINE PARTY GIVEN BY FROSH AND JUNIORS

Emory Glee Club Appears at Queens

"South's Sweetest Singers" Give Performance February 17; Sponsored by Seniors

On Monday night, February 17, the Glee Club of Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia will give a concert in the Queens-Chicora auditorium. The entertainment will be sponsored by the Senior Class, and will be followed by a reception in Burwell Hall.

The Emory Glee Club was organized on the campus of the old Emory College in 1917, and since then its history has been of steady progress. The quality of the voices, the character of the choral work, the nature of its programs improving with each succeeding concert season. The favor with which it has been received by the public has made it possible to extend its annual tours, covering from one to two weeks, over a wide range of territory.

The club has appeared widely throughout this country and in 1926 it made its first European tour. To establish itself more firmly in the hearts of music-lovers of the South, the club in the last five years has toured the Southern states, and has acquired the name of the "South's Sweetest Singers." At the dedication of Georgia Hall at Warm Springs, Georgia, the club appeared before President Franklin D. Roosevelt and a group of notables.

The Emory Glee Club has set and maintained for itself a high standard of work and program. Classics of the great masters have received the major emphasis, but they by no means form the extent of the organization's repertoire. From the beginning it has featured the wide appealing negro spirituals of the Old South. In the words of the Atlanta Journal, "The versatility of the club is amazing, for it sings with equal ease the difficult choruses of Wagner or the lighter refrains of Victor Herbert."

Malcolm H. Dewey, head of the Fine Arts Department of Emory University is the capable and inspiring leader of the club, and he has won for himself, for the Glee Club, and for the Little Symphony Orchestra a place foremost in musical circles of the South and nation.

Dr. Cunningham To Lecture Here

"Relationship of the Endocrine Glands To Embryology," Is Subject. Phi Beta Chi Sponsors Duke Embryologist.

Tuesday night at 7:30 in the auditorium, Dr. Bert Cunningham, under the sponsorship of the Phi Beta Chi, will lecture on the "Relationship of the Endocrine Glands to Embryology." Dr. Cunningham, noted embryologist, is professor of zoology at Duke University. He received his Ph.D. degree at the University of Wisconsin. Besides being a member of the N. C. Academy of Science, he is a member of the American Association of Science and of the American Zoology Society. This lecture will be interesting, not only to biology majors, but also to the entire student body.

Queens - Chicora's Endowment Shows Steady Increase

One of the strongest factors in the development of Queens-Chicora is the steady increase of the permanent endowment funds. Ten years ago the college had practically no endowment. Dr. Frazer has been unremitting in his efforts to build the institution on a solid financial basis and one of the outstanding achievements of his administration has been the addition of over $300,000 to its invested funds. It would be difficult to measure the value of these funds to the college during the recent depression years. When the income from other sources was being rapidly cut down the yield from the endowment spelled the difference between a balanced budget and a substantial deficit. It has been a source of pride that no debt has been accumulated, but it is doubtful if this could have been avoided without this back-leg of permanent funds.

The Southern Association of Colleges, in which Queens-Chicora has a very high rating, emphasizes endowment as one of the prime essentials to membership in that organization. They know, as all informed people do, that higher education cannot be self-supporting without excluding many young men and young women who should have its advantages. Expensive equipment must be provided and competent instructors must be secured. This cost would be prohibitive if the students were required to pay it. The State makes provision for its colleges by taxation. Other institutions, such as Queens-Chicora, to which public funds are not available, must bridge the gap between student fees and operating costs by voluntary contributions from interested friends—usually alumnae

Coronet To Appear In Second Issue

Interesting Features Continued—Campus Diary, Snapshots, Alumnae News. Added Attractions.

The second issue of the Coronet will be off the press in about a week. This issue will contain a special editorial and the page We Recognize will be run again. There is alumnae news, a continuation of the Campus Diary and a snapshot section. The poetry is furnished by Sue Mauldin, Lois Wilson, and Louise Crane.

A contribution from the Latin department on Horace begins a new section. A feature like this from each department will be run in the following issues. The editor is attempting to make the Coronet of more literary value instead of a picture book. A personal essay—an appreciation of some one—written by Mrs. Maurice Townsend is also found in this section. The social life of the campus is represented by a picture of the Honorary Interfraternity Council of which Mary Frances Ehrlich is president. The main Coronet staff is composed of: May Leiby Smith, editor-in-chief; Margaret True, business editor; Anne Batten, literary editor; Louise Thompson, photographic editor; Carolyn Hodge, snap editor; and Betty Manning and Lois Wilson, poetry editors.

Miss Jones Speaks At IRC Convention

Division Assistant of Carnegie Endowment, Speaker At Winthrop

One hundred and twenty-one International Relations Clubs in the southeast district will hold a conference at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., from February 27 through the 29 under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

The principal guest speakers will be Dr. Josef L. Kunz, lecturer in international law at the University of Toledo, Ohio, and Dr. Edgar J. Fisher, former dean and professor of history and political science at Robert College, Istanbul, Turkey. Miss Amy Heminway Jones, Division Assistant of the Carnegie Endowment, will also speak.

The officers of the Conference are: President, Miss Mary Virginia Plowden, Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C.; first vice president, Mr. Fleming Bomar, Wofford College, Spartanburg, S. C.; second vice president, Miss Peggy Birch, Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, Virginia; recording secretary, Mr. Ed. Sill, University of Georgia, Athens, Ga.; corresponding secretary, Miss Addie Stokes, Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C.; and treasurer, Miss Rachel Hay, Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C. The faculty adviser is Dr. Warren G. Keith of Winthrop College.

The International Relations Clubs are groups of students organized under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, in universities, colleges and normal schools for the study and discussion of international problems.

The purpose of the Endowment in undertaking this work is to educate and enlighten public opinion. As Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of the Endowment, says, it is not to support any single view as to how best to treat the conditions which now prevail throughout the world, but to fix the attention of students on those underlying principles of international conduct, of international law, and of international organization which must be agreed upon and applied if peaceful civilization is to continue.

Convention Called At Birmingham To Organize Graduates

A circular letter signed by the presidents of six leading southern woman's colleges has been sent out to the presidents of all the four-year woman's colleges which are members of the Southern Association of Colleges for Women, asking that each appoint two of the leading alumnae of his college as delegates to a convention to be held on April 18 in Birmingham, Alabama, for the purpose of effecting an organization of the graduates of the four-year colleges for women in the South.

The delegates to this convention will designate this organization as the Association of Southern College Women, or by such other name as they may determine, and will formulate a Constitution and By-Laws and will take such steps as may be expedient to organize local chapters in communities throughout the South.

Dr. William H. Frazer, president of Queens-Chicora College is serving as chairman of the committee and will attend the convention in Birmingham in April. Walter D. Agnew, President of Huntington College, and H. J. Pearce, President of Brenau College will also attend the convention.

The movement for considering the desirability of such an organization as the above mentioned one, was started by H. F. Pearce of Brenau College at Gainesville, Ga., and was informally considered by the following leaders of education in colleges for Southern women: W. H. Frazer; Walter D. Agnew; H. J. Pearce; G. T. Gillespie, President, Belhaven College, Jackson, Mississippi; B. C. Granberry, President, Limestone College, Gaffney, S. C.; and F. C. Hardy, President, Mary Hardin Baylor College, Belton, Texas.

Students & Escorts Enjoy Party; Queen of Hearts Chosen

Program In Auditorium, Radio Broadcast; Dulin Announces

Last night at 8:30 the Freshmen and Juniors were hostesses at a Valentine party.

The first part of the program took place in the auditorium. The entertainment was based on the idea of a radio program. The stage was decorated with a huge heart, and the announcer, Lucille Dulin dressed like cupid, broadcasted from station L-O-V-E. By different doors in the heart, the performers entered.

One of the main features was the singing of Margaret Trobaugh, Jean Carter, and Miriam Dodd Little as the Queen's trio. Another attractive feature was the minuet danced as it had been in old America. Besides the American minuet, French, Spanish, African, Italian, and Dutch dances were interpreted. The French dance was a solo by Margaret Land. Following the Grand Finale, the guests went to the dining hall that was beautifully decorated with conventional Valentine colors.

Games were played and fortunes printed on hearts were distributed.

The big moment of the party came with the election of a queen for the evening. From the eight girls nominated in chapel Wednesday morning, the queen was chosen, and she chose a king to be crowned with her. (Owing to the date the paper goes to press, it is impossible to give out the names of the king and queen).

Essay Contest Open to College Students

Panhellenic House Association of New York Invites Entries; Subject, "Why I Should See New York."

The Panhellenic House Association of New York extends an invitation to students in the colleges and universities of the United States and Canada to participate in the Second Annual Nationwide Essay Contest on the subject "Why I Should See New York."

As a result of the success of the first contest which aroused widespread interest, the Panhellenic House Association this year is making the second contest available to all college and university students in the thought that it will prove an interesting adventure in the literary field and useful to all students majoring in English, History, Commerce, and associated subjects.

But further than its usefulness, the contest has the inviting and practical aspect of offering a first prize of $100 plus a week's all expense stay with entertainment at the Beekman Tower, or, should the winner live such a distance from New York that the cash award of $100 is insufficient to cover traveling expenses, the railroad fare to New York and return will be paid in lieu of the $100.

The first prize winner of the recent contest was a student from Detroit whose essay was printed in New York newspapers and who visited the New York she wrote about in her essay.

Included in her entertainment were visits to the plant of a great Metropolitan newspaper where she "put the paper to bed," to a national
